Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—With victorious Democrats exchanging greetings with vanquished Republicans at the hoosg and the senate also in perfunctory session, the newly-elected congress was inaugurated today.

John Nance Garner [Dem., Tex.] was elected speaker, the first Democrat to fill that position in twelve years.

The two houses joined in sending a committee to notify President Hoover that congress is in session and ready to receive any communication he may desire to make. He informed the committee that he would transmit tomorrow his annual message on the "State of the Union."

Name Joint Steering Committee.

With the house in their control and the senate only nominally controlled by the Republicans, the Democrats spent some time in taking steps toward the formulation of a program of legislation designed to command their party solidarity in the presidential election of next year. The Democratic leaders of the house and senate met following the administration today and appointed a joint committee of 25 members to formulate the policy of the party in congress. It is to begin its deliberations as soon as the President's message is submitted. The members of the committee are:

Senate—Senators Robinson of Arkansas, floor leader; Walsh of Montana, Wagner of Massachusetts, Bulkley of Ohio, Pittman of Nevada, Glass of Virginia, Barclay of Kentucky, Bulkley of Ohio, Warner of New York, Hull of Tennessee.

Wisconsin Radicals Bolt.

In the attendance of members of the house it broke all records, only two seats of the 435 being vacant. Mr. Garner received 216 votes, while Bertrand H. Snell, the Republican candidate for speaker, received 207.

There were five votes for George J. Schneider of Wisconsin, radical Republican, cast by four other radical Wisconsin Republicans—Amlie, Kading, Lampert and Withrow—and by the Farmer Laborite, Paul J. Kvale of Minnesota. Garner, Snell and Schneider voted "present."

The latter's slender but sufficient margin of the Democrats, inhaling the intoxicating fumes of victory, could hardly wait to get to action. When the matter of adoption of the rules came up, they had been so often steam rollered by Republicans in the last 12 years that their own steam roller and engineer for the minority side of the house, Representative Snell of New York, received scarcely a glance.

Minority Protests.

There were cries of indignation and protest from the new minority when the majority rules proposed by the committee, including the proposal that committees may procure the discharge of a committee had been read to the clerk in a general hubbub of protesting members from grasping the provisions.

The committee discharge rule provides that the vets will be able to force action on repeal of prohibition or any measure it is acceptable to Republicans by whom it was framed, but the Democrats had the votes and were succeeding in trying to put over others in spite of the confusion of the minority.

Democrats pleaded that they had not had time to hear the details of the new rules explained by the Democrats and for consideration be postponed until tomorrow, when both Democratic and Republican revision proposals would be in print.

Rainey Finally Gives In.

Finally Representative Henry Rainey, who had framed the new Democratic rules for the new Democratic leader, Garner, gave his consent to his denial of this appeal and gave the signal for the steam roller to start. But Charles R. Crisp of Georgia, who drafted the new rules for Democrats, took the part of Garner and urged postponement, but Mr. Rainey melted, and the steam roller began its work.

GOVERNOR AND CERMAK AGREE; ASSESSORS OUT

O. K. Plan to Abolish 2 Cook Boards.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—In a three hour conference in the executive mansion which wound up at midnight, it was definitely agreed that the Democrats and Republicans in the general assembly will unite in support of the plan to abolish the present boards of assessment and review in Cook county and replace them with an appointive board consisting of one assessor and two reviewers.

Those who participated in the more or less secret talk were Mayor A. J. Cermak of Chicago, Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, and Senator Richard J. Barr, Republican president protem of the upper chamber. Other leaders such as Roger P. Little and Michael L. Igoe, majority floor leader and minority leader, respectively, of the house of representatives would have been present, but inquiry developed that they had not yet reached town for the meeting tomorrow.

O. K. Joint Committee.

The conferees also agreed to the creation of the joint committee of two houses which was approved by the large conference of legislators and officials held in Mayor Cermak's office last Saturday. This joint committee is to start cooperating immediately with the officials of the local governments of Cook county in an effort to fix upon a definite schedule of procedure behind a precise program of legislation.

It will hold its first meeting at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow in the governor's office with the governor sitting in and with the Cook county men participating.

Soon after Mayor Cermak and a strong Chicago delegation arrived here in the early evening it was reported the mayor had determined that in his talk before the joint session of the two houses tomorrow morning he would stand firmly behind the recommendations of Gov. Emmerson's tax conferees for the reconstruction of Cook county's taxing machinery.

Since the Democrats with three members are in full control of the board of assessors and split the control of the board of review with one Republican, Edward R. Litsinger, this report was considered the answer to one of the biggest questions asked concerning the effect of the conference report.

Ignores Party Advantage.

The understanding among members of the mayor's party was that he had become so firmly convinced that conformity with this abolition recommendation was necessary for the restoration of public confidence and credit that he had decided to ignore all questions of party advantage.

Therefore there was little surprise expressed when the general nature of the executive mansion agreement became known. But there was deep interest aroused when it was disclosed that the method agreed upon for the selection of the one assessor and the two reviewers under the proposed plan differed widely from the recommendation of the governor's conference.

The agreement now goes this far. One of the two reviewers would be appointed by the governor. The other reviewer would be appointed by the president of the county board. Those two reviewers would be authorized to select the assessor, this arrangement being proposed as an adequate means of meeting the demand that a technically trained man be in charge of the appraisal and assessment of property.

Ten Days to Pick Assessor.

The two reviewers, it was agreed, would be given ten days in which to select the assessor. In the event they fail to do so within the time limit the choice would be made by the judges of the state Supreme court.

How radically different this proposal is from the recommendation of the governor's tax conference was shown by the fact that the conference proposed that all three members of the new board be appointed by the president of the county board with the approval of the board.

It is understood the midnight conference indicated a lack of faith in the success—and some lack of interest—in the income tax bill. Doubt was expressed by all present, it was said, that it would aid materially in the present emergency. And there was criticism of the tax conference proposal for the creation of a new $400,000 department to collect the tax.

End Is Sudden in Office of Her Physician

Mrs. Rue Winterbotham Carpenter, wife of John Alden Carpenter, died suddenly yesterday afternoon in the waiting room of the office of Dr. Walter H. Theobald, 307 North Michigan avenue.

With her daughter, Miss Genevieve Carpenter, she had gone to the physician's office for treatment for a cold. Soon after she was seated she slumped down in her chair. Dr. Theobald was called at once and he enlisted the aid of Dr. Max Bloomthal, but Mrs. Carpenter's death occurred a few minutes later. The direct cause, according to the physicians, was cerebral hemorrhage.

A Leader in Charity Ball.

Mrs. Carpenter, who was in the early fifties, had been suffering from high blood pressure in recent months. In spite of her ailment she was active in the interest of the charity ball to be held on Dec. 19, having been placed in charge of the redecorating of the Auditorium for the event.

An additional element of strain, it was said, was the preparation for the wedding of Miss Carpenter to Patrick Chamberlin Hill, set for Dec. 21.

A native of Joliet, Mrs. Carpenter was the daughter of John and Genevieve Baldwin Winterbotham and was brought to Chicago as a child by her parents. In 1900 she was married to Mr. Carpenter, who is a vice president of George B. Carpenter & Co., ship chandlers and dealers in mill and railway supplies, and a music composer.

Art Her Chief Interest.

Although a favorite in Chicago society, Mrs. Carpenter's greatest interest since her childhood days had been the art world. She decorated the Casino club when it was originated. She had been president of the Arts club for seventeen years and in collaboration with Arthur Heun decorated its new quarters. The Racquet club at Dearborn and Schiller streets furnished another opportunity for her to display her talent as a decorator.

So marked was this talent that she was asked to superintend the art work in the Elizabeth Arden building and the Vanderbilt suite in the new Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York. She delivered a number of lectures here and in the east on interior decoration.

An Accomplished Linguist.

Mrs. Carpenter spent much of her time in Europe and was an accomplished linguist. She came in contact with many of the modern artists and is credited with attracting several of them to Chicago as a scene for their work. She was herself an advocate of the modern schools. Among those who painted portraits of her are Phillpot, McElvoy, Harrington Mann, Nicholson, and Lavery.

Mrs. Carpenter was a sister-in-law of Federal Judge George A. Carpenter, of Hubbard Carpenter, and of the late Benjamin Carpenter. She was the sister of Joseph Winterbotham and the late John H. Winterbotham.

Boy Is Born in Nebraska, His Twin Sister in Iowa

Sioux City, Ia., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—Twins, a son and a daughter, were born to Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Simpson of South Sioux City, Neb., early Sunday morning. The son was born at the family home shortly after midnight and then the mother and the babe were hurried in an ambulance to a Sioux City hospital. An hour later the daughter was born. So one baby is a native of Nebraska and the other of Iowa.

I. C. C. MODIFIES POOL SCHEME TO SUIT CARRIERS

Increase Hits All But Farm Products.

Labor Parley Begins

Railway labor chiefs representing a million and a half workers all over the United States open Chicago sessions which will determine their attitude on wage reductions and plans to relieve unemployment. (Details on page 2.)

(United Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—Increased freight rates on all commodities except farm products, and live stock were granted the railroads of the country today by the interstate commerce commission.

The increases are expected to furnish the roads with 100 million dollars additional revenue which is to be used as loans for the financial relief of the weaker roads.

The increases also apply to switching, lighterage and storage charges and will go into effect as soon as the roads file formal application for permission to mark up their rate cards.

Extent of Increases.

Under the commission's decision the increases may be summarized as follows:

Six cents per ton or 3,000 pounds in carloads, anthracite and bituminous coal, lead and zinc ores, stone, sand, gravel, and crushed; pulpwood, furnace slag, gravel and sand and products of mines as bauxite, bituminous rock, iron pyrites and so forth.

Twelve cents per ton in carloads, grain, grain products, livestock, coke and shingles, logs, cord and cordwood, materials, pig iron, veneer and built up wood and lumber made of domestic or Canadian wood or Mexican pine, products of mines as meerschitte, china clay, slate, soapstone, etc., products of forests.

One cent per 100 pounds: Tobacco leaf, oranges and grapefruit, cantaloupes and melons, tomatoes, cabbage, onions, peanuts, [raw], products of agriculture, stone [finished], petroleum products, fertilizers, brick and building tile, rosin, turpentine, pine tar.

On all other commodities including less than car load freight there may be an increase of 2 cents per 100 pounds.

Original Request 15 Per Cent.

The railroads originally requested a flat 15 per cent rate increase. This the commission disallowed, but instead drew up an order issued Oct. 20, providing for increases in carload rates on a large number of basic commodities up to 6½ per car and increases of two cents per 100 pounds on certain less-than-carload classifications. The commission's plan contained a provision that the additional revenues accruing as the result of the increased rates, estimated at 100 to 125 millions, should be pooled and distributed among the weaker roads.

The commission's order today supplements and modifies its original order in response to a petition of the Association of Railway Executives, which objects strongly to the commission's plan that the distributio... of the pooled funds should be administered in the form of "gratuities."

I. C. C. Takes Hands Off.

The commission, in today's decision, declared it could "neither approv nor disapprove either the loaning plan or the agency the carriers say they expect and intend to use in making that plan effective." It said the plan of the executives would not be "pooling" within the meaning of the interstate commerce act and that congress had not given it jurisdiction to act on proposals such as that made by the executives.

Although the commission said its decisions "will leave them [the railroads] free to apply [in the premises their own loaning plan" and that "we rely on them to apply the funds to be derived from the authorized increases in rates in aid of financially weak railroads in accord nce with the purposes expressed in our original report," the railroads are not required to adopt any plan whatever.

Can Forget Weak Roads.

The commission's sanction was given "without any restriction, with the result that if not enough carriers assent to the credit corporation idea, the railroads may benefit individually from the increased rates without acting to relieve the financial condition of the weaker roads.

This presents a marked departure from the original decision in the 15 per cent rate case. In the latter it was required that to take advantage of the increases recommended the

NUT IN LUNGS KILLS GIRL; TWO BOYS ARE SAVED

DRY AGENT HELD FOR GRAND JURY IN KILLING CASE

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Franklin A. McCartney, a federal prohibition agent of Anniston, Ala., was bound over to the Montgomery county grand jury today for slaying A. F. Day in a rooming house here Monday night of last week.

Judge J. W. Thorington of the Court of Common Pleas, ordered the case to the grand jury and fixed McCartney's bond at $1,000 after the agent pleaded not guilty at a preliminary hearing.

The officer testified he shot in self defense after Day attacked him in a bath room of the house.

Judge Thorington said the only question in his mind was "whether he [McCartney] used too much force in defending himself."

Two policemen who arrested McCartney testified there was an odor of whisky about him and that they took three bottles of liquor from him.

Timothy J. Crowe, president of the sanitary district board during the whoopee era of 1927-28 and former head of the local Democratic party organization, used public funds to pay indirectly, an employe of one of his private business enterprises. Evidence to this effect was introduced yesterday in the opening session of the trial of Crowe and seven other trustees, former trustees and officials of the sanitary district, who were placed on trial in the courtroom of Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court on charges of graft conspiracy.

Thirty former payrollers of the district went on the witness stand in rapid succession and testified that they took approximately $45,151 from the public treasury during the Crowe regime without doing any work except to attend meetings, look at the lake level and collect pay checks twice a month. One man wrote essays on the flag and sanitation.

Charges by Prosecutor.

The first direct testimony against Crowe, however, is trifling compared with what is to come later in the trial, according to the opening statement of First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup, who is prosecuting the case. The prosecutor made three main charges of graft against the defendants. They are:

1. That large sums of money—as high as $100,000 at a time—were withdrawn by George L. Chamberlain, president of the U. S. A. Electrical company, sometimes before contracts were let directly or sublet to his concern, and at other times immediately after the start of work. At about the same time the bank accounts of the various defendants showed huge cash deposits. When Chamberlain was not operating for the district, directly or indirectly, the cash deposits of some of the defendants ceased. These deposits represented graft payments, it is charged by the state.

Tells of Whisky Gifts.

2. That some of the trustees received as high as 25 cases of whisky a month from some of the concerns which were given the sanitary district's business in lots of less than $500, in order to evade the contract law. Witnesses will testify that the price of the whisky was added to the bill against the district, the prosecutor said.

3. That the pay rolls were padded for all kinds of purposes and that the trustees not only benefited politically thereby, but financially.

The direct testimony against Crowe to the effect that he used sanitary district funds to pay an employe came from Charles A. Peterson, 4705 North Troy street, a tailor designer. He revealed that Crowe, in addition to being a politician and a banker, is also a tailor. He is a partner in the tailoring concern of Crowe, Sullivan and Quinlan, 134 North La Salle street. Peterson revealed how, indirectly, money he received from the sanitary district was used to pay his salary from the tailoring concern. He was questioned by Prosecutor Northup as follows:

Q.—Did you do any work for the sanitary district? A.—No, sir. I did cutting and tailoring for the firm of Crowe, Sullivan & Quinlan.

Q.—How much salary did you receive? A.—From the tailoring company I was paid $65 a week. I was on the district pay roll at $250 per month. Checks to a total of $2,250 were made out in my name.

"Checks Deposited for Company."

Q.—After receiving these pay roll checks what did you do with them? A.—I turned them over to Mr. Sullivan of the tailoring firm after I signed them. He deposited them in the account of the tailoring firm in the First National bank of Oak Park. I didn't get any of this money.

Q.—How did you get your job at the district? A.—As far as I know Quinlan sent a letter to Crowe.

Judge Fisher then asked:

railroads would serve to agree on a plan for the pooling of revenues resulting and their distribution among the various weaker carriers.

The decision was reached by a majority of seven to four and brought from Commissioner Joseph B. Eastman what is regarded by some as his most vigorous dissent since becoming a member of the federal body. He was joined in his dissenting opinion by commissioners McManamy, Porter, and Mahaffie.

Other Changes Made.

The principal modification to the original plan was the loan feature, though this also was granted to several other proposed changes, one of which substitutes increases on certain heavy carload traffic to "5 cents per net ton" for the commission's method of a flat increase in "dollars per car" and a 10 per cent increase in lighterage charges not absorbed in the line haul rate, along with non-absorbed switching charges which were increased by that amount.

Another modification was the establishment of an increase of 3 cents more on general less-than-carload rates. Fuel increases as originally applied applied only to a limited number of the less-than-carload rates.

The increased rates, unless suspended by the commission prior to that date, will become in effect until March 1, 1923.

WILLARD WON'T COMMENT.

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, who is in the city, last night declined to comment on the action of the interstate commerce commission in withdrawing its former decision that railroad revenues derived from rate increases be pooled and distributed among the weaker roads.

"I will put nothing on the subject until I have studied the interstate commerce commission's report and have received an opinion from our attorneys on it," he stated.

TIPSY TWO GUN BANDIT KEEPS POLICE ON JUMP

A drunken bandit with two guns kept half a dozen thirsty squads dashing hither and yon in three south side police districts last night as he went from robbery to robbery. At midnight he had robbed one tire store, one pennyarcade poker game, one restaurant, and two delicatessens and was still at liberty.

He first entered the Ideal food shop at 7201 Vincennes avenue and took $1 from Mrs. Axel Wollner. Then he fired two bullets, cowboy fashion, into the ceiling and ordered Mrs. Wollner and a customer, Mrs. Walter Tucker of 7861 Lafayette avenue, to dance. Then he fled.

Next, he took $40 from Patrick Walsh in his tire store at 21 East 71st street. Then, at 7510 Perry avenue, he sang a ball at the home of Walter Hoffman, where a little card game was in progress. From Hoffman he took a fiver and from John Schneider, 7545 Princeton avenue, $1.

In the restaurant of Ralph Scavoni at 132 West 79th street the bandit obtained $37 and two watches. He stopped out and was next heard from near 79th street and Vincennes avenue, where he called to report that he had demanded a drink of milk in a delicatessen. He was gone again before the police arrived.

Two Injured, 2 Seriously, in Fire at Wedding

Two negroes were burned and injured, two seriously, when fire broke out late last night in the home of Caserta Pearson, at 3805 South Michigan Avenue, where a wedding was in progress. About twenty-five persons, including guests and tenants of the building, were trapped above the first floor. Several jumped before firemen arrived. Those most seriously injured and burned were Dr. J. C. Childress, 38 East 56th place, and Mrs. Ital Cochrane, a tenant of the building. She leaped from the third floor. Both were taken to the Daley hospital where it was said they might die.

RAILWAY LABOR LEADERS START CHICAGO PARLEY

Wage Cut Issue Will Be Raised Tomorrow.

BY JOHN BORTTIGER.

Railway labor chiefs from all over the United States yesterday began the consideration of problems which are recognized as of vital importance in the economic status of the nation.

The union leaders are not expected to solve all the problems, but their attitude on proposed wage cuts and methods of relieving unemployment will go far toward determining the future financial plight of American railroads. Economists concede that unless the railroads soon find smoother going they will be in sorry straits, and the effect of this, it is declared, would seriously trouble the financial structure of the country.

The first matters taken up by the representatives of a million and a half railway workers, in their initial sessions yesterday at the Palmer House, concerned mostly internal problems affecting a more equitable division of existing jobs among the workers.

Important Meeting Tomorrow.

The most important of the sessions will be held tomorrow, when 1,500 chairmen, representing all branches of railway unions, will take up the plea of the railway managements for a general 10 per cent wage cut.

Leaders among the union men attending yesterday's sessions were divided on what action would result at the general meeting tomorrow, but they were practically unanimous in voicing unofficial opinions that such a cut will not be accepted, and that if any decrease is considered, many conditions will be attached to the agreement by which the unions will receive additional rights.

Several possibilities were suggested as to the probable action of the union officials. One of the leaders said he believed the conference would go no further than to adopt a plan whereby the wage cut problem would be left in the hands of the Railway Labor Executives' association, with instructions to insist upon improvements in employment conditions in return for accepting any pay reductions.

May Continue Negotiations.

The Railway Labor Executives' association, which consists of the heads of the 21 major railway unions, has been engaged in conferences with the railroad presidents on unemployment questions and might be authorized by the entire group of union chairmen to continue these negotiations. This was considered an optimistic view of the probable outcome of tomorrow's meeting, some leaders holding to the opinion that the wage cut appeal will be turned down, with the unions making counter suggestions for the improvement of the railroads' financial condition.

It was also considered a possibility that the union men, disputing the necessity for cutting their pay, will recommend that the matter be taken up by the federal board of mediation, in this manner bringing an outside, public influence into the picture.

The union men might have a friend at court if federal intervention is obtained, it was pointed out. Secretary of Labor William N. Doak, who might exert considerable influence with the board of mediation, is a former railway labor man, having been the legislative representative for the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and editor of a railway trainmen's magazine.

The national leaders of the union men, it is reported, are privately of the opinion that a wage cut must be accepted, but their position, as stated, is that the cut should be no more stringent than to absolutely necessary, and that if a cut is made, working conditions must be improved.

It was about the latter problem that yesterday's conference revolved. Several hundred department chairmen of five principal unions met to hear and consider a report prepared by a committee of 25 of their members on ways and means of bettering working conditions.

The committee was appointed a year ago, seven men being selected from each of the five unions, which include the "Big Four"—the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, the Order of Railway Conductors, and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen—and a fifth union, the Switchmen's Union of North America.

Report Six Hour Day Approved.

The report was not made public, but is understood to have recommended the adoption of a six hour day in place of the present eight hour day. This, it is believed, would create jobs for 50,000 members of the unions who have been laid off because of the reduced traffic of the railroads.

Although some of the union men have asserted the six hour day should be adopted without any decrease in the daily wage of the employés, most of them concede that if the plan is put into effect those now employed must take a cut in pay corresponding to the cut in working hours.

The committee also considered altering the present seniority rules governing the retention of employés. Under these rules, locomotive engineers, for example, rate in seniority above firemen. When trains are taken off by the railroads, firemen are laid off, and engineers are reduced in rank to firemen, taking their places and their reduced wages.

The result of this, it was said, has been an alarming condition of unemployment in the firemen's unions, and much lesser trouble in the engineers' forces.

The same rules apply to conductors and trainmen, and the trainmen's unions have suffered while the conductors were not seriously affected.

The firemen and trainmen have sought the adoption of changes in these rules, whereby a greater degree of stability may be enjoyed by their groups, but in this they have been opposed, it is reported, by the conductors and engineers.

At the end of the session at 5 o'clock last evening D. B. Robertson, who as chairman of the Railway Labor Executives association, presided over the meeting, announced that the report of the committee had been considered during the afternoon, and that this morning the chairmen in each of the five unions would hold separate meetings to debate their opinions and arrive at an agreed position. This afternoon, then, another joint session will be held at which action may be taken by the group as a whole.

Mr. Robertson, who is also president of the firemen's union, said that the question of making the report public and announcing the result of this afternoon's session will be decided at the latter meeting.

Canadian Railmen Voting.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—Due to present vote taking activities among Canadian trainmen on acceptance or rejection of a 10 per cent wage reduction, Canadian delegates will be absent from the meeting of American railway labor leaders in Chicago. General chairmen of the five Canadian railway branches affected by the wage reduction will meet in Montreal on Dec. 15 to receive the Canadian vote result.

Religious Fete Pilgrims Now Crowd Mexico City

Mexico City, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The greatest crowd seen here in many years have invaded the city for the Virgin of Guadalupe religious anniversary celebration, and has taxed the city's tourist accommodations. Railroads were forced to borrow many passenger cars from the United States to handle the traffic.

YOUNG SLAYER GRANTED STAY OF EXECUTION

Governor Allows 30 Days for Court Appeal.

Gov. Emmerson granted a 30 day reprieve yesterday to Russell McWilliams, 17 years old, of Rockford, who was scheduled to die in the electric chair at Joliet prison next Friday for the murder of William Sayles, elderly street car conductor. Sayles was shot to death in a holdup at Rockford last August.

In issuing the reprieve, Gov. Emmerson made clear that his action was not influenced by the pleas of social workers and juvenile experts, who in the last 48 hours have flooded his office with telegraphed requests that the death sentence be commuted to life imprisonment.

"The reprieve is granted solely to permit the defendant to appeal to the state Supreme court," the governor said.

Attorney Plans Petition.

McWilliams' attorney, B. J. Knight of Rockford, announced he would immediately prepare a petition to the Supreme court asking that the death sentence be set aside as "cruel and excessive." Knight, with the assistance of Attorney Clarence Darrow of Chicago, has already appealed unsuccessfully to the state parole board and to Gov. Emmerson on the same basis.

When Deputy Warden E. M. Stubblefield took the news of the reprieve to the prison death house, McWilliams dropped his Bible and tossed his cap to the ceiling.

"Just think," he exclaimed to his mother, Mrs. Maggie McWilliams. "This morning we were talking about my funeral and now we have one more fighting chance. It must have been the prayers of those men and women who are helping me."

Comment of Prosecutor.

Commenting on the governor's action, State's Attorney William D. Knight of Rockford expressed doubt that the reprieve, in its ultimate aspect, would benefit the youth.

"I doubt that the Supreme court will find anything in the record to justify intervention," said the prosecutor. "The boy shot a defenseless citizen without provocation. He denied he was intoxicated at the time. The record shows he was cool enough for he afterwards held up two motorists to assist him in flight.

"His attorney tried to dicker with us for leniency and failed. Nevertheless, he advised the boy to plead guilty. After sentence was imposed, the attorney made no motion for a new trial, nor did he ask a reduction of the sentence from the judge who heard the evidence."

STOP TO ASSIST AUTOISTS; ROBBED AND TIED TO TREE

Two men, stopping to befriend five supposedly stalled motorists, were held up last night, then taken to the forest preserve near Calumet City and tied to a tree. The victims were Paul Lukowski, 45 years old, of 4104 Codd avenue, East Chicago, Ind., and Edward Caspanier, 34, of 1105 Michigan avenue, Hammond, Ind.

Lukowski and Caspanier were driving in Michigan avenue, Calumet City, when they came upon the quintet seated in their car at the Pennsylvania tracks. One of the five signaled to the two to halt, calling out they were stalled. Caspanier and Lukowski stopped. The five men drew guns. Three of them boarded their victims' machine, the other two following, and forced them to the preserve.

There they tied them to a tree with rope, took $20 from Caspanier and $210 from Lukowski. They also took the latter's car. Lukowski and Caspanier freed themselves fifteen minutes later.

CLEANING TRADE AGAIN IN GRIP OF TERRORISM

Institute vs. Independents, Merchants Say.

Terrorism has returned to the cleaning industry of Chicago, with beatings, acid throwing, arson, sluggings and maimings. The violence has been felt by nonmembers of the Cleaners and Dyers institute, which was organized to purge the industry of racketeering and put a stop to price wars.

Independent operators predict another reign of strife and say it will end in the dissolution of the institute. The institute's members they say, cannot continue to charge $1.25 for cleaning a suit or a dress, for the price of everything else has gone down and the public will patronize the cash and carry cleaners.

Vandalism Crops Out.

The industry enjoyed comparative peace following the organization of the institute, with Dr. E. M. Gaubys as dictator, more than two years ago, but in recent weeks the old vandalism which that organization sought to curb has cropped out again.

The La Grange plant of Irving Abarbanell, who long has fought the cleaners' union and refused to join the institute, was bombed last Thursday with a $2,000 loss. Ten sticks of dynamite were placed at the Evanston store of the Sterling Cleaners, 703 South State street, and a bad percussion cap saved the place from being wrecked.

Break Leg of Driver.

A young driver for the Harvard Cleaners, 59 South State street, was stopped by three hoodlums on North Kilpatrick avenue, one of whom broke one of his legs with an iron pipe. A truck load of clothing returning from a plant at East Chicago to make deliveries to the Bell, the Browning and the Loop cleaners, all independents, was stopped by three other hoodlums and the contents covered with acid. The damage was estimated at several thousand dollars.

A bottle of acid was hurled at a window of Metro cleaners, 177 North State street, but the bottle missed the window. Fires have broken out in independent plants, and these are believed to have been caused by gas bombs in the bags of clothing.

The institute's backing is the independent operators, lead in suit with the powder and send it to a nonunion place to be cleaned. Friction in the dry cleaning drum ignites the powder and causes a fire. Half a dozen fires are said to have been started in this manner at the Michigan Cleaners and Dyers, 834 and Loomis streets, which was recently bombed, and a similar blaze occurred in the Abarbanell plant.

Many Threats of Death.

Many of the independent cleaners have reported receiving threats of death. There was one report that M. Summers, manager of the Sterling cleaners, had the city bombed by threats. Mr. Summers, however, denied this.

The victims of these attacks place the responsibility on the Cleaners and Dyers institute, which, they charge, is still filled with racketeers despite any efforts made by Dr. Eustree to clean it up. Most of the attacks have been directed against members of the Downtown Cleaners' association, consisting of 21 "cash and carry" operators in the loop. These men will not join the institute, which protests 3 per cent of all receipts, and they will not employ union labor. They charge from sixty to eighty cents for cleaning a suit or a dress, as compared with the institute's $1.25.

Yesterday notices were sent out to all members of the institute that they must increase the salaries of their drivers 2 per cent for a route paying $100 a week, 4 per cent for $100 a week, etc., and this is expected to enhance the discontent, for some of the smaller cleaners are unable, it is said, to pay their wage bills.

LENZ-JACOBY LEAD FIRST TEST OF WHIST GAME

Beat Culbertsons in Night's Contest.

New York, Dec. 8, 1 a. m.—Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby won two of three rubbers played in their 150-point contract bridge match with Mr. and Mrs. Ely Culbertson. Lenz and Jacoby were 1,715 points ahead when play was adjourned at 12:55 a. m. this morning until tonight.

The play took place in the Culbertson apartment in the Hotel Chatham and no spectators were permitted.

The match, which probably will last about six weeks, is intended to test the relative merits of the approach-forcing bidding system of the Culbertsons and the 1-3-5 system developed by Mr. Lenz. Mr. Culbertson has wagered $5,000 against Mr. Lenz's side of $1,000, the proceeds in any case to go to charity.

Despite rather ragged play, the evening's result of the nervous strain under which all the players were laboring, Lenz and Jacoby won the first two rubbers and then inflicted a costly defeat on Mrs. Culbertson on the opening hand of the third rubber. They set her two tricks doubled on a six heart contract for a penalty of 1,000 points.

Forgets What's Trumps.

In the opinion of observers Mr. Lenz and Mr. Jacoby had a decided superiority in the run of the cards up to this point but had failed to take full advantage of this fact. Mr. Lenz went down two at four no trump on a hand on which he could have made a small slam. He explained later that he had been under the impression that diamonds were trumps.

When, after long delays, the players were seated, Mr. Culbertson explained his system at considerable length and added that he and Mrs. Culbertson would, as a rule, indulge in "psychic" or bluff bids only when not vulnerable and after partner had passed. Mr. Lenz also explained his system and each urged the other to feel free to ask questions at any time about fine points of the other's bidding systems.

Mr. Lenz won the cut and chose the North seat, with Mr. Jacoby opposite him in the South. Mrs. Culbertson chose the East chair and her husband, of course, took the West position.

How Hands Were Played.

On the first hand Jacoby was set one in playing three no trump and Mr. Culbertson went into the lead 50 points. The other hands follow:

HAND 2—The Culbertsons contracted for two diamonds and went down four. On hand No. 3 Lenz contracted for four hearts and made it. Score to date: Lenz, 370.

HAND 4—Lenz contracted for four no trump and was set two.

HAND 5—Mrs. Culbertson contracted for one no trump and was set one. Net score: Lenz, 20.

HAND 6—Jacoby contracted for three diamonds and made six. Score: Lenz 90, Jacoby, 230.

HAND 7—Lenz contracted for four hearts and went down. Score: Lenz, 130.

HAND 8—Jacoby contracted for three spades and made it, giving his side game on the first rubber with 920 points.

RUBBER TWO.

HAND 9—Jacoby contracted for four spades doubled. He went down three. Score: Lenz net 530.

HAND 10—Lenz contracted for four hearts and made seven. Score: Lenz, 790.

HAND 11—Lenz fulfilled a contract of five spades, making the second rubber. Score: Lenz 1,610.

RUBBER THREE.

HAND 12—Mrs. Culbertson contracted for six hearts. Lenz doubled. Mrs. Culbertson was set five. Score: Lenz 2,610.

HAND 13—Mrs. Culbertson fulfilled a contract of two spades, having 100 in honors. Score: Lenz 2,450.

HAND 14—Jacoby contracted for four spades, Mrs. Culbertson doubling. He went down one. Score: Lenz, 2,350.

HAND 15—Lenz went down two on a contract of three spades. Score: Lenz, 2,250.

HAND 16—Culbertson contracted for three hearts and made four, giving him game. Net score: Lenz, 2,110.

HAND 17—Lenz contracted for three no trump and made five. Net score: 2,215 for Lenz.

HAND 18—Lenz contracted for two diamonds and made six. Net score: Lenz, 2,555.

HAND 19—Jacoby contracted for one spade and made two. Net score: Lenz, 2,535.

HAND 20—Culbertson contracted for four hearts and went down one. Net score: Lenz, 2,735.

HAND 21—Mrs. Culbertson contracted for one spade and made three. Net score: Lenz, 2,605.

HAND 22—Jacoby was set two on a contract of two no trump. Net score: Lenz, 2,305.

HAND 23—Mrs. Culbertson fulfilled a contract of three hearts, which with previous count gave her game and rubber on the last hand of the first session. Lenz and Jacoby finished the session 1,715 points ahead.

WOMAN TELLS OF $20,000 HIDDEN IN CHICAGO HOUSE

Mrs. Ida Silver, who was placed in jail at Miami, Fla., on Saturday on a charge of contempt of court, was released yesterday when she promised to turn over $20,000 to the federal court by Dec. 21. She asserted that she had hidden the money in the basement of her former home, 871 North Dearborn street, Chicago.

A rooming house at that address is now conducted by Mrs. Eli Ginsberg, a sister of Mrs. Silver. She said last night that she knew of no buried treasure there, adding that her sister and the latter's husband, Samuel I. Silver, were practically destitute in Florida.

"I have been sending them every cent I could earn with this house," Mrs. Ginsberg declared. "There is no use asking the police to guard my basement; there is no money there."

Samuel Silver has been adjudged a bankrupt and the federal court in Miami has ordered that he remain in jail until $40,000 he is alleged to have hidden is found. He left Chicago about a year ago.

HASKELLS TELL PARIS DISCORD, HOME EXPENSES

Banker and Wife Testify in Separation Suit.

Family finances and stories of domestic discord in Paris and Chicago were revealed yesterday in the testimony of Frederick Tudor Haskell, and of his wife, Mrs. Lila Hotz Haskell, in her separate maintenance suit.

Mrs. Haskell, who was the former Mrs. Robert S. Hotz, widow of a Chicago capitalist and realtor, filed the suit on Sept. 22, charging cruelty. Her husband, aged 77, a director of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company and the Elgin Watch company, and identified with various philanthropic organizations, denied her charges in a brief answer. He said he allowed Mrs. Haskell $1,000 a month and that it took about $1,800 a month to run his Lake Shore drive home.

The testimony, "led in the Circuit court yesterday, is about 300 pages in length. It was taken over a period of several weeks before Master in Chancery Roswell B. Mason.

Episode in Ritz Hotel.

In her deposition Mrs. Haskell states she was married to Haskell in December, 1919. For years, she said, it was their custom to spend their summers abroad. In September, 1929, while living at the Ritz in Paris, her husband choked her, she declared.

"Mr. Haskell became very angry," she testified, "because I told him I thought we were staying too long in Paris, that I thought it would be better for his health to go where there would be better air. He grabbed me by the throat and choked me and left black and blue marks on my throat."

Cross-examination by Attorney David O. Dunbar, who represented Mr. Haskell, elicited the following after Mrs. Haskell testified that she and Mr. Haskell dined out in the evening after the choking episode:

Q.—Did you have these black and blue marks on your neck when you went out in the evening? A.—Did you wear an evening gown? A.—I always wear an evening gown in Paris.

Q.—Would the bruises show the imprint of the hand on the throat? A.—They did.

Q.—Was that imprint apparent to any one with whom you dined that night? A.—It was not mentioned.

A Lake Shore Drive Quarrel.

Mrs. Haskell said that her husband struck her on Aug. 8, at their home, 1200 Lake Shore drive, where Mr. Haskell now resides. Mrs. Haskell is living at the Lake Shore Drive hotel, 181 Lake Shore drive.

"It happened after breakfast," she testified. "It was in the long hall which leads from the dining room to bedrooms. I told Mr. Haskell I was suffering from ptomaine, that Dr. George Dick had traced it to the methods of his cook and I requested that he instruct her to be cleaner. He told me to stop my damned nonsense and struck me with his fist on the shoulder. He is very strong.

"I said to him, 'Fred, I simply cannot leave you. We are not of an age to do a vulgar thing like this.' He turned and walked away."

"The next day he came into my bedroom and said, 'What time are you leaving?' And I said, 'Fred, darling, do you wish me to go?' He said, 'You shall not live another day under my roof.' Then I packed my trunks."

Mr. Haskell's testimony dealt largely with finances. One question, put to him by Mrs. Haskell's attorney, Walter Bachrach, was:

Q.—The walls of your apartment were paneled at a considerable expense within the last year or two, were they not? A.—Yes. It cost me about $45,000, but I did not want to go into it.

$35,000 for Trips Abroad.

Mr. Haskell, after telling of his wife's $1,000 a month allowance and the $1,800 a month cost of his home, testified that the trips abroad cost a total of $35,000 during the years 1926 to 1930.

He asserted that his net capital worth amounted to $1,602,368, not including 42 oil paintings valued at $330,415. "I never fooled myself on that collection," he said. "I don't know whether anybody would get fifty cents on the dollar for what I put into them."

His net income for 1931, he stated, was $86,753.

DIVORCE FINAL

LONDON, Dec. 7.—A divorce decree granted on May 11 to the duchess of Manchester, the former Helen Zimmerman of Cincinnati, O., was made final today. It is expected that the duke, who sailed for Cuba several days ago, will marry Miss Kathleen Dawes, former British stage star, now in New York, soon. Miss Dawes was well known on the London stage ten years ago.

Rich Architect Fined for Tapping Wife's Telephone

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—Luther T. Mayo, millionaire architect, today changed his plea of not guilty and pleaded guilty to tapping the telephone wires of his estranged wife and was fined $200 by Superior Judge Thomas White. At the same time, Mayo's disputed suit for divorce from Mrs. Marguerite Maloney Mayo was in progress in another court. Mayo, it developed, gave orders to Volney Smith, an investigator, which resulted in the latter tapping Mrs. Mayo's telephone in an effort to secure divorce evidence. The telephone company discovered the tapping when called because of a bad telephone connection.

CAP PISTOL BANDITS SENTENCED.

Worried About Finances, Brothers Say.

Waiting until after his brother had left him, Harry L. Street, 60 years old, president of the Street-Chatfield Lumber company, and principal in a legal fight over a $700,000 estate, shot and killed himself yesterday while in the library of the University club, 76 East Monroe street.

The brother, the Rev. C. L. Street, an Episcopal minister of Sycamore, and Mr. Street had met for a talk regarding the latter's financial condition. The clergyman left the room for a few minutes to make a telephone call. Returning, he found his brother dead, a bullet wound in his right temple, and a revolver beside his body.

In Mr. Street's pockets were found letters addressed to his wife, Jeanne, and J. F. Dammann, 140 South Dearborn street, his attorney in the estate litigation. The note to the attorney read:

"Dear Frank—It was not estate matters that brought this about, but personal affairs. I did nothing in connection with the will. The last few days seem to have brought matters to a head. Your kind offices have been greatly appreciated. Street."

To his wife, Mr. Street wrote: "My darling—You will find letters under the movie camera in my closet in connection with this. Love from your ever devoted husband."

At the Street home, 592 Sheridan road, Winnetka, a daughter, Katharine, refused to discuss the letters found in the closet. The notes were believed to have explained Mr. Street's act. According to a brother, Charles A. Street, of 1429 Astor street, and Attorney Dammann, and E. W. Schoos, vice president of the lumber company, Mr. Street was worried over financial matters. Much of this worry, the brother said, was doubtless imaginary.

Litigation Over Estate.

From Mr. Street's note to Dammann, it was believed that the $700,000 estate litigation did not enter into the suicide.

The litigation is under way in the Superior court here, and at Orlando, Fla., where most of the property involved is situated. It was willed to Mr. Street by Dr. Charles R. Switzer, an osteopath, and a relative, who died in 1928 at the age of 80 years. The Florida suit is over probating of the Switzer will which, it is charged, was drawn by Mr. Street and which named him beneficiary. The Superior court suit, filed on Oct. 28, asks an accounting of the estate by Mr. Street, and asks that a deed to the property, said to have been acquired by Mr. Street from Dr. Switzer, be canceled.

Mr. Street was born in Chicago, and became head and owner of the Street-Chatfield Lumber company in which he had started as an office boy. He was a director of the Lyon Lumber company, and associated in other concerns, and was considered a millionaire. His office was at 2415 Elston avenue. Besides his widow he is survived by four daughters, Jeanne, Katharine, Marjorie, and Harriett.

GARNER ELECTED HOUSE SPEAKER IN 72D CONGRESS

Democrats in Power Again After 12 Years.

the house, called the body to order promptly at noon and after a prayer by the chaplain, the Rev. James S. Montgomery, called the roll to record those present. While this was being done Mrs. Garner slipped into the members' gallery and took a seat in the front row reserved for the speaker.

Wife Hears Garner Named.

Wearing a plain black dress with white lace collar and a black hat, she had hurried away from her work as secretary to Mr. Garner just long enough to see him elected speaker.

The roll call finished, William W. Arnold of Illinois, chairman of the Democratic caucus, nominated Mr. Garner for speaker, whereat the entire Democratic side arose in a demonstration of applause and cheering accented by the famous rebel yell of the southerners. Willis C. Haley of Oregon, chairman of the Republican caucus, nominated Mr. Snell.

Then the roll was called on the choice for speaker, two Democratic and two Republican members as tellers. When they reported that Mr. Garner had received a majority Mr. Page appointed Mr. Rainey, Mr. Snell, Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.], and John Tilson [Rep., Conn.] to escort the new speaker to the chair.

The committee went outside and presently reappeared convoying Mr. Garner down the center aisle. The Texan, a chunky man of medium height, with a florid face against which his gray eyebrows stood out like twin haystacks in a sunset, stepped rapidly down the aisle, catching at greeting hands on either side, and ascended the rostrum on the arm of his defeated rival, Mr. Snell.

Balks at Formal Dress.

Mr. Garner was wearing a tobacco colored sack suit (having balked at the last minute at the black cutaway), an unbolled white shirt and soft turndown collar, from which flowed a cardinal and vanilla four-in-hand cravat.

Mr. Snell, who a few hours later was elected minority leader by the Republican caucus, presented Mr. Garner to the house.

"It is indeed a pleasure to have this opportunity to present to you the newly elected speaker of the Seventy-second congress," said Mr. Snell.

"I have always been a firm believer in the party system of government and consider that country specially favored that has two strong, evenly divided political parties. Of course, from a personal standpoint, I might be willing to change somewhat the division that apparently exists at the present time.

"As I look over the long list of distinguished men who have occupied this high position—and there is no higher honor in the gift of any legislative body in the world—I find not one of these men has ever risen to the position of speaker by mere luck or accident, but rather as the result of long, intelligent, efficient service and of undoubted, proven ability to perform the duties of this great office."

Garner Responds to Praise.

He closed with high praise of the ability of Mr. Garner and handed the new speaker the gavel. When Mr. Snell has left the rostrum Mr. Garner postponed with praise of his defeated rival as "one of the most desirable men that has ever been elected to this body."

"Ordinarily," he went on, "I would extend thanks to the entire house for my election to this high office, but unfortunately I didn't get all of the votes. Therefore, I must in that particular confine myself to the ladies and gentlemen who have expressed their confidence in me by their vote just taken.

"I am deeply grateful and sincerely appreciative of the confidence that you have expressed in me. I am not unmindful of the responsibilities, and with the coöperation of those who have expressed confidence in me—and I expect and hope also of the entire membership of the house—I hope to perform the duties of the office acceptably to all.

Delays Outline of Program.

"Ordinarily, this could be an occasion when I might express the hope and aspirations of the house of representatives in its legislative program for the coming session of congress, but at the moment I do not feel at liberty, in fact, I don't think it advisable that I should undertake to make a statement on that subject. At a later date, and I hope at an early date, I expect to make to you a complete statement touching that program.

"Also it is customary for a member assuming this place to indulge in some promises as to what he hopes to do as your presiding officer. I made no promises to secure this preferment and I have none to make now."

Representative Edward Pou [Dem., N. C.], senior Democratic member in service, administered the oath to Mr. Garner, who then gave the oath to the members of the new house en bloc. Officers of the house were then elected. Chaplain Montgomery was the only former officer reelected. South Trimble of Kentucky was elected clerk and Joseph J. Sinnott of Virginia, doorkeeper. Both served in these positions during the Wilson régime. Kenneth Romney of Montana was elected sergeant at arms and Finis E. Scott postmaster.

There followed the adoption of resolutions of respect for the memory of Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the last house, and other members of the new house who have died in the last year, and as a further mark of respect the house on motion of Mr. Rainey adjourned.

Senate Test Later.

In keeping with their lesser number and greater dignity, the members of the senate held a brief and urbane opening session, putting off all contentious things until tomorrow and the days to follow.

All but five senators were in their seats. Mrs. Caraway, who takes her husband's place, and Senator Elect W. Warre Barbour of New Jersey, the hulking ex-amateur heavy weight champion, who fills the Morrow vacancy, postponed their taking of the oath out of respect to the two dead senators. Senator Hubert D. Stephens of Mississippi was ill. Senator Elect Huey Long of Louisiana will not come to Washington until February. And Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, it was announced, would not be on hand until tomorrow. His office did not explain the delay. Those who remembered his first arrival in the senate, garbed in dove gray frock coat and peeling off one gray kid glove as he paced down the aisle, looked forward to another dramatic third act entrance.

Bankhead Sworn In.

The calm of the assembly was threatened but once, when Senator Samuel M. Shortridge, [Rep., Calif.], as chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, read the report on the Bankhead-Heflin contest—a report that questioned the legality of the 1920 Alabama election. But the committee has not concluded the inquiry; no one protested, and John H. Bankhead, the successful candidate, was sworn in, while former Senator Tom Heflin, whom he defeated, was forced to display his broad white vest from a seat in the rear.

The new senators who paraded to the rostrum to take the oath of office were a preponderately Democratic troup. Ten of the thirteen were Democrats, and three of the four not yet sworn in are Democrats.

WISCONSIN BOLTERS TELL WHY THEY DID NOT SUPPORT SNELL

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—(A.P.)—Four Wisconsin Independent Republicans, who with the one Farmer-Labor member of the house, bolted the Republican party today, said it was because they thought they could not win the legislation they sought under the leadership of Bertrand H. Snell.

When the roll was called to select a speaker, Representative Amlie, Independent, Wisconsin, voted for nobody Snell, the Republican nominee, or John N. Garner, the Democrat, who was elected. Instead, he cast his ballot for George J. Schneider, another Wisconsin Progressive Republican.

Others who backed Schneider were: Representative Kvale, Farmer-Labor, Minnesota, and Kading, Peavey and Withrew, all of Wisconsin. Schneider voted "present."

Subsequently the Independents in a statement said they thought "the views of Mr. Snell are not in accord with the full liberalization of the rules which we regard as necessary to assure a vote upon outstanding questions." These questions, the statement said, included:

Federal aid to states, counties and cities for unemployment relief; a $5,000,000,000 public works program; agricultural relief; an increase in income, inheritance and gift taxes rather than a sales tax to meet the treasury deficit; modification of the Volstead act. The statement added:

"The Progressive members who voted for Mr. Schneider insist upon an effective discharge rule which may be invoked upon a petition signed by 180 members, and upon other important changes in the rules. These changes are necessary to assure the people of the country that an opportunity will be given to members of the house to vote directly upon measures to meet the present crisis and to safeguard the future welfare and livelihood of the millions of American citizens now suffering from agricultural and industrial depression."

Kvale issued no statement.

HERE ARE PRINCIPAL SUBJECTS DEALT WITH IN BILLS AVALANCHE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—(A.P.)—Five thousand prospective laws were dumped today into the legislative mill of the house. A few of the outstanding bills dealt with these subjects:

FARM BOARD—Its abolishment with the transfer of its activities to the agriculture department; a further investigation.

PROHIBITION—Nearly 100 suggested changes, including the legalizing of beer, ale, stout and light wines, and referendum on the eighteenth amendment; repeal of the eighteenth amendment; tightening up of enforcement.

BANKS—To broaden the eligibility of acceptable paper; extend for two years loans made by federal land banks.

VETERANS—Pay world war veterans' compensation certificates in full; increase disability benefits; construct new hospitals; allow pensions to widows, orphans, and dependents of world war veterans.

PUBLIC LANDS—One to authorize the secretary of the interior to collect fees for grazing on public lands in that state by Leavitt of Montana.

COTTON—To compel the postoffice department to use cotton instead of jute twine; provide that the government use cotton wherever possible; place the New York Cotton exchange under the jurisdiction of the agricultural department.

UNEMPLOYMENT—To establish a federal board with $100,000,000 capital to function in times of depressions; give insurance to unemployed.

Bills on taxes were few, both Democrats and Republicans waiting to see what President Hoover would recommend in his annual and budget messages.

2 CENT POSTAGE URGED BY BROWN TO MEET DEFICIT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—The postoffice department showed a gross deficit of $148,086,189 and a net deficit of $98,018,681 for the fiscal year which ended last June 30, Postmaster General Walter F. Brown announced in his annual report made public today.

WALTER F. BROWN. [Harris & Ewing Photo.]

With the present trend threatening a net postal deficit of 150 million dollars next year, Mr. Brown recommended an emergency 2 cent letter rate as the only means to gain a substantial increase in postal revenues. Pointing out that one-sixth of the 1931 treasury deficit was attributable to the loss in postoffice operations, Mr. Brown asked congress to consider instituting the 2 cent first class rate for the period of the depression, with a 2½ cent rate to follow. The higher rate would not apply to local mail.

The 48 million dollar difference between the gross and net deficits was due, the report pointed out, largely to the cost of subsidising the air mail.

LEWIS PENS THIRD LONGEST BIOGRAPHY FOR SENATE RECORD

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—(Special.)—Though absent in person today, Illinois' reelected senator, J. Hamilton Lewis, presented himself to the public in the third longest biography in the new congressional directory. His thirty-four lines of personal history—furnished, as a footnote to the volume explains—by himself, are surpassed only by the biographies of Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, who beats all records with forty-one lines, and of Pedro Guevara, resident commissioner from the Philippines, with thirty-six lines.

Mrs. Hattie W. Caraway, who takes the place of her late husband as senator from Arkansas approached, but does not match, the brevity of his biography. His consisted of "T. H. Caraway, Democrat, Jonesboro." Mrs. Caraway's reads: "Hattie W. Caraway, Democrat of Jonesboro, widow of the late Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway."

Representatives F. H. La Guardia and Emanuel Celler of New York are tied for the shortest biography. Both content themselves with a listing of their names alone and both names, periods counted, total thirteen symbols.

YOUTH HELD AS KIDNAP ROBBER.

John Klimek, 17 years old, 2026 West 18th place, was held to the grand jury by Judge J. William Brooks yesterday in the Boys' court in bonds of $15,000 on a charge of robbery and kidnaping.

POLITICAL FEUD IS CARRIED ONTO SENATE FLOOR

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—A West Virginia political feud was carried onto the senate floor when it came time to administer the oath to Senator Elect Matthew M. Neely, a Democrat whom Senator Henry D. Hatfield, a Republican and now senior senator from West Virginia, had defeated in the 1928 elections.

According to Senator Hatfield he does not know Senator Neely by sight and had to make inquiry for him when the time came for the oath-taking. Senate etiquette requires a sitting senator to escort a new member about to take the oath to the rostrum.

Unable to locate Senator Neely, Senator Hatfield explained, he went to Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, only to be informed that for personal reasons Senator Neely did not desire Senator Hatfield's escort.

Senator Neely, therefore, walked down the aisle alone.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Dec. 7.—The central committee of the communist trade union international, meeting at Moscow to discuss the program and activities of its foreign branches, is devoting special attention to the work of affiliated organizations in the United States, England, France, and China, according to the Moscow Pravda. Orators, discussing the attitude toward foreign countries, said agitators must concentrate their efforts on unemployed demonstrations and support strike movements.

GUNS HALT RED HUNGER ARMY AT CAPITOL DOOR

Marchers Also Rebuffed at White House.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—A tired and bedraggled communist army of 1,600 "hunger marchers" tumbled wearily into temporary sleeping quarters tonight following a strenuous day during which they had been rebuffed in every move to get radical legislative demands before congress and President Hoover.

Herded within the confines of a heavy rope corral at the capitol and ringed at every turn by an overwhelming blue tide of Washington policemen, the demonstrators never-the-less stirred Washington to a high pitch of excitement and virtually "stole the show" from congress on its opening day.

Rain Hurl Maledictions.

Denied access to the floor of either house the communists declined to submit petitions for the dole and other legislation they are seeking and escorted by nearly all the 1,700 policemen of Washington, marched off hurling maledictions at the lawmakers.

Later at the White House when refused admittance to the presence of President Hoover the communists hailed their oratory on Dick Jervis, chief of the White House secret service guard.

Either awed by the display of force exhibited by free food and the conciliatory policies of Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, Washington's new police chief, the communist "hunger marchers" conducted their demonstrations in an orderly and peaceful manner.

Green Denounces Marchers.

The only indication of a possible disturbance climaxed a demonstration in front of the American Federation of Labor headquarters when Herbert Benjamin, New York communist leader of the "hunger marchers," threatened to order the whole army of 1,600 in the building to bring out a committee which had gone into the building to assail William Green, federation president. But the committee, which had been denounced as communist enemies of the unemployed by Mr. Green, emerged in time to prevent trouble.

Although the "hunger marchers" did not attempt physical violence, they made up for it with their constantly reiterated demands for a violent change in the system of American government. Making no attempt to hide their communist leanings, the marchers slouched along the streets singing the soviet internationale song, chanting demands for full wage unemployment relief and demanding that "our capitalistic government be crushed by the upcoming communist organization."

Surrounded by bluecoated policemen and flanked by squadrons of motorcycle police, the motley army of white and Negro men and women and a scattering of an even younger generation trekked to the capitol at 11 o'clock prepared to demand federal insurance against unemployment from Vice President Curtis. They were welcomed by a literal army of police and before their leaders knew what was going on they found themselves herd in a huge corral fenced with one inch thick rope.

Capitol Under Wartime Guard.

Hunger marchers looking to the right gazed into the frowning mouths of sawed off shotguns and high powered rifles. To their left the grim muzzles of machine guns met the investigating eye. The communist leaders of the army took one good look at their surroundings, abandoned the ferocious plan of campaign adopted so enthusiastically under the glare of electric lights last night.

The Capitol building was under a wartime guard as the marchers, led by a New York communist band, took up positions within the rope corral. Police officers, armed with rifles and tear bombs, stood at attention on the Capitol steps. Four hundred other policemen were lined up single file along the curbing facing the communists.

After stirring around, during which the police refused to allow a large delegation either to enter the senate or the house, Inspector O. T. Davis told Benjamin he would try to get a committee of three into the senate.

Benjamin was spokesman. Hatless, with bushy hair, short, and wearing glasses, he shouted back at a photographer who asked him to hold up the marchers' petition. "We aren't here to petition the senate. We're here to demand that they pass an unemployment insurance bill."

The delegates waited patiently in the center of a police cordon of twice their number. Finally the revolving door ejected a small man who rather uncertainly inquired what the delegation wanted. He was David Barry, senate sergeant at arms. Benjamin repeated his explanation of the committee's purpose and demanded entrance.

"You cannot come in," Barry explained. "It's against the rules."

Benjamin was insistent, pushing forward. Instantly the heavy shoulders of two big captains of police were thrust in his path. He put one foot on the doorway step. The sergeant at arms helped the policeman push him back again.

After arguing with the police for an hour the several "battalions" were assembled and the march to the White House commenced.

5,000 Spectators on Hand.

Here again they failed, for but one member of the party, Herbert Benjamin of New York, was recognized. Several hundred extra police had been on guard at the White House and surrounding grounds since early morning, and about 5,000 spectators had gathered when the motley army arrived at the Pennsylvania avenue side shortly after 1 o'clock.

Richard Jervis, chief of the White House secret service, met Benjamin at the gate and told him there would be no chance for a committee to see President Hoover. He suggested that if Benjamin had a written petition he would be glad to deliver the document to the President. This did not suit the radical leader.

Stein Quick to Request Garner Help Toward Job

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—(AP)—J. M. Stein of Brownsville, Tex., today wired Speaker Garner: "A thousand congratulations. Please remember my front seat. Also will appreciate your influence for my place as United States minister to Jerusalem."

NEW GRAND JURORS SWORN IN; FOREMAN IS AVERY BRUNDAGE

Members of the December grand jury were sworn in yesterday before Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher of the Criminal court. Avery Brundage, wealthy Chicago contractor and sportsman, was named foreman of the jury.

When Mr. Brundage stepped up, Judge Fisher asked: "Can you serve?" "I am glad to," said Mr. Brundage. Head of an engineering concern at 110 South Dearborn street, Mr. Brundage is president of the Amateur Athletic union and president of the American Olympic association.

Judge Fisher's instructions to the grand jury dwelt mainly on the general duties of the body, although he warned the jurors not to spend time on "matters of trifling importance."

Woman Senator in Capital, but Keeps to Her Office

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK. (Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—Since a United States senator a numerically [and mind, I said, numerically] about four and one-half times as important as a representative, American women have really gained, not lost, political power in this 72d congress which opened today.

Last session the house had nine women; this session it has but six, all veterans. But the senate, last session, entirely masculine, has one woman, Arkansas' Mrs. Hattie Caraway, the first woman ever to be appointed to this body for more than the shadowy day which a Georgia woman once spent in the sacred chamber. So, according to congressional arithmetic, the women now have an index of ten and a half, as against nine of last year.

MRS. HATTIE CARAWAY. [Harris & Ewing

Senate Fails to See Her.

Ironically enough today, the house, which now regards women as such a commonplace that a new marcel causes no more comment than a new mustache, had opportunity to see its sextette, complete with orchids, gardenias and sheer silk hose. But the senate, still nervously pondering just what to do with its first feminine contrère, didn't even have an opportunity to glimpse her, much less to swear her in.

This is the reason:

The very event which brought Mrs. Caraway to the senate [the death of her husband, Thad Caraway, whose place she takes] kept her away from the opening session. It is an act of courteous custom for the appointee to the seat made vacant by death to wait for twenty-four hours of senatorial respect to the dead man before he, or she, takes the oath.

And so Mrs. Caraway, whom everybody in the galleries peered about so eagerly to see, remained over in her office. By the way, when she stepped into that office, for the first time this morning, one of her first comments was:

"Those windows need washing."

Dodges Cameras, Questions.

She is right, they do.

All morning she dodged cameras and questions. She canceled plans to appear on the senate steps, under the movie arc lights, and be greeted by a delegation of women. At last, however, friends persuaded her to give an interview, her first since she has come to Washington after her husband's death.

Dressed in deep morning, with her soft gray hair brushed back simply from her forehead, she stood up at her desk, beneath a large picture of Woodrow Wilson, smaller ones of Ambassador Dawes and Thomas Edison and explained that it "is still too early for me to say anything about what bills I shall champion; too early to know what committee work I want or shall get; too early to know what I am going to do about anything."

Never Made a Speech.

"Have you ever made a speech, Mrs. Caraway?" they asked her.

"No, I never have."

"Perhaps, then, you'll be as silent as Senator Morrow was," somebody suggested.

"I can't tell, ahead of time, of course, for I speak from impulse."

Then she added, "But the time is short. If I want to say much I'll have to begin early."

A little later she recalled how, as the wife of a senator she had learned to be judiciously silent, "when out in public," argued that "now I'll have to put a still stronger curb on my tongue."

Ready to Do "Her Best."

Reminded that she, being the only woman in the senate, would be in the limelight whatever she did, Mrs. Caraway replied that "I don't know how capable I shall be; but this I do know, I'll do the very best I can."

As she was talking the six women who have preceded her to congress were settling back comfortably in the chairs in the house. Ruth Bryan Owen of Florida, tall and stylish in her closely fitting black gown, with a cluster of gardenias, gave a loud soprano "whoopee" when Jack Garner picked up the speaker's gavel. The other two women on the Democratic side, Effie Gene Wingo, the quiet lady from Arkansas, and Therese Norton, the forthright woman from New Jersey, clapped their pleasure.

Over on the Republican side of the house Ruth Pratt Baker greeted friends. When they call her the "silk stocking representative" the term is more than allegorical, as any connoisseur of sheer hosiery can tell you. Nearby Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts, the champion of the cotton stocking, politically, was as smiling as ever. And California's Florence Prag Kahn, she with the nimble wit and the old fashioned hair dress, had all the men around her laughing, even when that gavel was being transferred.

COURT SUMMONS BANK EXAMINER NAMED IN QUIZ

"Encouraged" to Remain Open, Banker Says.

Fred Edgerton, chief bank examiner in Cook county for the state auditor's office, was summoned yesterday to appear in Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg's court after C. C. Collins, president of the First and Second Humboldt State banks, testified that he had been "encouraged" to keep his banks open even when most of the resources had been exhausted.

The banks of which Collins was president closed last May 14 with more than $3,000,000 due to 23,000 depositors. A 10 per cent dividend will be paid the depositors before Christmas, it was announced, but it will be doubtful if the banks eventually repay more than 50 cents on the dollar.

Tells of "Encouragement."

Collins was being questioned about his knowledge of the banks' weak condition previous to their failure when he remarked:

"I talked to Fred Edgerton of the state auditor's office a week before we closed and in the conference with him he encouraged us to stay open."

After the judge had expressed amazement at this statement and ordered Edgerton to be summoned into court, Collins added:

"Perhaps 'encouraged' wasn't the word to use, but you might say we were encouraged to stay open by influences."

The judge questioned Collins about so-called "industrial loans" made by the bank. These loans totaled more than $400,000. Collins said they were "small loans" made to home owners and secured by liens on property. Seven per cent interest was charged, he said.

Judge Asks About Interest.

"As a matter of fact, from 10 to 20 per cent interest was charged in addition to the 7 per cent, was it not?" inquired the judge. "The records show that when a person borrowed a certain amount, he got only 80 or 90 per cent of that amount and then was required to pay 7 per cent on the total."

Collins testified that such an interest charge "was not the intention of the bank." He declared the loans were always less than $1,000, and were made as a benefit to the community in which the bank was located.

"The bank is located at North and Fairfield avenues," remarked the judge. "How did a Mrs. Katherine Robison of Lake Forest, whose name I see on the list of borrowers, obtain a loan of $1,500. You wouldn't call her a member of the community?"

"I understood she was a woman of property," replied Collins. "I don't know where she is now."

"We've tried to find her without success," said the judge.

The judge asked further questions about an "industrial loan" made to Anthony Bachunas, 3500 Hirsch street, and a $3,200 loan made to Joseph Fulman, 4704 North Harding avenue, a street car conductor.

"You admit these people came to you to borrow after they couldn't borrow anywhere else," commented the judge. "Did you get any commission on these loans?"

"Certainly not. Not a nickel," said Collins, indignantly.

$124,000 Paid for Lot.

The judge then inquired into a purchase of property by the First Humboldt bank from one of the bank directors for $124,000. The property in question was a 48 foot lot adjoining the bank. Evidence disclosed that only $72,000 had been paid for the 50 foot corner lot upon which the bank stands, a much more valuable piece of property.

"Why was such a big price paid for that property?" the judge wanted to know. "Was it because S. T. Corydon, one of your directors, owned the property?"

Collins replied in the negative. The adjoining property was needed, he said, because he planned to build a new bank building.

$19,300 Profit on Deal.

Corydon was then called to the stand. He testified that he made a profit of $19,300 on the sale of the property to the bank. He had purchased half the piece of property only a few months before the sale, he admitted. The purchase had been confirmed at a meeting of the board of directors which consisted of Collins, his son, C. H. Collins, Corydon, J. B. Hessler, a tenant of Corydon's and Jacob Nilson.

Corydon also testified reluctantly after many questions had been asked by the judge, that he was told by Collins on the Saturday before the Wednesday on which the bank closed that the bank was practically insolvent. On Monday, he drew out $10,000 he had on deposit, he declared.

Bain Hearing Today.

Attorneys for John H. Bain, Robert A. Bain, sons of John Bain, head of the 12 closed Bain banks, and W. Merle Fisher, his son-in-law, will appear before the State Supreme court at Springfield today and ask for the release of the three bank officials on writs of habeas corpus.

The law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin, representing the receiver for the Lake View State bank, yesterday petitioned Judge Joseph Burke to authorize the collection of $75,000 fees for them, a $22,500 fee for the Chicago Trust company as receiver, and $80,000 receiver's expenses.

Upon the objection of Morton Jacobsen, attorney for the Depositors Protective association of the bank, Judge Burke referred the petition to a master in chancery. Jacobsen said the fees asked were excessive.

County Police Warn Autoists of Speed Trap

County Highway Policeman Edmund Freckelton stopping to warn autoists on the Dixie highway as they near Dixmoor that the old regime which was in power when the village was known as Specialville is back in power and that car owners are likely to be arrested for any deviation from the strict letter of the law. (TRIBUNE Photo.)

POLICE STRIP YOUNG THIEF OF CLOTHES HE STOLE FROM AUTOIST

Frank Haas, colored, 15 years old, 2200 South Dearborn street, and a companion, also colored, broke into the automobile of John Kaul, Keokuk, Ia., at 7th street and Michigan avenue on Saturday.

They took a suit, an overcoat and a pair of shoes which the Iowan had left in the car. As they fitted him neatly, Haas donned the garments in Grant park and was wearing them when he was arrested by police of the South State street station.

Last night Mr. Kaul appeared at the station and demanded his clothing. The police stripped Haas down to his underwear and gave the property to the rightful owner.

CRIMINALS PREY ON GOVERNMENTS, JOHNSON SAYS

Speaking last night before the National Institute on Mercenary Crime at the Congress hotel, United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson asserted that the most serious form of illegal money making was committed against governments.

He quoted figures to show that on one public contract investigated by the federal grand jury $811,000 had been expended and that the profit was $352,000. Another example was a profit of $595,000 on a $730,000 contract. As a remedial step Mr. Johnson urged the passage of a state law requiring that all companies doing public work submit their books to a commission for audit.

According to the district attorney, mercenary crime had a large growth after the war.

FORMER BANK HEAD ON TRIAL AS EMBEZZLER

The trial of Charles Wolf, former president of the defunct Citizens State Bank of Melrose Park, on a charge of embezzling $58,000 from the institution, was started yesterday before Judge Walter Stanton in the Criminal court. Four jurors had been accepted before court adjourned for the day and it was expected that the jury would be completed today.

Wolf was ousted as president of the bank in July of 1930. On Oct. 24, 1930, the bank closed its doors with a loss of $200,000 to depositors, according to Assistant State's Attorneys Wilkie Ham and Leonard Rice, who are prosecuting Wolf.

Edmund Clos of Maywood, who succeeded Wolf as president, and disappeared when the state sought him as a witness, will be called to the stand to testify against Wolf, according to the prosecution.

ROBBER ACCUSED BY TRUCK DRIVERS INDICTED BY JURY

Joseph Gurener, 2486 North Clark street, was reported named in four true bills charging robbery yesterday, a short time after he had been held to the grand jury in bonds of $40,000 by Municipal Judge Altar M. Eberhardt. Gurener was arrested last Wednesday at Blackhawk and Halsted streets by Sergt. James H. Shea and Detectives Irving Landgraf and John Rehling of the Hudson avenue station. Suspicious of several rolls of pennies and nickels found in his possession, they sent him to the detective bureau for a showup. There he was identified by four circulation truck drivers for THE TRIBUNE as the man who had held them up in recent weeks.

HIGHWAY POLICE WARN AUTOISTS OF VILLAGE TRAPS

Tell Them to Beware of Dixmoor's Cops.

The county highway police from the Homewood station yesterday were assigned to warn motorists against an alleged speed trap operated in Dixmoor, formerly Specialville, by Mayor Charles Special and his police force. Numerous complaints by automobilists to the highway police led to the action.

MAYOR SPECIAL.

Lieut. Robert Seiter of the highway police placed two men at each end of the two mile stretch of concrete road in Western avenue where it runs through the village. These motorcycle policemen were replaced at eight hour intervals. Each car along the road was stopped as it approached the city limits of Dixmoor, and the occupants warned to be cautious.

Seized for Trivial Offenses.

Besides being arrested for speeding, according to Lieut. Seiter, motorists were seized for unlighted tail lights and driving trucks which were not equipped with rear view mirrors. No leniency was shown and no excuses were accepted, according to the complaints. When the offenders were taken before Police Magistrate Charles Rafel, fines and costs were imposed automatically, Lieut. Seiter said.

Police at the Homewood station reported that arrests in Dixmoor were mounting to as many as fifteen a day. Over the entire area patrolled by the police from the Homewood station, only three or four arrests are made on an average during the day.

The Dixmoor police force consists of Police Chief Thomas Luther, Frank Delnagro, a patrolman, and eight special policemen. The two cars used by the policemen in making their arrests bear no marks that would show motorists they were being followed by officers of the law.

Recall Cornstalk Speed Trap.

ENDS LIFE WITH POISON.

Frank Brennan, 31 years old, a salesman, took poison in the home of Mrs. Lillian Burns, 1959 South Turner avenue, at whose home he had formerly roomed. He died later in a hospital.

THREE OF 'WORST BURGLARY GANG' SENT TO PRISON

CRIMINAL COURT.

George E. Thompson, incest, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Grover Johnson, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Austin Birmingham, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Max Geisler, Hymie Lieberman, and William Gold, burglary, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in the penitentiary by Judge John Prystalski.

Sentences of from one year to life in Joliet penitentiary were imposed yesterday by Judge John Prystalski in the Criminal court on three members of what prosecutors style "the worst burglary gang in Chicago."

The prisoners are Hyman Lieberman, William Gold, and Max Geisler. They were found guilty Oct. 17 by a jury before Judge Prystalski of the burglary of the plant of the Star Cleaners and Dyers company, 2417 North Western avenue, on the night of Nov. 1, 1930.

The three were captured with two companions at the time of the robbery. Isadore Ottman, one of their companions, forfeited his bond and is a fugitive from justice, and Jack Sopkin, the other, obtained a separate trial through the representation that he was ill in a hospital.

COUNTY BOARD ADOPTS 10½ MO. SALARY PLAN

The county commissioners yesterday formally accepted the 10½ month budget plan and adopted a resolution of approval after President Emmett Whealan had read his economy program for 1932 into the record. Under the new budget, county employes will sustain no salary or personnel cuts but they will be forced to work without pay for six weeks. The plan met with the employes' approval several days ago. In effect, the proposal allows the county to operate for 12 months upon the expenses of 10½ months.

The forest preserve board of the commissioners yesterday discharged two of its employes whose residences were found not to be in Cook county. A list of 24 other employes who must furnish affidavits to prove their residence in Cook county for one year was also prepared. This action follows the resolution adopted several months ago by the board under which no employes whose residence is not within the county limits will be kept upon the rolls.

M'ERLANE GIVES UP; QUIZZED ON WIFE'S MURDER

Police Get Gangster at Wisconsin Rendezvous.

By prearrangement, Frank McErlane, described by police as Chicago's most vicious gangster, surrendered at 4 o'clock last night in Madison, Wis., to Pat Roche, chief investigator of Cook's Attorney Swanson's office.

McErlane had been sought since Oct. 2 for questioning in connection with the murder of his wife, Elfrieda, who was found shot to death in McErlane's expensive sedan in front of 3711 Phillips avenue. In the car were two pet dogs, also slain. Several days police thought they were on the Goodlum's trail, but the clews always proved futile.

Agrees to Surrender Gangster.

Yesterday, however, Joseph Roach, the gangster's attorney, agreed to lead investigator Roche and a squad of police to his client, who, he said, was in Madison. He designated 1:30 o'clock as the hour at which McErlane would surrender. Roche, the police and police started out at 9:30 o'clock yesterday, driving through snow before arriving at Madison. Roach then took them to the Belmont hotel, the place of surrender.

The party settled down to wait for McErlane. At 1:30, the appointed hour, he failed to appear. Hours went by, and he was still missing. Finally at 4 o'clock, when hope for his surrender was waning, McErlane walked in.

"Ran into a snow storm," he announced laconically.

Questioned on Murder.

The gangster was placed in the police car, and headed for Chicago. On the way Roche questioned him about the murder of his wife. The gangster merely shrugged his shoulders. Roche asked him where he had been hiding since Oct. 2. McErlane turned his head. According to Roche, McErlane had been in seclusion on the farm of Jim Smith, southwest side beer baron, at Winter, Wis.

At 10:45 o'clock last night, McErlane, Roche and the others reached the state's attorney's office. Assistant state's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne was waiting for them. All were closeted together. An hour later Ditchburne and Roche emerged, their faces wearing expressions of disgust.

"He won't even say yes or no to our questions," they announced. "So far as we're concerned, he's deaf and dumb. His lawyer does all the talking."

After further efforts failed to draw out a formal denial or admission of the killing, the authorities announced that they would hold McErlane over night, and charge him with murder today.

ASKS DIVORCE

MRS. HELEN RUSSELL.
[TRIBUNE Photos.]

James T. Russell, 7441 South Shore drive, son of John Russell, retired millionaire packer, yesterday was named defendant in a suit for separate maintenance filed by Mrs. Helen Russell, 4652 Jackson boulevard. Mrs. Russell charged cruelty, asserting that her husband struck her with an article of clothing and left three bruises upon her face, which were apparent when, on Nov. 2, 1930, she attended the wedding of her sister. She also charged that her husband boasted of his appeal to younger women. The couple married in August, 1919, and separated last Nov. 2.

BOARD OF TRADE CHEERS RITCHIE; SPEAKS TONIGHT

Governor Tells Opposition to Debt Cancellation.

"Get rich with Ritchie," shouted a trader yesterday as Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland appeared at the Board of Trade. For three minutes business ceased and the shout became general as the governor was being introduced.

Gov. Ritchie is here to make an address tonight at the annual banquet of the Illinois Manufacturers' association at the Stevens hotel where the presidents of similar organizations of Wisconsin, Michigan, Kansas, Iowa, and Indiana are to be present. His topic will be "Public Business—Private Business," and it will be broadcast over W-G-N from 10 o'clock to 10:30.

Confers with Cermak.

His appearance in Chicago stimulated Ritchie's budding boom for the Democratic nomination for President, and for three hours yesterday morning he was in conference with Mayor Cermak, leader of the democracy here. He didn't speak at the Board of Trade, but later, as a guest of George F. Getz at the Chicago club, he told 250 of the city's business and financial leaders that he is strongly opposed to cancellation of foreign debts.

"No matter what the advocates of debt cancellation say, and no matter how well planned any such move might be, it would eventually shift the burden of the world war to the shoulders of the American taxpayers," he said.

Lieut. Gov. Fred E. Sterling welcomed Gov. Ritchie in behalf of the state of Illinois. Then, in reference to hopes of bringing the Democratic and Republican national convention to Chicago, Lieut. Gov. Sterling said he hoped that if the Republicans are not successful in electing a President, that Golv. Ritchie might be chosen.

A Boost for Traylor.

In replying, Gov. Ritchie said he hoped the Democratic convention would come to Chicago and, if so, no worthier candidate could be chosen by the Democrats than Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank, who has frequently been mentioned as a possibility. He also paid a tribute to the leadership of Mayor Cermak.

Later Gov. Ritchie was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Field at 1550 North State parkway, and in the evening at the home of School Trustee Robert F. Carr. He is to return to Annapolis tomorrow.

GRANT PROBATION TO CASHIER IN THEFTS AT BANK

John Thomas Jenkins, 27 years old, 239 South Ashland avenue, La Grange, was placed on a year's probation by Judge James J. Kelly in the Criminal court yesterday on a charge of embezzling $20,000 from the La Grange State Trust and Savings bank. Jenkins, a former assistant cashier of the bank, pleaded guilty to the charge on Nov. 2.

The probationary period was decided upon when Judge Kelly was told that Jenkins had paid back $3,000 to the bank and intended to make complete restitution.

HINKLER LANDS IN LONDON AFTER ATLANTIC FLIGHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 7.—Bert Hinkler, the first flyer to cross the South Atlantic on a west to east flight, landed at Hanworth airdrome today and so completed the last leg of his flight which began in New York. A host of officials and noted flyers formed a delegation to meet the diminutive pilot, who was also greeted with a message from Prime Minister MacDonald.

Hinkler first met his wife, to whom he sent a "here's hoping" message from Natal, Brazil, from where he took off on his ocean trip to Africa, so broke, according to his own admission, that it was all he could do to buy enough gasoline to fill the plane's tanks.

He declared he flew over the ocean from New York to Jamaica because he had no navigation lights on his plane and did not want to break the American air regulations. His instrument board was illuminated by the moon, he said, until he struck a storm, and then he flew "blind."

TWO RUINED BY DEPRESSION KILL SELVES

New York, Dec. 7.—[Special.]—Financial losses aggregating close to $800,000 caused two New York business men to end their lives today. One of them, Ettore Penna, a wholesale dealer in imported fruits and nuts, shot himself in his office on the fifteenth floor of 401 Broadway. The other, Frederick W. Rauch, a dealer in precious stones, killed himself with a bullet in his apartment in Brooklyn.

HAWKS CHEATS DEATH; MAKES SPEED RECORD

Roosevelt Field, L. I., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—Roaring in from Cleveland at the rate of 257 miles an hour, Capt. Frank M. Hawks had one of the narrowest escapes of his long experience this afternoon when a landing wire snapped as he sped across New Jersey and threw his tiny racing monoplane into an involuntary barrel roll. Only his altitude of 10,000 feet gave him time to right it.

FRANK HAWKS.
[Acme Photo.]

Despite the mishap Capt. Hawks traversed the 459 miles between Cleveland and this field in 1 hour and 45 minutes, a new record. Earlier in the day he had flown from Cleveland to Chicago in 1 hour and 30 minutes, thus giving him a flying time record of 3 hours and 15 minutes between Chicago and New York.

The daring airman has had a series of close calls recently, culminating when he was overcome by carbon monoxide fumes as he was endeavoring to set a record on the Pacific coast last week, but he said tonight that today's experience was the most uncomfortable of all.

When the wire snapped he reduced his speed as much as possible, fearing that the plane was breaking up in the air. The snapped landing wire dropped the wing so low that he had to hold it up by keeping his aileron control over as if for a turn to the opposite side. His flight in from there was little more than a glide, but when he landed his wrists were sore and stiff from holding the control stick over.

Tri-motor plane service to Hoover Dam, Nev., has been initiated by United Air Lines, in connection with Western Air Express. Passengers may travel west on United Air Lines to Salt Lake City, and there board the Western Air Express planes to Las Vegas, Nev.

Marvelously delectable
German Pancakes
"HEAVENS, it's as big as a ranch," is an exclamation, or something like it, often uttered by the guest of a regular patron when newly introduced to one of our celebrated German pancakes.
We confess they are generously proportioned—and as satisfying as they are big. Like our delicious onion soup, that people come for miles to savor, our steaks, our sea-foods, and other specialties, these wonderful pancakes share the fame of Henrici's world wide reputation for the unusual in fine food.
It's worth a special visit to Henrici's just to enjoy them—

OTTO MAY TRY AIR COUP TO PUT HIM ON LOST THRONE

Monarchists Buy Plane, London Hears.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 7.—It is whispered that Archduke Otto, pretender to the Hungarian throne, is at present visiting a British ducal family in London incognito.

ARCHDUKE OTTO. [Acme Photo.]

Balkan circles here report that the young prince received delicate hints from the Belgians after the recent monarchist demonstration in Budapest that his presence was proving slightly embarrassing, and so he left for Great Britain, where he is farther removed from the plotting and counterplotting of central European politics.

Get Powerful Seaplane.

The same sources aver that a group of Hungarian nobles, ostensibly in England for fox hunting, actually came to accept the delivery of a powerful seaplane.

The machine has been flown to the eastern coast of Italy, where, according to these sources of information, it is waiting to take the young prince on an aerial coup which, it is hoped, will put him on the throne.

The plane not only is fitted with the best technical equipment, but houses a miniature chapel dedicated to St. Stephen. The scheme, according to reports, is for Otto to fly to Lake Balaton in the center of Hungary and there take oath as king in his portable chapel.

Monarchists believe that if he is sworn in on Hungarian soil it will produce public faith in him, accomplish immediately a solidifying and strengthening of the feudal peasant support, and thus establish him on his throne.

May Live in England.

Rumors recently suggested that Otto might become the husband of the second daughter of the duke of Norfolk. Otto and his mother, the former Empress Zita, are considering making their home in England, where many European titles have assembled since the Labor government was wiped out.

The fact that Premier Mussolini of Italy is known to approve the Hapsburg restoration has made the situation in Belgium uncomfortable as long as Otto remained in exile there because of the Belgian understanding with France. Although not confirmed, Balkan sources insist that Otto will be here for some time.

JUDGE ASSAILED FOR GIVING WATER DIET TO RUM LAW VIOLATORS

Gering, Neb., Dec. 7.—(AP)—County Judge C. O. Lyda, who has been called the "dieting judge" because of his recent sentences of bread and water diets for liquor law violators, today said he has been bombarded with letters from New York City and San Francisco.

Last week Judge Lyda sentenced two men to a bread and water diet, with one square meal a day, for conviction of possessing a gallon of alcohol. He previously had given six other county prisoners similar sentences.

A letter from a San Francisco attorney to County Sheriff Vincent S. Ramsey declared that Ramsey is liable to prosecution for "forcing an unconstitutional sentence involving cruel and unusual punishment."

Another letter from New York City charged Judge Lyda "considers the enforcement of the prohibition law and the violation of the liquor law above all others." Judge Lyda said the letter was caustic in its criticism.

3 GOVERNMENTS ARE LISTED IN SMOKE CAMPAIGN

Three governments, the city, county and federal, were listed yesterday by Frank A. Chambers, chief city smoke inspector, among the offenders against the city's smoke abatement ordinance. Those on the list are:

Kmet & Vana, 3245 Irene avenue.

T. M. White Co., 3214 South Damen avenue.

Representatives of the three governments and the business concerns have been summoned to appear today at Chambers' office. They will be warned against future pollution of the air.

Witness in Robbery Case Is Jailed for Contempt

Frank Rizzo, 1026 North Ridgeway avenue, was sentenced to 10 days in the Bridewell by Judge J. William Brooks in the Boys' court yesterday on a contempt charge. Rizzo repudiated former testimony and refused to identify Michael Pellico, 19 years old, 3338 Ohio street, as a robber. Pellico was held to the grand jury in bonds of $20,000.

Walker Leaves for Home, Minus Mayor's Farewell

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—Without a visit or a phone call to or from Mayor John Porter of Los Angeles, Mayor James Walker of New York boarded his eastbound train today with an invitation in his pocket to stop off and receive the head feathers of an Indian chief when his train stops at Albuquerque.

DUCE MAKES WAR HERO CHIEF AID IN FASCIST PARTY

Giuriati Quits After 'Row' with Vatican.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Dec. 7.—Achille Starace, 42 year old war hero, will be formally installed by Premier Mussolini as secretary of the Fascist party of 1,000,000 members in a brief ceremony at Venezia palace tomorrow. He will succeed Giovanni Giuriati, whose resignation was announced today in a special communique.

G. GIURIATI. [A. P. Photo.]

Giuriati, according to the bulletin, has sought to resign for some time. He was named secretary by Mussolini in September, 1923, after the resignation of Augusto Turati. Giuriati will continue as president of the chamber of deputies.

Vatican Forced Ouster, Report.

A change in secretaries is officially said to be part of Mussolini's regular practice of "changing the guard," so as to rotate as many men as possible in the various offices for training purposes in the Fascist régime.

According to one version in Rome, the resignation of Giuriati from the second most powerful position in the blackshirt movement marks another step in the settlement of the dispute between the Vatican and the Fascists. In this dispute, which raged last summer, it was reported that the Vatican had asked Giuriati's removal as secretary as one condition of the accord effected last September.

Giuriati, it is said, had incurred the disapproval of Pope Pius by a speech he made last April in Milan criticizing the political activities of Catholic members.

Wearer of Six Medals.

The secretaryship of the Fascist party is regarded as one of the most difficult and thankless jobs in the régime. The new secretary, Starace, has been vice secretary for seven years and is one of fascism's fervid proponents. He wears six medals won during the war and is noted as an organizer. He is parliamentary deputy from Apulia and holds the rank of lieutenant general in the Fascist militia.

OBTAIN JURY TO TRY EX-GOV. WALTON AND 9 OTHERS IN OIL CASE

Oklahoma City, Okla., Dec. 7.—(AP)—A jury was completed today to sit in judgment on J. C. [Jack] Walton, ousted Oklahoma governor, and nine other defendants in their Federal court trial on mail fraud charges growing out of the Universal Oil and Gas company's operations.

The government charges the company defrauded investors of more than $1,000,000 through the sale of memberships in a reorganization syndicate.

S. E. J. Cox, former associate of Dr. Frederick Cook of Arctic fame, in oil stock deals, is accused as the "unofficial" head of the company. Walton, who was impeached and removed as governor six years ago, served as president of the company's reorganization board.

Five defendants were eliminated today by pleas and dismissals. Burton Christmas, New York, pleaded guilty; J. Gardfield Crawford and L. A. McKercher, both of Oklahoma City, entered pleas of nolo contendere, in effect the same as a guilty plea, and charges against James E. Dunn and John F. Ryan, Oklahoma citizens, were dismissed.

Richard E. Enright, former New York City police commissioner, and Henry Knight Miller, New York magazine editor, were named in the original indictment, but charges against them were dismissed a few weeks ago. They have been subpoenaed as government witnesses.

LIQUOR TRIAL OF EX-LEAVITT FRIEND DELAYED

Santa Monica, Cal., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—The trial on liquor charges of Cliff R. Dailey, former friend and former joint defendant of Cornelius Leavitt, President Hoover's brother-in-law, was postponed until Dec. 21, when it came before Police Judge Charles Spencer today. Dailey's counsel, James McCarthy, secured the postponement because he was busy with another case today.

When Leavitt was acquitted of violating the state bone dry act here last week he testified that Dailey had pressed into his hands a sack containing nineteen pints of liquor and had urged him to dispose of it because an officer was entering the front portion of Dailey's grocery. Dailey did not testify at Leavitt's trial, but issued a statement at the time he and Leavitt were arrested, denying that he had passed the sack to Leavitt or that he even had seen the sack at all. Leavitt may be a witness against Dailey.

The two men broke at the time of their arrest and arraignment and demanded separate trials, Leavitt waiving the right to a jury and Dailey demanding a jury verdict. Dailey is at liberty on $250 bail. He has operated a grocery store here for fourteen years.

'32 ADVERTISING DOLLAR TO BRING BETTER RESULTS

Survey Shows Progress Over Last 2 Years.

New York, Dec. 7.—[Special.]—The Board of Directors of the Advertising Federation of America announced today that a national survey it has conducted indicates the 1932 advertising dollar will bring better results than at any time during the past two years.

G. M. HODGES. [Harris & Ewing Photo.]

Gilbert T. Hodges, president of the organization, said the survey shows a growing confidence in 1932 merchandising possibilities. He cited as important factors in the federation's prediction "depletion of personal goods by individuals and the scanty stocks on the shelves of dealers and in distributors' warehouses."

His report adds that greatly improved credit conditions and the beginning of commodity price recovery are reflected in an "improved general morale."

Check-up of 102 large companies showed that "those firms which increased their advertising in 1930 over 1929 made a 58 per cent better profit comparison than those which decreased it," the report states, "those same firms increased their lead still further in 1931."

President Hodges pointed out that a recent analysis of seventy large cities, conducted by the organization, found that appreciable business recovery has been under way for some months in the cities where newspaper advertising has been the heaviest.

WIFE STABBED IN QUARREL.

COMPLETE JURY TO TRY POWERS; BEGIN EVIDENCE

Setting Appropriate for Legal Drama.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—The legal drama in which the state is the life of Harry F. Powers, accused of slaying two women and three children, opened today in Moore's Opera house, converted for the time into a court of justice. Before nightfall a jury had been chosen and evidence had begun.

Powers reacted fully to the theatrical atmosphere and the stellar rôle in which he is cast. He sat calmly in his cell at the Harrison county jail tonight and recalled somewhat pleasantly his position in the spotlight before so large and interested an audience as thronged the showhouse today. The courtroom was packed from early morning until court adjourned at 4:38 o'clock this afternoon.

Jury Obtained Quickly.

Four Clarksburg men and eight more from nearby rural sections compose the jury. Seven farmers, an insurance man, an auto repairman, an oil company employé, a clerk and a motor car salesman were selected to hear the trial of Powers for the murder of Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, who, with Mrs. Asta Eicher of Park Ridge and Mrs. Eicher's three children, was the victim, it is charged, of the defendant.

A jury was selected and impaneled at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Selection of a jury started at 9 this morning.

J. S. Lee, the slayer's counsel, immediately made a motion that the entire panel be excluded on the grounds of testimony given by veniremen of prejudice and that a change of venue be allowed. Judge Southern denied the motion. The defense attorney next moved that a special deputy be sworn in to take charge of the jury, charging that county officers had beaten Powers when he was first arrested. This motion was also denied.

Clarence A. Duckworth, chief of police, was the first witness summoned. He told of finding the bodies at the Quiet Dell garage. He told of finding a camera in Powers' possession with a roll of films inside. When the films were developed he found that it was pictures made of Mrs. Lemke and himself while on the ill-fated trip. He produced an umbrella, blue straw hat, dress taken from the dead woman's body, shoes, all of which he said he found at the grave. These articles will later be identified by Mrs. Charles Flemming, Northboro, Mass., as the property of her sister, Mrs. Lemke, when she takes the stand.

Dr. L. C. Goff, coroner, and Dr. Herbert H. Haynes, told of an autopsy performed on the body. They said that no food was found in the woman's internal organs, indicating that she had not eaten in possibly 48 hours before she was killed.

As Powers was led into the county jail reporters asked him if he was satisfied with the first day's proceedings. "Read it in the papers," he replied.

LOVERS DEAD IN MYSTERY; NOTE ADDS TO PUZZLE

Attica, Ind., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—A clandestine love affair was ended here today in what authorities say was a double suicide pact, although a note indicated the woman may have been killed by accident.

The victims were Mrs. Dorothy Hanniford Woods, 27 and Clyde W. Smith, 30. Their bodies were found fully clothed on a bed in a room occupied by Mrs. Woods at the rooming house of James W. King. Mrs. Woods was separated from her husband and a divorce action was pending in court here. Smith, who came here from Danville, Ill., also was separated from his wife.

Lying on a dresser near the bed was a note written in ink with a steady hand, but unsigned. It read: "Dort has an awful headache. I gave her some capsules. They are making her sick. Think they must have been poison. I think too much of Dort to go without her so this is the only way out. I have only one request, and that is that Dort and I be buried together, side by side in the lot with mother. See that Dort's parents get all her things and mine. I have no regrets. I hope everyone will be satisfied."

BARBECUE ROBBER SEIZED.

A few minutes after the Piccanniny barbecue stand at 3801 Madison street was robbed yesterday of $618 by three bandits, who terrorized fifty customers and employés, police arrested Sam Lazazo, 23 years old, 3313 Flournoy street. He was identified as one of the robbers.

Springfield Theater in Labor Dispute Bombed

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—The explosion of a dynamite bomb early this morning damaged the interior of the Strand treater. The blast jarred the entire downtown district and the damage is estimated at $19,000. The bomb was placed in the film machine room. The explosion is believed to be the result of labor disputes over the employment of picture machine operators.

JAPANESE PUSH DRIVE TO RUN OUT CHINESE ARMIES

"Bandits" Are Disarmed in Mukden Area.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

MUKDEN, Dec. 7.—Two Japanese expeditions which yesterday left the South Manchuria railway zone intending to scatter the bandits in the Hsinmin and Changtu districts returned today, announcing that their missions had been accomplished without Japanese casualties.

The Changtu expedition brought back large quantities of rifles and munitions, having disarmed the greater portion of 6,500 bandits.

Japanese Colliery Raided.

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Japanese army headquarters here tonight reported that a Japanese colliery at Nyuhsintai had been looted by several hundred alleged Chinese bandits, who made prisoners of one of the officials and his family. Soldiers and police pursued the raiders, who were holding the prisoners as hostages.

At Kungtaipu, 30 miles southwest of Mukden, raiders attacked a Japanese house. Three soldiers and the householder drove them off after a fight.

There also were reports of "bandit" activity at Taochienhutes on the South Manchuria railway, where a group of 30 or so was driven away by police.

30,000 Students Strike.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Dec. 7.—Thirty thousands students of universities and middle schools in Shanghai and its suburbs today started a general strike in protest against the Chinese government's failure to take a strong anti-Japanese stand.

The students besieged stations last night in efforts to commandeer Nanking bound trains, in spite of the government's issuance of an order that further petitions must be presented by letter.

The government's refusal to provide free transportation caused all outgoing trains to be stopped for 17 hours last night and early today.

League Gives up Plan for Peace Through Neutral Zone

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 7.—The possibility of a public meeting of the league of nations council Wednesday to wind up the extraordinary three weeks old session on the Manchurian dispute loomed strongly tonight.

Progress in that direction was made this afternoon when the committee of twelve—which consists of members of the council with the exception of the Japanese and Chinese delegates—agreed to scrap the one remaining effort to reach a clear cut formula for stopping hostilities. That formula was the creation of a neutral zone between the two armies in the Chinchow district.

Will Make "Representations."

Definitely abandoning the idea of a formal zone with fixed limits, the twelve decided to make representations to the Japanese government, through representatives of the powers at Tokio, to agree to maintain the status quo in Manchuria.

This would be simply a "standstill" agreement whereby the two armies would retain their relative positions and preserve the unofficial neutral zone already existing. This zone would have no precisely fixed boundaries and the Japanese would need no formal authorization to "hunt bandits" in the no man's land.

The Chinese are understood to favor the agreement and the Japanese were informed of this tonight.

Take Teeth from Resolution.

The council is also on the point of yielding to the Japanese insistence on removing from the proposed league resolution the clause enabling the neutral investigating committee to turn in an interim report on the practicability of immediate Japanese evacuation.

If Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese representative, can be induced to accept this, there is no reason why the council's resolution should not be adopted unanimously Wednesday, as it is purely platonic.

The resolution would afford the Chinese no relief from Japanese aggression, but it would leave them China and even a little strip of southern Manchuria and that now seems to the Chinese delegation here like a real break.

JAPANESE, CAUGHT IN CHINESE TRAP, SAVED BY CARRIER PIGEONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Dec. 7.—The official spokesman at the headquarters of Gen. Shigeru Honjo, Japanese commander, today paid high tribute to the services rendered in the present Manchurian expedition by the Japanese carrier pigeon department. He declared that in several instances carrier pigeons saved the lives of Japanese military contingents who were operating far from their bases and were surrounded by hostile Chinese forces.

In one instance, he said, a small Japanese force was surrounded by a Chinese detachment which out numbered the Japanese 30 to 1. The Japanese would have been annihilated but for the fact that carrier pigeon managed to reach the base with news of their plight. This message brought reinforcements which saved the day.

In another case, the spokesman related, a carrier pigeon, on a 50 mile flight with an important message, was attacked by a Chinese eagle. The pigeon, however, managed to reach its destination, minus most of his feathers and badly wounded. He died soon afterward. The message enabled the Japanese to send reinforcements which saved a contingent of soldiers.

U. S. DIPLOMATS ATTEND FETE OF SOVIET OFFICIALS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Dec. 7.—The entire American official staff here, including John Carter Vincent, acting consul general; John Hubner, vice consul; C. E. Christopherson, trade commissioner; and George Vanetter, assistant trade commissioner and their wives attended a banquet tonight tendered by the soviet consul general, Djrnavesky, and his staff.

After the banquet the party viewed a soviet film, "Storm Over Asia," which is a dramatization of a soviet dust storm which depicts the uprising of the Chinese and Mongolians under the leadership of a descendant of Genghis Kahn, famous Mongol warrior of the 12th century, and results in the expulsion of the foreign invaders toward the sea.

The banquet was also attended by Anglo-American press correspondents as well as a number of British and American residents.

Gunmen Rob Realty Office; Lock Up Ten Employes

Three gunmen terrorized ten employes, including two women, in the real estate office of Swan, Lorish & Caspers at 230 East 47th street yesterday and escaped with $3,200 and checks of a total of $3,000. One of the women, Anna Abramson, cashier, was forced to give the bandits the keys to the safe. The ten employes were locked in a basement room before the robbers drove away in a car parked at the curb.

REPUBLICANS ON MUNICIPAL BENCH PUT OVER SLATE

Elect 28 Officers as Sonsteby Protests.

The Republican majority on the Municipal court bench elected twenty-eight probation officers yesterday over the protests of Chief Justice Sonsteby, a Democrat. The Democrats, who were outnumbered 19 to 16, expressed their disapproval by refusing to vote.

In electing the probation officers the Republicans eliminated eight of the present attachés of the court, six of whom are Democrats with experience ranging from one to seven years, and filled one vacancy.

Lyle Leads Attack.

Judge John H. Lyle led the attack on the Democratic minority. Although the judges' committee on probation officers made no report and Judge Sonsteby pleaded for a week's time in which to investigate the qualifications of the nine proposed new officers, the Republicans voted solidly for the Lyle slate.

Judge Sonsteby was aroused by the action of the judges. Only two of the nine new officers have had any social service experience, he said, and the "hasty" action has nullified his plans for filling the 28 positions through competitive examinations.

"It is spoils politics," said Judge Sonsteby after the closed meeting. "The Republican majority ignored the committee on probation officers and made a partisan and political football of the probation system of the Municipal court."

New Appointees Listed.

The nine new appointees, with a portion of their records as to previous experience, are as follows:

George A. Kerns, 811 East 41st street, former deputy bailiff of the Municipal court.

Mrs. Violet Dienes Sparfield, 9405 Loomis street, law clerk and volunteer social service worker.

Elliott Miers, 7146 Ridgeland avenue, salesman for sausage casings and former employé in the offices of the bailiff of the Municipal court, sheriff, and United States marshal.

HUMANE GROUPS FORM GROUP TO PROTECT DOGS

Representatives of five civic and humane societies met in the Hotel Sherman yesterday and formed the Illinois Dog Owners' association, the object of which is to fight against vivisection of dogs in hospitals and medical schools.

Joseph G. Branch, who was elected president, said that one of the first steps of the organization would be the filing of suits against the city to prevent the carrying out of an ordinance, recently enacted, which would give medical schools all dogs in the city pound not called for after three days.

DEATH MYSTERY ISN'T ONE, SAYS ACCUSED HEIR

Blames Disappointed Kin for Charges.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—As a spade cut through a thin crust of snow today on the grave of Lydia Parker, 81 year old spinster, in Mountain Home cemetery, Howard Miller, her nephew and heir to her $90,000 estate, coolly told officials in the county jail they were wasting their time in an investigation of her death. Casually puffing at a cigaret, Miller denied any connection with her death and that of his cousin, Charles Hazard, 61 year old roofer.

"You're not getting anywhere," he said. "This whole thing has been stirred up by relatives who are mad because they didn't get any of her money. I'll stay here as long as you want, because this is a vacation for me. I'm not kicking. You fellows are doing what you think is right, but you're being fooled."

Miller was arrested Saturday following the filing of a petition in the Circuit court hinting at mysterious circumstances surrounding the death of Hazard in convulsions last Nov. 8 and that of Miss Parker in Clearwater, Fla., Jan. 31.

Poison Found in One Body.

The spinster had signed a will making Miller heir to two-thirds of the estate if Hazard survived her and leaving the entire estate to Miller on Hazard's death. Hazard's body was exhumed in September as officials began a secret investigation of the deaths. State toxicologists found a lethal dose of arsenic and traces of strychnine in Hazard's vital organs.

Following receipt of this report, Prosecutor Paul M. Tedrow secured a court order for the exhumation of Miss Parker's body. The prosecutor had announced the body was to be exhumed Saturday, but his orders were not carried out until today.

His Identity Challenged.

The contesting petition, brought by Mrs. Grace Hazard Brown of Elgin, Ill., disputes Miller's relationship to Miss Parker. He is described as the son of a Miller family of Battle Creek rather than the son of Charles Parker, brother of the spinster.

"That's silly," Miller said. "I was adopted by the Miller family and took their name. My father only lived with my mother for a few months after their marriage and she got a divorce. I never saw him."

IGNORES DEMAND FOR BLACKMAIL; WINDOWS BROKEN

A police detail was placed last night at the cigar store and home of John Rychtarczyk at 2611 Diversey avenue following his receipt of threats demanding money and the smashing yesterday of two large front windows of his shop.

Last Thursday he received a special delivery letter, unsigned, demanding $250 from him by the following Sunday on the alternative of death to himself or injury to his two small daughters. The note also awarned the writers might break his windows if he failed to pay. The blackmail was based on alleged knowledge of the writers that he sold liquor in his shop.

Rychtarczyk ignored the letter as a joke. Sunday night, however, he received a telephone call repeating the written warning. Again Rychtarczyk ignored the blackmail. Yesterday his store windows were broken and he told his story to Shakespeare police.

4 INDICTED FOR GEM HOLDUP AT MITCHELL HOME

YOUTHS CONFESS USING MONKEY TO AID BURGLARY

Four youths arrested yesterday by the Burnside police admitted they had stolen a monkey and trained him to climb over transoms and release door catches to permit their entry into apartments they wished to ransack. The youths are Edward Soulard, 19 years old, and Arthur Phelps, 15 years old, both of 712 East 88th street; Edwin Miller, 17 years old, 517 East 57th place, and Philip Elderworth, 17 years old, 7344 South Shore drive. Soulard's father asked the police to take the boys into custody. The monkey was returned to Mrs. Anna Jans, 7956 South Wabash avenue, who announced she would try to train him back into honest ways.

Lovely simple designs in modest native woods—achieving low price without the slightest compromise with Danersk quality

THESE are times that present a challenge to the skill and resourcefulness of every maker of merchandise.

They are times, too, that put to the acid test the integrity of every manufacturer.

The public insistence for better goods has given way to a demand for cheaper and ever cheaper goods. Thus, we see today in stores throughout the land a new-born crop of what is termed in the trade "depression furniture." Furniture built in such cheap and shoddy fashion that no home of taste would tolerate it, unless from ignorance of its structural deficiencies, or from sheer economic necessity.

What is the answer for the home-owner of taste who must economize? Must one buy "depression furniture"—glued together in the cheapest fashion—upholstered with shoddy fabrics and (actually) chopped chicken feathers? Must one either buy these disreputable things or go without?

Danersk offers the answer to this dilemma. It is exemplified in this new Dorset group.

In these pieces there has been no sacrifice of any of those uncommon niceties of construction that collectors and authorities so much admire in Danersk Furniture. You will find the same painstaking mortise and tenon joinery—skilful finishing—woods selected with expert care, air-dried and cured for long months before using—all these essential honesties are evident in every lineament of each Dorset piece.

There are just two ways in which cabinet-makers can reduce the cost of honestly built furniture:

1. By adherence to simple design—avoiding involved forms and intricate carving and inlays.
2. By the use of simple native woods—instead of rare and costly woods.

By these means were the low prices of these Dorset pieces achieved.

The designs were inspired by the find last summer—in a sleepy New England village—of some lovely originals of pre-revolutionary days—the masterpieces of some unsung anonymous Colonial craftsman of Vermont.

Their unpretentious dignity is a result of rare subtlety of proportion and form, enhanced by the natural beauty of their native maple, knotty pine, and white walnut. These woods have become increasingly popular in recent years, being used by decorators and architects for paneling the most sumptuous interiors.

The mellow texture and color of these simple woods is as satisfying as many of the rarest woods of great price. And each year their handsome surfaces will grow more lovely as they acquire the amber glow and patina of age.

The Danersk name is your guarantee that these pieces were fashioned in the traditional honest way that choice furniture has always been built—it is the only way we know.

You may acquire an entire group of 11 pieces (only 7 of which are illustrated) for only $298.

Thus, you may furnish an entire room—practically for what you would pay for ordinary mass-made "depression furniture."

They are on display in our showroom now, together with hundreds of other Danersk "heirlooms of tomorrow"—all priced at new low levels never before possible. Complete dining rooms are offered for as low as $389, a secretary desk may be had for $135; upholstered chairs are priced from $29.50, side chairs from $21; attractive tables cost as little as $20. Come in and see them. You'll be welcome whether you come to buy—or merely to look.

All Danersk Furniture is built in the Danersk Colony and is sold direct to the purchaser. It may be seen and purchased only in our own showrooms.

ERNEST J. HIRCOCK

When Ernest Hircock, master wood-carver of the Danersk Colony, carves a top for a pie-crust table, or the quaint rosettes on a Dorset bed or bureau, 25 years of experience guides his skilful hand. In mass-production manufacture the tops of pie-crust tables are built up of strips of wood glued together. Ernest Hircock fashions them, as did Chippendale, from one solid piece of fine old mahogany.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

CONGRESS AND THEN WHAT?

The congress now in session has an opportunity, but it is a forbidding one. It is to become the greatest solidarity the country has known. If the security of the nation controls in its representative body the bad times can be weathered, but if, on the contrary, congress puts into legislation the vicious, timeless, and spiteful ease of the extremists, a long and painful experience for the United States will date from this December.

The hunt of government has not been reassuring. The direction has been toward interference with the sources of national well being and general good. Government already has become a burden upon the citizens and is the cause of much of their present discomfort and their apprehension for the future. Its extension into fields in which its activities should be prohibited has produced gains which it cannot meet out of its vanishing revenue. The revenue is vanishing because the productive energies of the citizens whose taxes support the government have been impeded by the government which looks to them for its support. The diminishing returns of the income tax reveal the disappearance of the incomes, and if the cure is to be more taxes the results will be fewer incomes.

As this congress assembles the consequences of what already has been done along the line it is proposed to do more are expressed in a deficit which grows with each new estimate and in stagnant and unproductive business.

There is, it is true, at least the nucleus of a new leadership in a different direction, represented in and out of congress by such men as Gov. Ritchie, Senator Robinson, Senator Lewis, Representative James Beck of Pennsylvania, and others, men in both parties who, differing on issues of minor importance, agree upon the essentials of federal government in the American Union. If this leadership gets a majority in congress the destructive tendencies of government will be checked before intolerable measures have reduced the country to complete prostration.

The amount of additional punishment the country can now endure is limited. It is already hard pushed, and the doctrine that it will be the better for more flagellation, if successful in congress, will make the future of the world's richest country a very black and doubtful one. It may seem impossible for government to ruin so naturally powerful a nation; but ten years ago Great Britain was sitting on top of the world. Its governmental policies, persisted in with protracted defiance of the consequences, closed down its industries, impoverished its taxpayers, pauperized great sections of its population, destroyed its financial structure, and brought black days upon it. Now a desperate national government finds that the imperative cures are almost impossible of application.

Much that is proposed in the United States is identical with the policy which brought Great Britain close to disaster, and with this experience as admonition American responsibility is the greater. The British might say that they went in with their eyes shut. Americans must do so with their eyes open. They have seen the consequences and can easily discover the causes.

American security is not impregnable. The well being of this nation is not invincible. What men have built up under a wise system of government can be torn down by other men adhering to political arcana and erecting an unwise system. The American Union is not foolproof. The welfare of the United States is not beyond the reach of destructive human hands. American destiny is not immutably benign. It is not safe if foolish men are determined to change it.

PUBLICITY IN MINNESOTA.

A news dispatch the other day reported that the chief of police of Minneapolis had suddenly refused reporters access to police records of all kinds, including records of accidents, robberies, raids and missing persons. The official explained that "the grand jury seems to think there is too much prying into police records." The excuse has a peculiar look. Minnesota's press gag law has given that commonwealth a nation-wide repute as a community where respect for the freedom of utterance is not precisely militant and that celebrated controversy evidently hasn't had any effect upon the official spirit of suppression in Minneapolis.

No doubt the police have reasons which do not favor the "prying" of reporters into records, but what causes the discontent of the grand jury, if any? There are grand juries that are only compliant agents of the powers that rule a political situation. But hasn't there developed among the citizenry of Minnesota some curiosity to know what this persistent effort to suppress publicity is hiding and protecting? Is there no suspicion among them that there may be in Minnesota, in Minneapolis, such alliance between politics and crime or graft as has been revealed in other communities possessing a free press and which it would pay them to discover?

The press gag law would still be in full force and effect if outside help had not made it possible to bring it before the highest court in the land, but, this having been accomplished, it would seem that the opinion of that exalted tribunal upon the functions of a free press in a free country should have awakened more interest in Minnesota. If the present grand jury is disturbed over the prying of reporters into police records, the need for another grand jury to do some prying of its own, in the interest of the community, will be suspected elsewhere if not by the public of Minneapolis.

BREASTED AND HIS INSTITUTE.

The formal opening of the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago is an event in the cultural history not only of our own country but in that of civilization. That may seem a pretentious assertion which the modesty and self-restraint of scholarship will deprecate, but it is not an exaggeration. The institute is defined as a research laboratory for the investigation of the early human career and something of its scope and significance may be found in the fact that from it as a directing center thirteen expeditions are now in action at strategic points in the region where the beginnings of western civilization were made—that is, in Egypt, in Persia, in the valley of the Tigris, in the highlands of Anatolia, and in Palestine. The map on this page shows the scope of this work.

There between Thebes on the south and the Black sea on the north, Persia on the east and the Mediterranean on the west, mankind first, so far as we are concerned, emerged from the darkness of mere animalism on his long and toilsome march into the light of our day. There in the valley of the Nile, now comfortably traveled by the tourist, the first plow was invented and with it agriculture, human wealth, and perhaps the first great empire, art, and the splendor of temples, war, trade, statecraft, and religion. In the valley of the Tigris and Euphrates, the Sumerians, dim figures only now becoming human realities, built their forgotten cities and Babylon sent up her towers. The Hittites, the Palestinians, the Hebrews, the Greeks, and Romans wove there the tapestry of history, a gorgeous fabric, but for us full of bare spaces which bar us from the complete knowledge of the past and intrigue us with the fascination of the unknown.

To round out this knowledge, so far as it is now possible, the science of Europe and America is now actively at work, and the special importance of the institute is the comprehensive plan of its activities which is bringing light upon the central problem, the interrelations of this great progress, from all its main sources. The handbook of the institute summarizes its effort in this paragraph: "A generation of archeological research has dispelled all doubts as to the scene of this evolution, which is now recognized as having been the ancient near east, the region folded like a horseshoe around the eastern end of the Mediterranean. The ancient lands of this region today constitute an almost inexhaustible storehouse filled with perishing and still unexplored evidences disclosing early human development. Heretofore no comprehensive and systematic effort has been made to save and study as a whole these enormous bodies of perishing evidence. Fully recognized, this situation has formed a challenge to modern science and has laid upon it a twofold responsibility: first, the task of salvaging this evidence by scientifically organized and well equipped field expedition; and, second, the study, the constructive interpretation, and the correlation of the great bodies of evidence which may thus be gathered."

That this service to the enlightenment of civilized men has its center in this dynamo of human energy, our much berated Chicago, is something of which its citizens may be proud. We have to thank the enlightened generosity of Mr. John D. Rockefeller Jr., whose gifts and loyal support made the establishment and its widespread activities possible, and also that of other substantial contributors and friends of the undertaking, Mr. Julius Rosenwald, Mr. Theodore Robinson, the Hon. Robert P. Lamont, and Mr. Henry J. Patten, all of this city, as well as an anonymous donor whose name we would honor if we could.

But above and beyond all material contribution must be celebrated the gift of the genius, the inspiration, the vision, and untiring zeal of James Henry Breasted. The great enterprise is his child, his conception, and his splendid achievement. Nobler and more enduring than any material monument, the service to human knowledge he conceived and laboriously established has written his name in unfading letters in the intellectual history of our age. Scholarship, a vivid humanity which gives warm life and significance to historic fact, the eloquence of the philosopher and the poet, and with it diplomacy and the skill to impress and persuade, to remove obstacles and win cooperation and support, these are the rare qualities in rare combination which have made the Oriental institute and given to its creator his high place in the service of human knowledge.

Editorial of the Day

MASTER OF A WANING ART.

[N. Y. Herald Tribune.]

The after-dinner speeches in New York's golden age of a delightful art live in memory and tradition rather than in print. Perhaps it is as well. Cold type could not reproduce the sparkling flow of the late Patrick Francis Murphy's philosophic wit, his happy, unpremeditated sallies, rising like the bubbles of champagne. Still less could it transmit the charm of his presence and the exquisite manner of his utterance.

In the peerage of the dinner table Mr. Murphy here comparison, and not to disadvantage, with Joseph H. Choate, Mark Twain, and Chauncey M. Depew. Indeed, a London connoisseur described him as combining the talents of the three, with James Russell Lowell added. It was remarkable that a man of his solid business attainments, not kindred to oratory, should have had the superlative grace that distinguished his talk. Choate was the flawless speaker in form and content, Depew the supreme raconteur, Job Hedges the master of epigram, Simeon Ford (last leaf of a famous tree) the "wise crazher" extraordinary, before the phrase was coined. Mr. Murphy had a rich vein of his own, always felicitous and diamond-faceted. In this mechanized day, with the microphone ever present, it seems idle to hope that the flavor of after-dinner speech at its best can be recaptured. The Patrick Murphy quality was rare and, alas! too evanescent, yet still is to be cherished by older New Yorkers in their treasury of recollections.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. — Ed.

FAR BE IT FROM US to suggest to congress any more ideas about additional income tax—they've got plenty; just wait—but while they are getting ready to come down some more on our pay checks and what we eat and what we buy and what we sell, why not tax the people who exercise special privileges? F'rinstance, people who always come late to the theater and make us stand up while they walk on our feet; there ought to be a government tax of 25 cents on that. Then those birds who keep telling their neighbors what's just been said on the stage; 10 cents every time. Fond papas who stop you in the street and say, "I wanna tell you the smart wise crack Junior made this morning, and he's only four years old." Fifty cents, or three stories about Junior for $1.

Everybody that goes to Europe, Miami, or California while Old Man Depression is keeping the rest of us sitting in the little flat listening to the cold winter winds without, $4.75. Postal cards from Florida, Cuba, or Los Onglaies bearing the words, "Having a fine time, wish you were here," 25 cents each, or three for a dollar. Parties arguing about the eighteenth amendment in street cars, on buses, or at dinner parties, 65 cents each for the wets and 55 cents for the drys. The drys are the loudest.

People who borrow books should be taxed 40 cents per volume. They always keep the books anyhow, so they shouldn't object. Cold air fiends who are always hiking up the windows and freezing everybody else in the room to death, 15 cents per window. People who come into the office and immediately park on top of a desk when there are chairs all over the place, 10 cents per hour; parking three hours, 25 cents.

This idea will bring the government much money and reduce the deficit to next to nothing in a short time. Write to your congressman today.

TRANSFER.

I sit no more in a lonely house
Lover, I warned you, long ago;
But somehow you didn't care.
Or else you didn't believe that I
Could roam, as a man will do.
Or you thought (you were wrong!) that you could have
Your cake, and eat it, too!
I waited long, but I learned at last
That a song can be sung again,
And that somebody else's kiss can soothe
And comfort a heart in pain.
So I sit no more in a lonely house
And will you grieve when you return
And do not find me there?

ANOTHER REDUCING METHOD.

DR. C. W. MISSLER and others have a method of reducing which they have found will usually cause a loss of about four pounds a week. It is a painless process, meeting one requirement of those who are anxious to lose weight without being too much so.

First, the subject must bind himself to be on the square. Most of those who diet cheat some. For several times the man (or woman) eats as he has always done as to amounts, frequency of eating, foods eaten, and eating habits generally. He writes down just what he has eaten and how much, immediately after leaving the table. If he eats between meals the record must show that, too. It is by this record that the doctor is to work out the diet. Therefore, it must be an honest statement, or the physician will be misled and the patient may be harmed.

With this record before him the physician calculates how many ounces of starches and sugar his patient has been eating daily; how much he has consumed as the result of appetite, taste, habits, or whatever has been at work in the case. He then outlines a diet in which the total allowance of carbohydrates and sugars is only one-third of what it has been.

This means a very great restriction in breads, potatoes, corn, beans, peas, cereals, pies, desserts, and sweets of every kind. There is no change in the allowance of proteins such as meat, poultry, fish, and eggs; of fats such as butter, cream, bacon, middling fat fish, gravy, lard, cooking fats, and nuts. There are no restrictions on unsweetened fruits and vegetables, except those noted above.

There are to be three meals a day. It is recommended that the amount eaten for dinner be slightly decreased, but that the lunch be increased about enough to offset the depreciation in the evening meal.

And now comes the keynote of the method. The patient is given a supply of dextrose lozenges. Each lozenge contains 20 grains of dextrose and enough mint and other aromatics to give it a pleasing flavor. One of these lozenges is taken at intervals of half an hour, from 9:30 a. m. until 11:00 a. m.; from 2:30 p. m. until 5:00 p. m.; and from 8:00 p. m. until 9:00 p. m. Occasionally two lozenges are used. The number of lozenges consumed during the day ranges between ten and twenty. The subject is advised to walk a half mile or two a day and to keep up his work. The dextrose supplies the quick energy needed for that.

A man to whom this method is suited should lose about three pounds a week. should have no headaches, no feeling of faintness, no mental depression, and no craving for food. However, after he has reduced he must adjust himself to a proper diet and follow it until he reaches threescore and ten.

COCOA AND GROWTH.

Mrs. E. W. writes: 1. Is cocoa injurious in any way to a 15 year old boy? He drinks it every morning, but I have been told it is bad for him.

1. Is there anything to help increase his height? He is only 5 feet 2 inches. He is perfectly healthy, but does not seem to grow as he should.

2. He had an accident a few years ago and broke his hip and pelvic bone. He recovered completely and doesn't even limp. Do you think this has caused him to stop growing?

REPLY.

1. Cocoa is on a par with coffee and tea.
2. As a rule, growth in height continues until age 17. Perhaps plenty of exercise in the open air and plenty of plain, wholesome food may cause some growth renewal. I do not know of anything else to suggest.
3. That should not have stopped his growth permanently.

COCOA IN MILK SHAKE.

C. writes: Please outline the benefits and detriments in cocoa in sufficient quantity to flavor one glass of milk shake daily.

REPLY.

Cocoa contains a small quantity of an alkaloid which corresponds to caffein. It also contains oxalic acid, or its equivalent. Taken in quantities, it is objectionable for the same reasons that coffee in excess is. People who are subject to oxalate kidney stones, gravel, and oxaluria should avoid it. The amount you mention should be permissible to all except young children and those subject to oxaluria.

PROCEDURE OUTLINED.

Elgin, Ill., Dec. 2.—[Friend of the People.]—1. I am a Canadian entering this country legally. My husband is a native-born American. Does the fact that he is a citizen give me my first papers toward naturalization, or must I take out first papers and then in due time second papers? 2. Assuming that my marriage to a citizen gave me my first papers, how long would it take to secure second papers? 3. Living in Elgin, where should I apply for papers?

B. F. R.

1. You require no first papers.
2. It cannot be assumed that a woman who has no first papers received them through her marriage. A woman who is married to a citizen may file a petition without a declaration of intention and ninety days thereafter at the first hearing by the court may be naturalized.
3. She should secure Form A-2214 from the clerk of the court, fill it out and forward it to this office [Room 776 Postoffice building, Chicago], and if she arrived after June 29, 1906, the form should be accompanied by a money order in the sum of $2.00 for a certificate of arrival, and in any event by photographs as described on the back of the form.

RELEASED UPON SETTLEMENT.

Chicago, Dec. 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If a bank extends a loan to an individual who has posted a first mortgage and stock as collateral—and [1] then fails and is taken over by a receiver, [2] what will become of the transaction? 2. Is all the collateral released on settlement of the debt? 4. Or is it sacrificed just as a saving account would be?

A. J. J.

1. We assume that it is the bank that fails.
2. The receiver will step into the position of the bank.
3. Yes.
4. No.

Gary, Ind., Dec. 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If a husband and wife have joined in signing for a flat building and later the husband becomes insane, is it possible for the wife alone to sign for the renewing of the mortgage? R. O.

In our opinion the mortgage holder should be satisfied with her signature on the extension agreement, since he still has the husband's signature on the principal note and that note remains in effect.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 8, 1915.

ROME.—The American oil steamer Communipaw has been sunk by a submarine in the Mediterranean, near Toburk, Tripoli. No information has been received concerning the crew or the nationality of the submarine. The Communipaw is owned by the Standard Oil company of New Jersey and sailed from New York on Oct. 27 for Egypt.

WASHINGTON.—Information reaching Washington of the sinking of the Communipaw, an American oil tanker, off the coast of Tripoli has created grave apprehension in official circles, where fear is expressed that the Austrians may have begun a systematic campaign of destruction against American oil ships carrying fuel oil to warships of the allies operating in the Dardanelles. It follows an official report from the United States cruiser Des Moines, now at Canea, Crete, telling of the attack by an Austrian submarine on the Standard Oil tanker Petrolite, which was fired upon but appears to have escaped. A member of the crew of the Petrolite was wounded by shell fire.

WASHINGTON.—An appeal for the enactment of legislation for the defense of the nation from enemies at home as well as abroad was the burden of the message of President Wilson delivered to the joint assembly of the two houses of congress. Hyphenism is flailed in the message in scathing terms. The President proposes laws to enforce neutrality and measures that will guard against the United States becoming embroiled in the war. He urges a standing army no larger than is required by peace conditions, but declares the nation should organize a force of 400,000 volunteer citizens for training in arms. The administration five year building program for the navy, he declares, will provide a "navy fitted to our needs and worthy of our traditions."

ABOARD THE PEACE SHIP OSCAR II.—The reading of the President's message by S. S. McClure was followed by a speech by Jenkin Lloyd Jones of Chicago, who bitterly attacked President Wilson. This precipitated fear of a row, which was, however, blocked by Mr. Ford, who urged a three days' group discussion of the message before replying to it. Indications are that this reply will be of a hostile character. The President has lost all popularity with the pacifists.

DECEMBER 8, 1901.

BOSTON.—A crisis has been reached in the great copper war and that the struggle between Thomas W. Lawson and the men who are opposing him will be to a death finish is now certain. With his various shares pounded down today to the lowest figures yet recorded, Lawson weathered the storm, but what his fate will be later no one can predict.

WASHINGTON.—Gov. Yates of Illinois arrived here this morning and left tonight. He came here to see President Roosevelt and members of congress from Illinois. He succeeded in both of these laudable enterprises, but it is more than doubtful if he made any political progress. The governor was not invited to come to Washington except in the most informal sort of way some time ago. The President and Gov. Yates had lunch together and had a pleasant talk, which all grew out of the fact that the governor desired to complain of the pernicious activity of Republican federal officials in Illinois.

CHICAGO.—Judge Dunne gave his decision in the contempt proceedings against Managing Editor A. M. Lawrence and Reporter H. S. Canfield of the Chicago American, and discharged both from custody. Judge Dunne held that the articles in question were published after Judge Haney decided the case of the Peoples Gas company.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 8, 1881.

WASHINGTON.—Edward P. Barton, a lawyer; A. T. Green, G. W. Tandy, and Dr. B. P. Buckley, all of Freeport, Ill., testified in the Guiteau trial. They all declared that the Guiteau family were sane, sensible, and public spirited as far as they knew. They did not think that Guiteau's father was insane, and as far as Guiteau himself was concerned he acted while at Freeport like any ordinary young man.

WASHINGTON.—President Arthur moved into the White House, although the bedroom that he will occupy is not yet ready and he will temporarily sleep in what is to be the guest chambers. He has selected as his private secretary John Davis, a grandson of "Honest John" Davis and a nephew of Judge J. Bancroft Davis.

CHICAGO.—The board of directors of the Chicago Driving park elected these officers: President, S. K. Dow; vice presidents, R. S. Smith and J. H. McAvoy; secretary, B. L. Hall; treasurer, H. V. Bemis; executive committee, Mr. Dow, Mr. Bemis, J. E. Brewster, M. Burke, J. S. Carter, W. C. Egan, A. Hayden, Mr. Hall, Washington Hesing, John B. Jeffery, W. R. King, A. A. Munger, and John Summerfield.

NEW YORK.—Jeff Davis reached New York on the steamer Neckar. He says he came over from England to look after his plantation in Tennessee and his business growing out of the publication of his book. On the subject of recent speculation in confederate bonds in England he said: "All I can say is that I hope the holders of the bonds will realize something upon them."

U. S. T. U'S IN GAS.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—The writer cannot refrain from sympathizing with the gas company on reading the various letters of outraged citizens upon discovering that this new type of gas from which they foolishly expected greater efficiency and lower costs is below their expectations. The public seems to forget that the gas company is in business to make money for its stockholders and cannot be classed as a benevolent association. If any one is to be blamed for the predicament in which the gas company and the public find themselves, this blame should properly fall on the shoulders of the public and its representatives on the utilities commission.

A few years ago the gas companies of the country were making an effort to reduce the B. t. u. value of the gas, which would have resulted in a superior and less expensive gas. This proposition had real merit, but was a little too technical for the public and its representatives to understand. However, let us quote excerpts from the manual of the American Gas association, August, 1924, entitled "Combustion," compiled by the industrial gas section of this association, whose headquarters are in New York City.

Page 61; Chapter 9. "Most people think that the heat value per cubic foot of the combustible gas is the indication of the relative quality of that fuel. This is not so. The general impression is that natural gas of a thousand B. t. u. per cubic foot is a better quality fuel than a city gas of 600 B. t. u., which, in turn, is a better fuel than a blue water gas of 300 B. t. u., which, in turn, is better than a producer gas of 150 B. t. u. This thought is entirely wrong as the B. t. u. value per cubic foot of combustible gas is absolutely no indication of the quality of our fuel."

The gas company now tells us that charging the customer in direct proportion to the B. t. u. value of the combustible gas is the fairest way for computing gas prices.

In the same chapter on page sixty-seven we quote: "In those communities where it is necessary to supply a gas of high B. t. u. value we find unnecessarily present in the gas a considerable amount of illuminants and hydrocarbons. These hydrocarbons are very sluggish in their combustion and, if the flue gases are cooled before these slow burning hydrocarbons have had a chance to completely burn, the incomplete combustion of these hydrocarbons is evidenced by soot and carbon deposits. This is the explanation of the black deposits found on the bottom of various cooking utensils. This is a sign of incomplete combustion and indicates unnecessary waste of heat.

"During the past few years it has been noticed that a great many gas companies have been able to appreciably lower the B. t. u. value of their gas without the consumer proportionately using a greater quantity of gas. In other words, most gas companies have found that in lowering the B. t. u. value of the gas the efficiency of utilization of the gas increased."

The gas companies, being unable to put over a plan which would have been of some real benefit, decided to quit trying to feed pearls to the swine and look after their stockholders. An ingenious plan was devised to charge on the B. t. u. or therm basis and then raise the B. t. u. value of the gas. The simple public, looking forward to saving a few nickels during these days when nickels are scarce, have finally found themselves neatly hooked.

Instead of sobbing and moaning about our predicament, why not applaud the ingenuity of our great American business leaders?

R. P. CAMPBELL.

THE MAYOR'S FOOTBALL PREFERENCES.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—Mayor Cermak claims to be a public spirited citizen. Why does he not remain at home and set a good example by attending the Big Ten charity game, instead of gallivanting around the country attending other games, when the most important game of the season for Chicagoans is being played in our own stadium?

The sale of 126 additional tickets to him and his traveling companions would in itself net a substantial sum for our own unemployed. "Charity begins at home" is an old but timely adage.

EXPRESS SERVICE.

FROM THE CORONER.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—An anxious mother, who does not identify herself, has written this office asking us to state in THE TRIBUNE if a certain unidentified man found in the river had certain marks on his arm. No such identification marks were found on this man. By publishing this in the Voice of the People, you will undoubtedly give peace of mind to this mother who fears to reveal her name.

FRANK J. WILSON,
Coroner.

EAT HEARTY.

Danville, Ill., Dec. 1.—Last Friday I was in Chicago and noticed in your issue of that day the photograph showing the wonderful Thanksgiving dinner that was being served to the inmates of the county jail. There seemed to be a real Thanksgiving spirit displayed and plenty of Thanksgiving cheer. It certainly is fine that those in authority should see fit to take care of those who have stepped outside the law in this manner.

In the same issue of your paper I also noticed a letter in which eight teachers spoke of their frugal meal, their need of clothes, mortgages coming due, and no money to take care of their children. Then, in a later news article, I also read that it is very probable that many of your police officers, firemen, and other employes of your city may have to be laid off.

It would appear that your public officials are to be congratulated. Those who are serving and working for the people, those who educate the children of Chicago, must go hungry and without protection; still your lawbreakers are given that which is denied to those that obey the law and pay their taxes.

AN ILLINOIS CITIZEN.

FOR HUNGRY CHILDREN.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—A group of eight mothers of our association attended the last night of THE TRIBUNE cooking school. Besides enjoying a wonderful program we were very much pleased when one of our members asked an usher if we could have some of the small loaves of bread for the needy children in our school lunchroom, which our association is operating free. Our request was granted and the bread, enough for two days' serving, was sent to my home in a cab, expense free. THE TRIBUNE is to be commended for the splendid work it is doing for our needy school children. It is cooperation like this that makes our members anxious and happy to carry on. We are giving 18 free hot meals daily to needy children.

(MRS. W.) LUCY NEWALK,
President, Gunsaulus Parent-Teacher Association.

A LOT OF TEACHERS.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—Will some one explain to me the policy of the board of education regarding the placement of teachers? My son goes to one of the north side junior high schools [the Steckter]. During the first eight weeks of school he has had four different arithmetic teachers, three different science teachers, two wood teachers and eight music teachers. I do not mean he has been changed around, but that the teachers have left to go to other schools. I should like to know how one can expect these children to learn anything in view of this constant change. Each teacher tries to take up the work where the other one left off, but is terribly handicapped. Could not the teacher be placed for at least one semester?

MRS. S. C. COMPTON.

UNION RULES.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—The 40 and 8 society of the American Legion arranged a program in protest of navy budget cuts which was held last night. Rear Admiral W. S. Crosley was an invited guest; and as it was a navy program, it was considered fitting to have the Great Lakes naval band present. Admiral Crosley claimed he was hedged in by regulations, but if we could obtain a release from Mr. James Petrillo of the Musicians' union he would gladly send the band. Mr. Petrillo declined to consent unless we paid the sum of $100 to permit a group of ex-service men to listen to Uncle Sam's band at a patriotic gathering of interest to our country! Are the unions trying to unionize Uncle Sam's fighting forces? There is an idea for some enterprising business agent!

JOSEPH MORRISON.

A QUESTION OF BREEDING.

Bronson, Mich., Nov. 28.—That fine looking yearling steer on the back page of THE TRIBUNE last Saturday is a Shorthorn, not a Hereford. I should think Miss Minear would object to have her steer called a Hereford.

BRUTAL TACTICS OF DRY AGENTS FREE OHIO TRIO

U. S. Commissioner Calls Their Acts Illegal.

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—Brutal tactics employed by federal prohibition agents in attempts to make "dry" cases were alleged at a hearing before United States Commissioner A. A. Siemon here today. The defendants, Victor Hanson, 37, his wife, Ruth Hanson, 35, and Hanson, 35, and Ralph Minella, 35, charged with conspiracy, were discharged. Commissioner Siemon held that a search of the Hanson home and Minella's automobile had been illegal and brutal.

Agents who figured in the case were W. E. Barcus, L. J. Lockhart, J. J. Augsburger, and C. M. Ward.

Barcus, the first government witness, said that he, with Agent Lockhart, secretly engaged a room in a downtown hotel on Nov. 13 and telephoned Mrs. Hanson for a half case of whisky. In the meantime, Augsburger and Ward, "planted" near the Hanson home, were to "watch the premises," Barcus said.

Search Automobile.

According to Augsburger and Ward, Minella was seen coming out of the house carrying a black grip. He entered an automobile, they said, and drove away. He was stopped by the agents, who allege they found eighteen pints of whisky, twelve quarts of gin, and one gallon of alcohol in the car.

Minella was taken to the Hanson home, where Mr. and Mrs. Hanson were placed under arrest, although no liquor was found in the house.

Federal Agents Augsburger and Ward admitted on the stand that they did not know for a fact that Barcus had telephoned Mrs. Hanson. They also admitted that they were a block from the house and it was dark when Minella came out. In view of this the United States commissioner held that a search of Minella's car was contrary to law and without probable cause. He added that the fact that he was seen walking out of the Hanson home with a grip would not indicate the grip contained liquor.

Held Prisoner in Agent's Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson were represented by Attorney Robert H. French, who brought out that although Minella was arrested about 4 p. m. he was kept in the custody of the agents until midnight in an effort to persuade him to sign a statement. It also developed that after the arrest Barcus took Minnella and Lockhart to his [Barcus'] home, where they had dinner and later "talked things over."

Agent Augsburger admitted that he threatened to shoot the lock off of the door of the Hanson home if Mrs. Hanson did not open it when he returned to search the premises without a warrant.

The agents, under cross-examination, denied threatening Minella if he did not sign a statement. They also denied "tearing up" the Hanson home during their search.

In disposing of the case, Commissioner Siemon emphasized that congress had thrown a safeguard about the private dwellings of citizens. It was not illegal, he said, to keep liquor in one's home for the owner's personal use, and any search of a home for liquor would be illegal unless there had been proof of sale or other probable cause.

ACCUSES CROWE OF GRAFT FROM CANAL PAY ROLL

Tailor Testifies as Trial Is Opened.

department did you work in on the sanitary district?"

"I don't know, your honor; I never was there," replied Peterson.

Crowe, the once robust, jolly political leader who is now only a shadow of his former self, did not hear this direct testimony against him. He walked from the courtroom as Peterson took the stand. He stayed in the hall smoking a cigar during most of the other testimony.

Louis Gertenrich, 514 North Leamington avenue, an old time semi-pro baseball player, was another who said Crowe got him his job.

"I was told to report to work," he testified. "I did not do anything to speak of, but my time was taken up attending meetings and the lectures in the water survey department."

Gertenrich said he lived in Crowe's home ward and decided to go into politics by getting a political job. He said that after a while he asked for a raise in pay because "he had been in the business world and knew more than the others." He was given the raise.

"This was my first venture in politics," he said. "I was what you might call an infant in politics."

"Are you sorry you learned anything about politics?" Judge Fisher smilingly asked the witness.

Pastor on the Pay Roll.

Among the pay roll witnesses was the Rev. Sam Maloney, colored, 4901 South parkway, who was told to watch the water level of the lake between 39th street and Randolph street. He walked up and down the shore line once in a while, he said, and put a mark on the breakwater so he could tell if the water were falling or rising. He got his job directly from Crowe as a result of a letter from former State's Attorney Robert Crowe, he said.

Then there was John Reisel, 1891 Alice avenue, a salesman, who wrote an essay on the flag and on sanitation. He said he understood 500 or 600 other pay rollers were doing the same thing.

Other witnesses were: Jerry Silha, 3201 South 61st court, Cicero; Edward J. Petlak, 1647 North Paulina street, son of Joseph Petlak, a ward committeeman; Thomas F. Plucinski, 3218 Coyne street; Albert B. Crawford, colored; 5836 Indiana avenue; Mrs. May Taylor, colored, 450 East 51st street; John G. Ryan, now a bailiff in the Municipal court, and Martin Sandberg, 439 Chester avenue, Park Ridge. They all testified they did nothing more than to report now and then to the district and to collect their pay checks.

One Defendant Is Ill.

All of the defendants who have appeared for trial were in court except John E. Lawler, who is ill in a hospital. The other defendants besides Crowe are James M. Whalen and John J. Touhy, trustees; Frank J. Link and August W. Miller, former trustees; John T. Miller, former superintendent of the permanent plants and structures department, and Martin Edelstein, former real estate agent. Timothy J. Connolly, former purchasing agent, is a fugitive from justice.

The prosecution was represented in court by First Assistant State's Attorney Northup and Assistants Jo Calvin Wells, Harold M. Kesle, Henry Seyfarth, and Leroy Mather. Attorneys John Higgins, Albert Prink, and John McInerney represent the defense.

Judges John Swystalski and James J. Kelly are sitting in an advisory capacity with Judge Fisher. The trial is being conducted without a jury. The possible penalty for each defendant if convicted is a sentence up to five years in the penitentiary and a fine up to $5,000.

Subpoenas were mailed out yesterday to 300 witnesses, ordering them to appear in court tomorrow, Thursday and Friday.

"Failure to obey this mail service, which is legal, makes delinquents liable to possible contempt action," warned Mr. Northup.

THE MORNING SESSION

When the trial opened in the morning Attorney Short made a surprise motion for a continuance or severance on behalf of the defendant, Lawler. He informed the three judges that Lawler was in a serious condition at the Presbyterian hospital and might have to undergo an operation for ulcers soon. The attorney offered to produce Dr. Frank L. Loring to testify on the defendant's condition.

"Why don't you go ahead with the trial without him being present?" said Judge Fisher. "This is a misdemeanor case and he does not have to be here."

Lawyer Explains Motion.

"Of course, I realize that he does not have to be present in court at a conspiracy trial, but he wants to be present," replied Attorney Short. "I am not appearing here as his lawyer, but as a friend. Attorneys McInerney and Fink represent the defendants, but because they and the other defendants are ready and anxious to go on trial this morning neither of the attorneys desired to make this motion.

"Mr. Lawler would want to be here to help in the cross-examination of witnesses. He might even want to be a witness in his own behalf.

"It is not his fault, your honor, that he cannot be here. I am asking either for a severance or a continuance of this case."

"It would be unfair to this community to have a severance granted to any of the defendants or to allow a continuance," replied Judge Fisher. "I am not going to try this case twice. Your motions are denied. You will have to proceed with this case."

Attorneys Fink and McInerney said that in view of Lawler's absence they could not waive any of his rights, such as making no objection to three judges acting in the case or waiving a jury. The judges, however, ruled that such matters were settled 10 days ago, when the case was formally placed on trial at the request of the defense attorneys, so that no other court could force them into other cases and postpone this case.

Prosecutor Outlines Evidence.

Prosecutor Northup then started his opening statement of the evidence which the state expects to prove. The judges did not interrupt him during his recital, nor did the defense attorneys indicate that they would object to any of the evidence which the prosecution will produce.

Prosecutor Northup first outlined the evidence of payroll padding, particularly as to the water survey department, in which thousands of persons were employed to find out which homes had water meters installed.

"The state will show that this work was wholly unnecessary," he said, "and that any representation that it was necessary and needed by the district was wholly false; that with a little effort and slight expense the information could have been obtained either from the water office in the city hall or from the city meter division."

The prosecutor said there were hundreds of employes paid daily who did nothing more than report for work, some of them by telephone.

"Persons who were then on the pay rolls came from almost every calling," Mr. Northup said. "They numbered baseball players and bowlers who performed no services for the district other than play on the teams known as the T. J. Crowe team and the T. J. Crowe Bowling league. There were singers, dancers, musicians, and entertainers on the rolls who did nothing for the district except to sing and dance and entertain.

"There were many politicians belonging to all factions of all parties who did nothing but draw salaries. Names were forged to pay rolls and vouchers and money paid out on such representations. The learned professions were well represented, lawyers, physicians, and ministers of the gospel being among those who drew salaries for no services. The old and infirm were carried on the pay rolls, and there was a boy but little out of his knee pants."

Prosecutor Northup said he would show that some of the defendants personally benefited from the pay roll padding.

Canal District Contracts.

The contracts were then taken up. Mr. Northup said the defendants evaded the law requiring all work costing over $500 to be let by competitive bidding by allowing the work to be done in lots of less than $500 on succeeding days. Dummy companies were formed by some of the district employes themselves, he charged.

"It will be shown that liquor was used freely and in great quantities to obtain this work," he said. "In instances as high as twenty-five cases of whisky were given a month to obtain contracts for this particular group. The price of the whisky figured in the cost of the material."

The evidence on the $1,100,000 cinder bridle path will be submitted in the contract phase of the case, the prosecutor said. He told the judges that he would show that the fair cost of this project would have been $800,000.

The prosecutor did not divulge the scope of his evidence in regard to the large contract projects, other than to say that he would show a conspiracy to allow certain favored contractors to get all of the work. This favoritism, he said, was shown particularly to the U. S. A. Electrical company, of which George L. Chamberlain is the president. Chamberlain is named as a co-conspirator but not a defendant. Mr. Northup said that the prosecution would show on six specific contracts that the taxpayers were defrauded of at least $4,000,000 over the fair price.

"The state will show that at about the time these contracts were to be let Chamberlain made large cash withdrawals from the miscellaneous expense fund of the various jobs," he said. "We will show that about the same time the bank accounts of some of these defendants showed a cluster of currency deposits. Then the evidence will disclose that there was a barren spread when Chamberlain was not doing district work and was not withdrawing money from his accounts. We will offer the bank accounts of the defendants Crowe, Link, and Miller in particular."

Parched or toasted? No, sir!

CAMELS are FRESH!

THE bedrock of Camel popularity is the inherently fine quality of the tobaccos that go into our cigarette.

These tobaccos are notably mild, full-mellow, delicately flavored by nature — the finest Turkish and mild, sun-ripened Domestic tobaccos that money can buy.

To safeguard the essential goodness of these fine tobaccos we exercise every care to conserve their natural moisture and natural flavors.

They are never parched or toasted — the Reynolds method of scientifically applying heat guarantees against that.

That's why we say Camels are made fresh to start with—and why the Camel Humidor Pack can bring them fresh to you, in prime smoking condition.

If you want to know what a blessing that means in unalloyed smoke-enjoyment, switch to Camels for just one day — then leave them—if you can.

PUZZLE: Find the Better Ad

. . . and how it got that way!

Writing an ad is only half of the job. An Editor must do the other half. Tests show that editorial interest in different magazines may vary stopping power of the same ad as much as 153%. (With Barbasol it was 71%) . . . In his 6-city census of reader-interest in the 4 mass weeklies, Dr. Gallup measured the editorial "steam-pressure" each magazine puts behind your ads. Here are his gauges—showing the percentage of readers actually reading the average editorial feature in each.

THE quick facts are these: In copy, headline, art, these two Barbasol ads are identical. But one ran in LIBERTY. The other in another mass weekly.

Both appeared during the period when Dr. George Gallup and his associates were counting up what people had seen, what people had read in the four mass weeklies*.

And that count showed that this Barbasol ad in LIBERTY stopped 71% more men and women per dollar invested than the same ad in Weekly A!

How Did It Get That Way?

While Dr. Gallup was checking ads, he also checked editorial pages. Here he made two discoveries:

First: The most widely read type of article was most widely read regardless of the magazine it ran in. The best-read articles in all magazines were much alike in their dramatic, sentimental, fast-moving simplicity.

Second: LIBERTY carried more of this more-highly-popular type of editorial material than any other magazine.

By direct count (see panel above) the average editorial feature in LIBERTY had a reader-interest 17% higher than that in Weekly A—6% higher than that in Weekly B—and 41% higher than that in Weekly C.

These variations in editorial interest directly paralleled the variations in advertising interest!

Paced to the Public

Eight years ago, LIBERTY was born. Into a changed generation. Into a world altered in thinking, in living, in attitude.

Such artists as Bairnsfather, Benda, Flagg, Held, Knight, Tomaso.

And published their stirring writings under such heads as "Will Americans and the English Ever Understand Each Other?" (Winston Churchill on Anglo-American relations)—"To Hell with the Admirals!" (Smedley Butler saying good-bye to the Navy)—"Is Franklin Roosevelt Physically Fit to be President?" (the most widely-read article in any of the 4 weeklies during the Gallup Reader-Interest Census*).

Nor Is That All . . .

To carry all this LIBERTY provided a new format. Compact, easy-to-handle, free of uncomfortable bulk. An easy-reading make-up, with no run-overs, no ads buried but all next to live reading matter.

Finally—LIBERTY tested everything by offering itself to the public!

By letting magazine readers buy for themselves! By banning subscription drives, premiums, cut-rates, help-me-to-go-through-college pleaders! By making every issue sell itself—week after week—without benefit of subscription lists!

Today more people ask for LIBERTY than for any other magazine. More people buy it week after week throughout the year.

99% of the circulation you pay for is circulation bought because it's wanted to be read—only 1% is circulation sold a year in advance!

Let LIBERTY Help Make Your 1932 a Better Year

If you are spending money in the mass weeklies during 1932, you owe it to yourself to give that money every chance to do a job.

You may get along without LIBERTY.

But you may be more successful with it!

Why not examine all the facts thoroughly before you decide?

Why not study the report of the 6 studies made by Dr. Gallup—made, in three of the cities, under official observation by the A.N.A.—and get the story on other ads which, like Barbasol's, ran in duplicate in LIBERTY and other weeklies?

The stopping power of hundreds of ads is summarized in this report. And the reader-interest "score" of many stories, articles and features in LIBERTY and other magazines.

To obtain a copy, simply express a desire for it. Without further obligation, it will be delivered to any mass advertiser by his nearest LIBERTY representative. Address LIBERTY, 420 Lexington Avenue, New York City.

*6 SEPARATE STUDIES

The first attempt to measure reader-interest in terms of things actually seen and read was made last July and August by Dr. George Gallup, of Northwestern University.

Accompanied in 5 cities by official observers from the A.N.A., Dr. Gallup led his researchers into Springfield, Mass.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Greensboro, N. C.; Columbus, Ohio; Topeka, Kansas, and Sioux Falls, S. D., during 6 consecutive weeks.

In each city, researchers carried then-current, fresh copies of the four mass weeklies. At each door—15,000 were visited during the 6 weeks—they asked, "Have you a copy of any of these magazines?"

Where the answer was "Yes," the person replying was asked to leaf through the entire magazine, indicating what had been noted, what had been partly read, what had been read all the way through.

These facts were noted down by check marks, and the marked copies returned to headquarters as records. The actual magazines bearing these crayon checks are on file in New York, and are available for responsible study.

Students will discover from them two paralleling facts:

(1) The average editorial feature in LIBERTY was read by 17% more people than in Weekly A; 6% more people than in Weekly B; 41% more people than in Weekly C; and . . .

(2) The average advertisement in LIBERTY stopped 48% more people than in Weekly A; 23% more people than in Weekly B; and 112% more people than in Weekly C.

STATE TRIES TO INVOLVE JONES IN ARMS PLOT

Defendant's Son Takes Stand for Defense.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mount Sterling, Ky., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—The state set out this afternoon to show in rebuttal testimony that W. B. Jones, Harlan county secretary of the Mine Workers' union, on trial here for murder and conspiracy, knew of the secret delivery of guns on the morning of the May 5th battle with mine guards, and had delivered one of the guns to a neighbor for use on that occasion.

Jones was recalled to the witness stand by R. L. Pope, special prosecutor, and was asked:

A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you see him on the morning of the shooting, about 10 or 15 minutes before the shooting, at or near your home? A.—Yes, he came along as I stepped out on the porch.

Q.—Do you know Charles Shadduck? A.—I think so.

Denies Taking a Gun.

Q.—Don't you know that Shellhorse and Shadduck brought a number of guns to a Ford car, either from Pineville or Straight Creek through Harlan and stopped the car at 6 a. m. at the crossing where Jim Daniels was killed, after which Shellhorse left the car and reported to you, and you took one of the guns and delivered it to Kenneth Dalton? A.—No sir.

The defense has devoted some effort to combat the evidence from several sources, chiefly members of the Engels family, that Jones was seen early on May 5 carrying a gun across the field or was seen at the Dalton house. One of the last witnesses put on by the defense today was Jordan Bean, a mine worker, who testified that he had visited the premises and had taken measurements and that the doorway of the Dalton house could not be seen from the Engels porch, as a garage intervened. The state attempted to show that this garage was built on a slope and that one could see over the roof into the Dalton porch.

The defense aimed a final barrage of character witnesses at the bulwarks of the state case, the Lester brothers, Jim Cawood, and Josh Montgomery. Floyd Middleton, a Harlan druggist, testified that the reputations of these men for good moral character was bad in the community. Joe Cawood, Evarts merchant and member of the school board, said the same thing. He is a defendant in the conspiracy cases, but his case was not transferred here.

He waived his rights in taking the stand, but the prosecution did not subject him to cross-examination, dropping him quickly.

He is a first cousin of Jim Cawood and said he would "rather not testify" as to Jim's reputation, but he finally said that it was "bad."

Jones' Son Takes Stand.

While he sat there one of his baby brothers escaped from his mother's arms in the benches back of the defendant and ran to the witness box, sucking his thumb and hanging on to his brother's knee.

Other Jones children were in the room and others played in the hallways with the children of the slain Daniels.

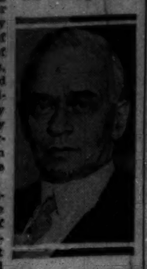
Elmer seemed to tell a straightforward story about what he and his father were doing on the morning of the shooting. He got up at 6 o'clock that morning, and after breakfast helped his mother with the washing, carrying water from a spring across the tracks. The night before he had been to the union meeting at the theater where the prosecution contends the killings were planned, but he did not stay long, he said, and heard nothing about guns or "killing Jim Daniels."

"Dad was writing at the desk in the office when the shooting began," he said.

Gardiner Renews His Attack on Hoover's Naval Policies

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—Renewing his charge that President Hoover had constantly shown a lack of knowledge of naval matters, William Howard Gardiner, president of the Navy league, today fired a new barrage of criticism at the White House.



WM. H. GARDINER.

In his latest attack on the White House conduct of the navy, Mr. Gardiner hits back at the Hammond committee which was selected by the President to vindicate his naval policies, takes a shot at Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, assails the President for slowing up cruiser construction and ends with a call for a congressional investigation into the financial policy of Mr. Hoover toward the navy.

Renewed Attack on Hoover.

The Navy league president aimed some of his sharpest darts at President Hoover's proposal "that food supplies should be made immune from interference in time of war." He asserted that "this misguided effort, seemingly to help countries situated as is England," disclosed that the President did not have a proper understanding of why navies are maintained.

"It being inconceivable," says Mr. Gardiner, "that one occupying that most exalted of offices, the presidency of the United States, with its immeasurable responsibilities primarily to and for the present and future United States, could have made such a proposal understandingly, the only alternative was to view his proposal as an instance of a layman to the highly complex subject in hand proposing an ill considered nostrum—a view that led inevitably to the conclusion that his having made such a proposal showed a virtually total lack of appreciation on the part of Mr. Hoover of at least some of the basic reasons why navies are maintained and of how they are used to accomplish their major mission."

Quotes Independent Survey.

Pursuing this line of attack, Mr. Gardiner called attention to a publication entitled "Survey of American Foreign Relations, 1931," from the Yale University Press, on behalf of the Council of Foreign Relations, "of which Elihu Root is honorary president and John W. Davis president."

"In this survey," continues Mr. Gardiner, "is an extended consideration specifically of Mr. Hoover's proposal to immunize food supplies in time of war which comes to the conclusion that such a scheme would be opposed by the strongest powers in Europe, because it 'would destroy the offensive value of sea power at the root.'

"The Navy League takes this occasion to express its gratitude for this criticism of Mr. Hoover's proposal and collateral support of our point of view, in this particular respect, by these very distinguished gentlemen.

"In conclusion, it seems appropriate to recall that Mr. Hoover, after showing such a lack of personal understanding as to naval matters, has alleged in the statement that he issued on our last Navy day, in effect, that, as he believes our navy and army now to be strong enough to repel invasion, they should not be increased, lest so doing increase ill will in other countries—and this although our navy is, in essential respects, much weaker than are those of other naval treaty powers when judged by treaty quotas.

"For him to take such a position is to go back on the platform on which he was elected and to turn his back on such parity principles as are claimed for the London naval treaty. And, furthermore, it is, in effect, to express complaisance at the existing naval superiority of other powers and to deny our naval protection to our distant, outlying possessions and to our vitally important world-wide trade.

Cry for Congressional Action.

"Such a misconception of the duties of our navy and the consequent financial policy of Mr. Hoover toward our navy are the present naval problems that cry for a congressional investigation into his entire conduct of our naval affairs. And it is to such subjects that we hope to be allowed to devote our attention, rather than to rebutting Mr. Hoover's organized efforts to discredit the Navy league, seemingly because it states truth unpalatable to him."

Most of the Gardiner document was taken up with refutations of allegations made by the Hammond committee in its report supporting the President and attacking the Navy league for its pamphlet of Oct. 25, in which the charge was made that the President had "exhibited abysmal ignorance of the reason why navies are maintained."

Mr. Gardiner attacked the statement of Secretary Stimson, in which the latter denied a Navy league assertion that the administration had refused to allow even an executive session of the senate to see the full record of the London naval treaty negotiations. Gardiner said that despite Mr. Stimson's denial, the record showed that the senate committee had not been given the documents.

Cites Figures in Rebuttal.

President Gardiner produced statistics to show that despite the Hammond committee's denials, President Hoover had slowed up the construction of five Washington treaty 8 inch gun cruisers. He ended this phase of his statement with this paragraph:

"As the committee appointed by Mr. Hoover, avowedly with the purpose of showing up what he mistakenly alleged to be 'untruths and distortions of fact' on our part, has not only failed to do so, but, apparently, has felt constrained to sign a report and letter of transmittal, themselves evidently distorted, there would not now seem to be any further occasion to consider this miscarriage of a highly organized effort to discredit the Navy league, seemingly because we told unpalatable truths."

MITCHELL URGES SPEEDING UP OF CRIME SENTENCES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—New federal machinery designed to shorten the time between convictions of gangsters and other criminals in the District courts and their incarceration in government penitentiaries was recommended today by Attorney General William D. Mitchell.

W. D. MITCHELL. [Harris & Ewing Photo.]

The attorney general recommended that congress authorize the United States Supreme court to prescribe a uniform set of rules of practice and procedure in criminal cases in all proceedings after verdicts rendered in the District courts and Circuit Court of Appeals. He asserted that convictions lose their effect as a deterrent on crime if long delay elapses after convictions.

Procedure should be adopted, said Attorney General Mitchell, which would make it to the interest of the convicted person to expedite his appeal in every way.

Makes Other Suggestions.

Other recommendations made by Mr. Mitchell in his annual report to President Hoover included one calling for legislation permitting an accused to waive the requirement of an indictment by a grand jury. He also urged the appointment of new federal judges. Seventeen temporary judgeships should be made permanent, he said.

Attorney General Mitchell said he would soon submit another recommendation for changes in the bankruptcy laws. His report carried statements from all assistant attorney generals, the director of prohibition, and the heads of the probation and parole system. These reports disclosed an increasing number of criminals are being paroled each year with the number of convicted persons out on probation also going up.

Argues for Speeding Procedure.

In urging a change in federal judicial procedure in criminal cases, Attorney General Mitchell said:

"The present system permits inexcusable delays and unnecessary expense. There are cases now pending in the federal courts where years have elapsed since the verdicts of guilty without the cases having been finally disposed of in the Circuit Courts of Appeal.

"With the granting of stay of execution of sentence and of bail, the convict loses all incentive to expediting his appeal. The present procedure having to do with preparation of records on appeal lend themselves to delay. It is not necessary to restrict the existing right of appeal, nor to deny supersedeas or bail pending appeal, but conditions should be prescribed that will make it to the interest of the convicted person to expedite his appeal, require prosecuting attorneys to do their utmost to expedite appeals, and limit the indulgences and extensions that are all too prevalent.

"Convictions lost their effect if months and years elapse after verdicts of guilty. In my judgment no single step would accomplish more in removing the just criticism of criminal procedure than to expedite the prompt disposition of appeals. To do this it is necessary to go back to the rules of the District courts in which, after verdict, the preliminary steps for appeal are conducted and to follow the case through to its final disposition in the United States Circuit Courts of Appeal.

"The wise course is to authorize the Supreme court to prescribe a uniform set of rules of practice and procedure in criminal cases in respect of all proceedings after verdicts in the district courts and in the circuit court of appeal. That court has put an end to delays in criminal delays brought before it and it may be expected to adopt rules to produce like results in the lower courts."

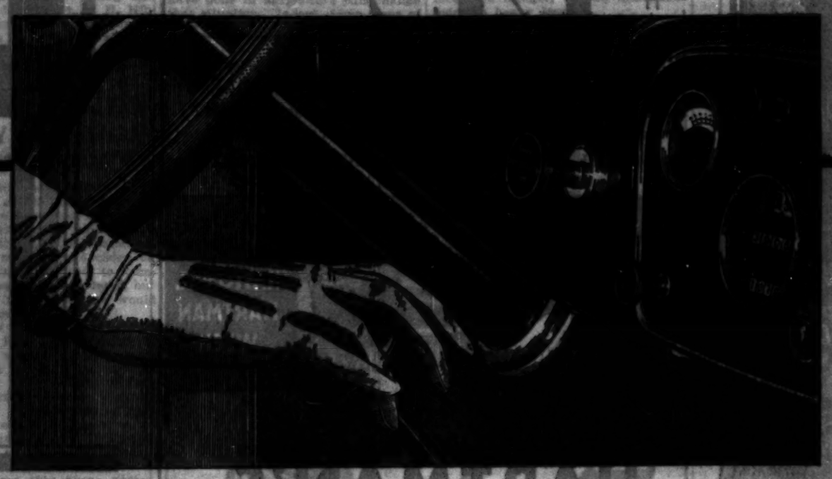
CHEVROLET

The first and only low-priced car with Syncro-Mesh Shift and Free Wheeling



The new Chevrolet Six combines the advantages of two inventions . . . Syncro-Mesh and Free Wheeling . . . to assure quick, quiet, easy gear-shifting and positive control of the car under every driving condition

ONE of the biggest driving thrills in modern motoring is now available at one of the lowest prices in the automobile market! Syncro-Mesh shifting is combined with Free Wheeling in the new Chevrolet Six!

This is the first time that these two outstanding inventions have been brought together in a low-priced automobile. Syncro-Mesh is recognized as the most advanced type of transmission ever developed by engineering science. Free Wheeling is that new, up-to-date sensation which adds so much to the zest of driving. The two make a matchless combination! They bring about an entirely new kind of driving ease and car control, far beyond anything you have ever enjoyed before. They give you quick, quiet shifting and complete mastery of the car, under all conditions of road and traffic. They enable you to do things in driving that are impossible to do in a car without both these features.

Suppose you prefer to drive in "standard" gear, without Free Wheeling. Syncro-Mesh enables you to shift from low to second, second to high, and high back to second, with uncanny speed, silence and precision. There's no sticking of gears with Syncro-Mesh. No annoying clashing, grinding or grating. A simple flick of the gear-shift lever, and the gear slips into place like magic. This ability is particularly desirable when descending steep hills or traveling slippery streets. You can make an instant gear-change from high back into second, without slowing down the car. Thus, you take quick advantage of the braking power and controlling force of the engine's compression.

Then, suppose you want to enjoy Free Wheeling. Simply press a convenient button on the dash. Thereafter, and until you pull the button out again, you are "in" Free Wheeling. Every time you remove your foot from the accelerator, your engine is released. You coast along with a delightful gliding sensation. You are free from the "pull" and "drag" of engine compression. And every time you want to shift, you do so with never-to-be-forgotten ease.

The Free Wheeling mechanism of the new Chevrolet Six is a highly simplified type. Instead of being a complicated mechanism with many moving parts, it is a simple, sturdy unit, with only three moving parts. Just as no other low-priced automobile has Syncro-Mesh gear-shifting, no other combines it with simplified Free Wheeling!

But these two big features are only the start of a long list of improvements in the new Chevrolet Six. Come in and get the facts about them all. Chevrolet offers a complete new line of Fisher bodies, styled, finished and appointed like custom cars. Chevrolet offers an exclusive new front fender mounting—which stabilizes the entire front end assembly and gives a fine feeling of steadiness while traveling over rough roads. Chevrolet's 60-horsepower six-cylinder engine is 20 per cent more powerful than before, much livelier, even smoother and quieter at every speed—and capable of 65 to 70 miles per hour. Combined with this brilliant new performance is matchless economy of operation and upkeep.

Finally, to emphasize Chevrolet's position as the Great American Value for 1932, the prices on these cars have been set as low as $475, f. o. b. Flint, Michigan—one of the lowest price groups in the motor car market.

YANKEE DECLINES GAVEL IN PROBING BERLIN FINANCES

Germany to Bare Story at Basel Today.

BY EGBERT SWENSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASEL, Dec. 7. — The consultative committee of the bank for international settlements to determine whether Germany will be able to resume reparations payments next summer convened at 12:30 p. m. today instead of 10:30 a. m., because Walter W. Stewart, the American member, refused to accept the chairmanship.

Even when the committee members made the invitation unanimous he refused to accept, giving as his reason that he is only an expert and is not accustomed to wielding a gavel and would, therefore, prefer to see the chair filled by an older and more experienced member. This explanation was generally taken in world bank circles as only a polite gesture. It is asserted that the real reason is that he had instructions from the Federal Reserve bank of New York cautioning him to refuse, as the United States preferred to keep in the background.

Elect Italian Chairman.

So the Europeans wrangled for two hours. The next outcome was the unanimous election of Dr. Alberto Beneduce of Italy, former mathematics professor and now a bank president. Barring the American and Japanese delegates, Dr. Beneduce is considered to be the only moderate delegate. France and Belgium constitute the reparations diehards. Germany and Great Britain are at the other extreme, eager to wipe out all reparations. In between are the United States, Japan and Italy.

When Stewart refused the chair, France pushed Emile Francqui, Belgian financial expert, but he met strong objections from various members. Then Colijn of Holland and Bindschedler of Switzerland were mentioned, it is understood, but France objected. Her reason, it is said, was that these two countries believe commercial debts should be given preference over reparations, contrary to the French thesis.

Charge France Seeks Delay.

Some quarters credit France's objection with being the first in a policy of delaying the proceedings. France's interest, it is charged, is to prevent the committee from finishing its job too soon. Premier Laval's government in France, certain bankers insist, is not too sure of its tenure of office and fears the consultative committee's findings may prove unpleasant and so precipitate the cabinet's fall.

The committee today invited Otto Hydbeck of Sweden, Hendryk Colijn of Holland, R. G. Bindschedler of Switzerland, and George Djuritch of Jugo-Slavia to take the four supplementary seats provided by the Young plan. The committee then adjourned to study Carl Joseph Melchior's documents intended to prove that Germany can pay reparations no longer. Tomorrow the mittee will hear Melchoir's story.

Bruening to Answer Hitler.

Berlin, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening in the next few days will publicly answer Adolf Hitler's attacks against his government.

He is awaiting information from Prof. Ludwig Kaas, leader of the centrist party, as to the attitude of the Catholic hierarchy toward Hitler's pledges to rise to power by way of the ballot box. Prof. Kaas is expected back from Rome tonight.

Hitler's statements as to how he will handle reparations and the economic life of the country if and when he comes into authority are described by government circles as "vaporings."

Hitler to Visit Rome.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Munich, Dec. 7.—Adolf Hitler, leader of the National Socialists, has obtained a passport and transit visas to visit Rome, his headquarters admitted tonight.

NAZIS DEMAND EUGENICS LAW TO PURIFY GERMANY

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LEIPSIG, Dec. 7.—At the congress of the National Socialist pharmacists and physicians being held here, the "racial" purification of Germany today was put forward as one of the prime objectives of the "Nazi" regime, once the party assumed the reins of government. The Nordic race —"the finest flower on the tree of humanity," as one speaker described it—it was said, must be bred and secured in unquestioned predominance according to the "criteria of race hygiene and eugenics."

Germany's population would be divided into three groups, of which the topmost, the Nordic, must be nurtured predominantly, tolerance being extended to the group next below as a sort of suffered helots, while the lowest group would be eliminated through compulsory civilization. Special race bureaus would be established which would keep tabs on every citizen and on marriage tending against the program of security. Miscegenation would be forbidden by statute.

Dr. Strasser, one of Herr Hitler's lieutenants, declared that when the "Nazi" movement gained ascendancy it would restore to the German people their primitive vigor, and would bring the women back from the factories and offices to the kitchen.

TOBACCO MEN BATTLE POLICE IN PRICE REVOLT

Force Burley Mart to Suspend.

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—The Lexington tobacco market, largest loose leaf burley mart in the world, opened today, then closed abruptly in a price riot that nearly assumed the proportions of a pitched battle. Enraged by the low price offered—$12 a hundredweight—tobacco farmers fought fist fights with warehousemen and police. Finally, with more than ten million pounds of leaf unsold on the floors of the twenty-two sales houses, sales were abruptly suspended this afternoon until further notice, by order of the local tobacco board of trade.

Late in the afternoon hundreds of dissatisfied planters marched to the City auditorium in Woodland Park, a mile away from the tobacco district, and held a protest meeting. Speakers urged the growers to stand together and not "give their tobacco away to the trust."

Police Roughly Handled.

Attempts of police to arrest Harry Weiner of Georgetown, leader of the insurgents, were twice frustrated by his supporters, who overpowered the officers and rescued him. At one warehouse two police officers, who attempted to take Weiner into custody, were roughly handled and ejected from the building.

At the Gentry warehouse, J. Morgan Gentry, former city commissioner and proprietor of the house, challenged Weiner's right to interfere with the sale by haranguing the growers and the two became involved in a fight, which precipitated a riot and put a stop to sales at this plant.

Luther Stivers, another ex-city commissioner, banker and owner of People's warehouse, attacked Weiner and police interfered and arrested the latter. On the street outside, however, Weiner's sympathizers seized the officers and took Weiner away from them.

Weiner Again Arrested.

A crowd of several thousand proceeded to the New Independent No. 2 and Anglin avenue houses. Here Capt. Thomas P. Hanly and Patrolman L. E. Henderson again arrested Weiner, but the crowd put the two officers out of the building.

The method employed to stop the sales was loud shouting.

2 LAKE COUNTY SUPERVISORS ARE TARGETS IN SUITS

R. Harry Stripe, a Waukegan insurance agent, yesterday filed the praecipes of suits for $20,000 each against William J. Obee and Arthur W. Vercoe of Highland Park, members of the county board of supervisors, in the Lake county Circuit court. He filed the suits as a taxpayer. Stripe said that the suits were for recovery by the county treasury of sums which he has previously charged were paid wrongfully to the two supervisors.

Stripe has charged that Obee acted as superintendent of construction on a courthouse addition in 1923, a position which he was legally barred from holding because he was a supervisor, and that Vercoe was the broker in the sale of a $1,250,000 county road bond issue in 1930.

GERMANY FORCES EX-PRINCESS TO STAY AT HOME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 7.—A former Hohenzollern princess cannot make ends meet on $48 a month, so the former kaiser's sister-in-law, Princess Louise Sophie, is compelled to remain in Germany and must abandon her plans to spend the winter in the south.

After the recent death of her husband, Friedrich Leopold, known as the "red prince," the princess decided to move to Lugano, Switzerland, where she has a luxurious villa.

A Republican decree has forestalled this plan, however, as the transfer of money from Germany is restricted by the decree to $48 monthly. The princess will therefore continue to live in Germany until conditions improve. She will reside at Glücke.

Fugitive Austrian Revolt Leader Surrenders to Police

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Dec. 7.—Dr. Walter Pfrimer, Austrian Fascist leader, accused of engineering the ill fated revolt on Sept. 13, surrenderd to the police in Graz, capital of Styria, today and was imprisoned. Since the revolt Pfrimer has been a fugitive from Austria in Jugo-Slavia, Germany, and Italy.

FARMERS UNITE TO CHANGE U. S. MARKETING ACT

Rap Federal Financing, But Oppose Repeal.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Representatives of about two million farmers, members of the three leading farm organizations of the nation, began a united fight yesterday in the first sessions of the American Farm Bureau federation's annual convention to have congress alter the agricultural marketing act. The sessions are being held in the Hotel Sherman.

The farm board, however, will be championed by the federation, the National Grange, and the National Farmers' union, although its farm price stabilization methods have not had the approval of these groups. This was announced last night by E. A. O'Neal, president of the federation; L. J. Taber, head of the grange, and John Simpson, president of the union.

Until this conclusion was reached, it was pointed out, the three groups have each favored a different method of controlling surpluses of farm products. They all agree that federal financing as provided in the farm marketing act "can never succeed" and they will ask amendments on this part of the act. But they will oppose any efforts to have the entire act repealed by congress.

Honor Three for Farm Service.

Last night three men were singled out by the farm bureau federation for its annual award of medals "for distinguished service to American agriculture."

Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, received the medal, the federation announced, "largely due to the fact that he probably lost a chance for the presidency in 'fronting' for agriculture in the councils of his party."

Mr. Lowden championed the equalization fee principle of surplus control in the Republican national convention at Kansas City in 1928. He has continued to support this plan, which in substance would tax each farmer in proportion to the size of the crops he markets for what farm products must be sold at a loss abroad. Mr. Lowden is to appear on the program of the federation tomorrow morning.

The other two men receiving the award were Andrew Shearer of Frankfort, Kas., long a champion of the county agricultural agent system, and E. V. Titus of Glen Cove, N. Y., called the "grand old man of New York agriculture."

Urges National Research.

During the day Prof. M. L. Wilson, economist of Montana Agricultural college, proposed that a national research program to determine the competitive forces in agriculture be created. He advocated provision for a "scientific basis for adjustments of supply" by the establishment of state and regional research councils.

"Aside from the problem of stabilizing the dollar or stabilizing prices, the stabilizing of production is the most important, and perhaps most difficult, problem in agriculture today," Prof. Wilson declared.

O'Neal Outlines Program.

President O'Neal, in his opening address, emphasized that two-thirds of the farmers are not now members of any organization and spoke of this as a challenge to organization workers. He said that by amending the agricultural marketing act to provide a method of stabilizing farm prices with the debenture or equalization fee, farmers were also advocating the movement to "get the government out of business."

"The equalization fee principle will in fact put the government out of business," O'Neal said. "The cost of the marketing program utilizing the equalization fee will be borne by the farmer himself and not by the government."

Taxes get the farmer "going and coming," according to Dr. B. H. Hibbard of the University of Wisconsin, another of the day's speakers. The country over, the farmer's tax bill is close to 30 per cent of his annual income, Dr. Hibbard said.

GEORGE WASHINGTON HAILED FATHER OF ICE CREAM MAKERS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—(AP)—George Washington was credited today with being the first person to make ice cream.

The first President's own words were quoted in support of the claim by the George Washington bicentennial commission. His cash memorandum book on May 17, 1784, contained an expenditure for a "cream machine for ice."

The commission said it was "willing to give Washington credit for it until better proof is forthcoming in favor of some one else."

It had been generally accepted that Dolly Madison, wife of the fourth President, was the inventor of ice cream.

PARLEY FAILS TO REACH DECISION ON MILK PRICES

Officials of Chicago milk dealers and the Pure Milk association, which represents farmers supplying the metropolitan area with milk, adjourned a conference at the Hotel La Salle last night without reaching a decision on milk prices. They declined to comment on matters being considered, but indicated that the conference would be continued today.

The Chicago Milk Dealers' Bottle exchange, the Pure Milk association, and a group of milk dealers were named in a bill for an injunction filed in the Circuit court at the county building yesterday. Joseph Wagner, owner of the Wagner Dairy, 6401 West 24th street, Cicero, seeks to restrain these agencies from "interfering" with his business, and destroying milk bottles.

Wagner alleges that those named in the bill are trying to force him out of business "by an unlawful combine" and cites various instances of interference with his deliveries. He also accuses the milk bottle exchange of misconduct in handling bottles owned by him received by other dealers in the exchange, and charging him exorbitant rates for handling his bottles. The Wagner Dairy is non-union concern.

Several court cases are now pending against Wagner, started by the Pure Milk association to collect unpaid claims for milk delivered by farmers belonging to the association.

COUNT SAYS U. S. IS SAFE FROM SOVIET WHEAT

Sees Waning of Russian Grain Exports.

Soviet wheat growing schemes can never threaten the position of the American and Canadian wheat growers in the world market, in the opinion of Count Paul Ignatieff, former Russian minister of agriculture and governor of the province of Kiev in the Ukraine, under Czar Nicholas.

Eight months ago, when the world was disturbed by reports of an enormous Ukrainian wheat crop, Count Ignatieff, in a speech before the Imperial club in Toronto, declared that the fears of soviet wheat dumping were baseless. Canadian wheat traders were far from reassured by his statement.

But yesterday when he came to Chicago in the interests of the old Russian Red Cross, of which he is president, the wheat situation was such that the count could say, "I told you so." Late reports are that the soviets have cancelled export deliveries and are buying wheat in the open market.

Decline in Exports Forecast.

"As long ago as 1910 a commission appointed by the czar determined by two years of research that Russian wheat exports would steadily decline to a point of total extinction," the count recalled. "Nothing the soviets have done in agriculture can change that situation. Indeed, some steps of their program seem likely to hasten it."

The czar's commission, according to Count Ignatieff, found it economically impossible for the peasants to grow wheat in competition with the great Canadian, American, and Argentine ranches. Hence a program of diversified farming was introduced. Beef and dairy cattle were imported and the peasants were encouraged to enter the dairy market.

"Then came the revolution and, later, the collective farms scheme," said the count. "But collective farms will never eradicate the deep seated oriental idea of the Russian peasant that he must have his own homestead. The soviet leaders realize it, and as soon as they have procured sufficient cash from wheat sales to complete their industrialization program, they will permit the peasant to return to diversified farming."

Cites Soviets' Blunders.

In the collective farming scheme the soviets have committed a few enormous blunders, according to the count. As an instance he cited the decree abolishing the harvesting of wheat in sheaves and substituting the use of combines, of which thousands were ordered from American harvester companies.

"They should have known that the combine method is impossible in the Ukraine," said the count. "In the Russian wheat belt the rainy season comes just at harvest time and the grain must be left in shocks to dry before being threshed. The soviets sent the combines into the fields to harvest and thresh wet wheat. Hence much of the crops was spoiled."

Typhoon Hits Philippines; Fear Heavy Loss of Life

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

MANILA, Dec. 7.—A typhoon today caused considerable loss of life in the provinces of Samar and Leyte, while the consequent floods inundated the Cagayan valley, chief tobacco district of the Philippines. Telegraph wires are down and reports from the provinces are meager, but all indications point to heavy losses.

BANDITS INVADE LOOP BUILDING; LOOT IS $10,000

A bandit trio, armed with revolvers, invaded the offices of S. L. Winternitz, auctioneers, on the tenth floor of the First National Bank building, at 38 South Dearborn street, yesterday, and escaped with $10,000. Six employes were threatened by the gunmen.

The leader of the three men walked up to Miss Dora Goodstein, the switchboard operator and information clerk. "I want to see the boss," he said. When Miss Goodstein told him that Adolph Winternitz, manager of the office, was out, the bandit drew a gun and was joined by two other men.

Miss Doris Samuels, 6939 Ogleaby avenue, the bookkeeper, was forced to open the safe. The robbers' loot consisted mostly of currency, which had been the receipts from the auctioning of a large radio stock on Saturday.

Miss Samuels and Miss Goodstein and four other employes were herded into the vault, but the door was not locked. The bandits fled down the corridor.

NORMAL COLLEGE IS UP IN ARMS AT PLAN TO CLOSE IT

Faculty Issues Protest; Students to Act.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Chicago Normal college students, alumni and faculty have started a campaign yesterday against the proposed closing of that institution for one year as a means of lightening the school board's financial burden. The college is a part of the Chicago school system.

The faculty meeting was held yesterday from which a 1,600 word argument against the closing was issued. Earlier in the day the student publication, the Chicago Normalite, gave a three column spread of black-faced type on the front page on "A Costly Attempt to Save Money."

A mass meeting of the students, to which parents and faculty are to be invited, is scheduled at the college for 10.45 o'clock this morning.

Appeal to Officials.

Telegrams were sent to several legislatures and local public officials yesterday protesting against the proposed economy measure. Business men are to be asked to join in the protest, and the students plan to attend the meeting of the board of education in the loop tomorrow afternoon.

A report was current among the students that a straw vote of the school trustees showed they stood 10 to 1 for the closing of the school for one year. It was said that Mrs. W. S. Heffernan is the one trustee who desires the school kept open.

In the statement issued by the Normal faculty the suggestion for closing the college is credited to President Myers of the school board, as a means of economizing in the present financial distress of the board."

"He argues," says the statement, "that with the present large number of Normal graduates now awaiting assignment, a year's suspension would do no harm."

Many Graduates Jobbers.

There are now about 1,150 Normal school graduates without assignment in the schools, according to the records of the Normal college superintendent's office. Of those it is estimated that perhaps 150 are not available for assignment. The superintendent's staff estimates that the demand for new teachers from the Normal is about 500 a year.

Commenting on the situation yesterday President Myers said: "There is a very large waiting list of teachers. No good purpose is to be served in building up hope of these young people, and then fooling them. Closing the Normal for one year is one place where a substantial saving can be made with a minimum of harm."

The 1930 appropriation for the Normal college was $425,089, of which $49,000 was to be repaid for heat and other services to the Parker high and elementary school.

See Injury in Closing.

If the school is closed, the faculty takes the position, in its statement that a vast amount of harm will be done.

"Ought the board," reads that statement, "short of bankruptcy, to break faith with Cook county and with these young people?"

The county came into it because it deeded the Normal college property to the city in 1896 on a contract that the institution should be maintained. The young people referred to are the 1,207 students now in school.

The faculty argues that "the board has a moral obligation to the students who have spent from one semester to two and one-half years in the college upon the understanding that they could secure a complete training for teaching and certificates to teach in the Chicago schools."

The Normal faculty claims that the schools need about 800 graduates in the winter for substitutes. It is also claimed that the savings would not be as much as the trustees anticipate.

LAST OF BOY BANDIT GANG CAPTURED WHEN LEADER KILLS SELF

Sandwich, Mass., Dec. 7.—(Special.)—Cape Cod's boy bandit gang, whose 17 year old leader committed suicide by shooting when cornered in the woods by pursuing police, was broken up today with the capture of the third and last member.

The three youths were charged with breaking into a chain store on Nantucket island Saturday night and stealing goods valued at $200. They escaped to the mainland on the steamer and stole an automobile parked at the Woods Hole pier.

Telephone alarms immediately were sent to head them off at the two Cape Cod canal bridges, the only highway passages to and from the cape, but the lads spotted the policemen waiting for them and raced off down the Provincetown road. State and local police officers chased them 15 miles into this town, where the boys abandoned their car and took to the woods.

Alois Legere, 14, of Falmouth, was soon captured, but when the officers, with drawn guns, cornered Fred Smith of Nantucket, 17 year old leader of the trio, and advised him to give up, he shot himself through the heart.

Stanley Comeau, 15, also of Nantucket, eluded capture until this morning when a special officer saw him talking to a railroad gate tender and arrested him at gunpoint.

STEAL $490 OUT OF SHOE.

Hugh Martin, 2945 Sheffield avenue, was forced to take off his shoes by three bandits who dragged him into their car early yesterday between George street and Oakdale avenue. In the toe of the right shoe the bandits pulled out a $490 roll of bills, threw Martin out of the car, and sped away.

CITY PAY DRIVE REACHES TOTAL OF $2,540,225

$1,710,225 in Pledges, $830,000 in Cash.

The first official report since the start of the drive to sell 1930 tax anticipation warrants so that city and school employes may be paid was issued last night by City Controller Szymczak. A total of $830,000 in cash and $1,710,225 in pledges has been received.

Two cash contributions represent the money on hand. They are from the Commonwealth Edison company, which purchased $750,000 worth of tax warrants, and the Chicago Union Station company, which bought $80,000 worth.

The following have made subscriptions for tax anticipation warrants and will accompany their pledges with cash as soon as minor technicalities have been cleared:

International Harvester company	$ 400,000
Armour & Co.	155,000
Illinois Bell Telephone company	1,000,000
United States Gypsum company	12,000
Mars, Inc. [candy]	100,000
Bowman Dairy company	36,000
Swigart Paper company	6,000
Seven individual pledges	5,225

"As soon as a sufficient amount of money is obtained to pay the school teachers one month's salary, amounting to almost $5,000,000, we shall purchase educational fund warrants of the school board to that amount," said Controller Szymczak.

Other pay rolls falling due, which must be met by the sale of tax anticipation warrants, are: Policemen and firemen for December, $2,500,000; library and municipal tuberculosis sanitarium, $428,000. On Jan. 1 $9,000,000 will be needed for the retirement of bonds and $3,000,000 for the payment of interest.

A note of warning was sounded by D. FAKelly, chairman of the citizens' committee appointed to push the sale of the tax warrants.

"It is about time that our lawmakers realize that they have very heavy responsibilities," Mr. Kelly said. "Business is ready to do its share. The subscriptions we have obtained in a few days prove that. But the legislators have a bigger job. We cannot be placed in a position of one relief drive after another by failure of our elected representatives to carry out their obligations."

MAYOR TELLS CITY'S NEEDS IN ASSEMBLY TODAY

Silent on Relief Plans He Will Propose.

Mayor Cermak and most of the ranking officials of Chicago and Cook county left for Springfield yesterday to appear before the general assembly this morning. They are to tell the special revenue session what they want have in the way of financial relief.

The mayor was not ready to say before he entrained just what he believes is needed for Chicago, but he said he favored the governor's tax conference program "with reservations." Among the "reservations" is the income tax bill as it is now written.

"I've been told," Mr. Cermak said, "that Cook county will pay 80 per cent of this tax and receive only 50 per cent in return. That's not fair." He did not go beyond this in what he will tell the legislators.

Other Leaders Go Along.

A number of Cermak's cabinet members, some Democratic assemblymen, and a delegation of aldermen took the same train with the mayor at 4 p. m. President Emmett Whealan of the county board, Deputy County Controller M. J. O'Conner, and several county commissioners left at 6:50. A representative group of Chicago leaders will be on hand when the mayor speaks in the statehouse this morning.

With the mayor were City Controller M. S. Szymczak, Senator Richard Yates, Representative Henry Rosenheim, Representative John R. McSweeny, State Treasurer Edward J. Barrett, and a group of aldermen including James B. Bowler, William A. Rewa, Barnet Hodes, and Jacob M. Arvey, administration floor leader. Two Republican aldermen, Oscar F. Nelson and John A. Massen, were also on the train.

County Commissioners Charles H. Weber and Peter M. Kelly went last night with Mr. Whealan's party. President Lewis E. Myers of the board of education is expected this morning.

Joint Session Planned.

Today's hearing will occupy most of the legislative working hours, it is believed, and will probably be held before a joint session of the house and senate.

When he adjourned the house Thursday, Speaker Shanahan announced that no public hearings would be held after tomorrow noon, but no groups, save the city and county, have asked to be heard and it is expected that the house will begin serious consideration of bills tomorrow morning.

The house steering committee expected to meet late today or early tomorrow with Mark Levy, president of the Chicago Real Estate board, whom the committee is endeavoring to bring into harmony with Joseph K. Brittain, chairman of the tax conference executive committee. Levy sponsors the 1930 tax funding plan for real estate relief, a program frowned upon by the conference. The committee is trying to bring the two to a common ground but has been unsuccessful thus far.

Senate to Pass Bill.

The senate is expected to pass the income tax bill tomorrow afternoon. No definite test of the bill's strength has been had, but Chicagoans opposing the measure feel sure that the downstate majority will put it over, led by Simon E. Lantz [Rep., Centerville], spokesman for the Illinois Agricultural association.

The real fight comes in the house, probably next week, and if Mayor Cermak opposes it this morning the battle will be hot and probably long.

Also on the senate's program tomorrow is renewed consideration of the Courtney resolution, identical with the Igoe house resolution, which calls upon Gov. Emmerson to instruct the state tax commission to order a reassessment of personal property in Cook county. It was adopted by the senate last Wednesday, but was reconsidered Thursday, under the guidance of the Republican leader, Richard J. Barr of Joliet, who called it back as a rebuke to a Chicago Democrat, Harold G. Ward, who had opposed a Republican resolution.

The senate leaders say the resolution will probably be readopted this week.

FREEZING WEATHER GRIPPING NEW YORK IN WAKE OF A GALE

New York, Dec. 7.—[Special.]—Winter arrived tonight in the wake of a biting northwest gale that sent the thermometers dropping into the twenties, worked havoc with shipping along the coast, and carpeted up-state New York with varying depths of snow. For the next 36 hours at least, the weather bureau reports, the city will be in the grip of below freezing temperatures.

The gale struck the city with alarming suddenness. In many places it ripped signs from their moorings and tore down trees and telegraph poles.

The Cunarder Laconia and the President Van Buren of the Dollar Lines, both of which were due to dock today, were delayed by the gale and are not expected before Wednesday.

SNOW POSSIBLE TODAY.

Whipped by a north wind, Chicago and most of the rest of the northern part of the United States felt wintry weather yesterday. The cold swept across the great lakes regions and eastward to Maine. Ocean liners were delayed in their arrival at New York.

The forecast for today was for increasing cloudiness and slightly higher temperatures. There is a possibility of snow tonight, according to W. P. Day, official government forecaster.

The coldest temperature in the United States yesterday was at Moorhead, Minn., where the mercury stood at 10 below zero.

GOVERNOR'S BODY ASKS 20 MILLION TO AID JOBLESS

Calls on Assembly for Immediate Aid.

By unanimous vote yesterday the Governor's Commission on Unemployment and Relief adopted a resolution requesting the general assembly to provide $20,000,000 for unemployment and poor relief throughout the state during 1932.

Of that amount approximately $10,000,000 would be available for Cook county relief, in addition to the $10,000,000 now being raised by voluntary subscription, while an added $5,000,000 may prove to be necessary.

Five major points were listed in the resolution:

1.—Estimates made by the department of statistics and research of the Illinois department of labor, based on census figures, show 624,000 men and women unemployed in Chicago, who would work if jobs were available. This is 19 per cent of the population of Chicago and 40 per cent of the working class. Outside of Cook county there are 425,000 unemployed, or 12 per cent of the population.

Facilities Not Adequate.

2.—There will be a monthly average of 80,000 families receiving relief in Cook county during the year ending Oct. 1, 1932, at a cost of $25 per family per month, or approximately $25,000,000.

3. Communities outside of Cook county are in need far in excess of their facilities.

4. In Chicago and Cook county there will be provided $10,500,000 from local sources of relief, and in the state there will be $3,000,000 provided.

5. In Chicago and Cook county there will be a deficit of $15,000,000 and a serious deficit in the rest of the state.

Tells Conditions in Mines.

"In 1923," he said, "there were 107,860 miners earning their living. At the present time there are only 36,000 men earning a living in the mines. They work two days every two weeks and the miners have reached the end of their rope. I do not approve of this plan. I think it is the dole in the most hideous form and would prefer unemployment insurance. But I will favor anything that will bring some relief. When it is 10 degrees below zero these men will have relief if they have to organize shotgun committees to obtain it."

The most serious objection to any state tax for charity relief was voiced by A. J. Williamson, secretary of the Illinois Press association, and J. Paul Clayton, president of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce. Several counties, the speakers stated, are in no need of relief.

Before Assembly Today.

A special committee of the governor's commission will present the resolution to the general assembly, probably this afternoon. All members of the commission attended the meeting.

Contributions to the Joint Emergency Relief fund, that part of the governor's commission dealing with Cook county, yesterday totaled $1,124,750, bringing the total pledged to $8,735,573. The quota set for contributions is $10,000,000. Major contributions of the day were $25,000 from Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed and $20,000 from Henry P. Crowell. Contributions of $10,000 each were received from Stuyvesant Peabody and George H. Jones.

U. S. ENGINEERS ASK FOR MORE FUNDS TO SPEED UP SEAWAY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—Out of the $60,000,000 which the chief of engineers estimates as the appropriation necessary to carry on rivers and harbors work throughout the country during the coming year, a total of $4,650,000 is recommended for work on the Illinois waterway.

Of the total, $650,000 is wanted for work on the waterway below Utica and $4,000,000 to carry on the project above Utica. If congress grants the appropriation the money will be put to work giving jobs to unemployed in March instead of in June as had been planned.

Ask $3,000,000 Bonds.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—President Thomas J. Bowler and Trustee Ross A. Woodhull of the Chicago Sanitary district, disclosed tonight that the district intends to ask the special session of the legislature to grant the district authority to issue $3,000,000 in nonreferendum bonds as a part of the effort to hasten the opening of the Illinois waterway.

"We have been reminded by the federal engineers and by the state division of waterways," said Truster Woodhull, "that before the waterway can be opened several bridges which would be obstacles to navigation must be elevated or rebuilt so that they can be raised for the passage of vessels. The total cost is estimated at $5,000,000. If the work is to be done next year there must be no delay for a referendum."

ASSESSORS' IDEA TO LIST STOCKS STARTS DEBATE

Corporations Ordered to File New Schedules.

Shortly before some of its members started to Springfield yesterday to plead with the legislature not to abolish their jobs, the board of assessors ordered a "reassessment" of the capital stock of all corporations which it is empowered to assess.

The plan, as discussed at noon, was to "put billions of dollars on the personal property tax books." However, the assessors reduced their original estimates considerably when questioned, and by nightfall their director of appraisals, Charles E. Fox, had admitted that even if successful, the principal value of the capital stock returns sought from Illinois corporations would be as a basis of comparison with their other personal property returns.

Law Experts Pessimistic.

Lawyers expert in tax matters went further and said that under existing laws governing personal property returns, there was little chance for the plan to increase the total listing of taxable property by any consequential sum. Critics of the present assessment system style the proposal a smoke screen designed to cover up the assessors' past failures to assess personal property, failures which are at present the basis of strenuous attacks on the validity of their assessment rolls.

The plan was announced by Assessor John E. Conroy, secretary of the board, and Chief Appraiser Fox. That pair also constitute the lobbying detail sent to Springfield to protest against enactment of the bill which would abolish the boards of assessors and review and the country town assessors, and substitute for them a single appointive assessor and a three-man board of revision, of which the assessor would be one member.

Schedules Already Accepted.

The assessors have already accepted between 8,000 and 9,000 personal property schedules from Illinois corporations exclusive of banks and of railroads, utility companies and other concerns which are assessed by the state tax commission. All of these companies were notified yesterday that their previous schedules will be ignored, and that they must file new schedules within ten days on a simplified form drawn up by the state tax commission for capital stock returns.

Fox said that he had obtained from the secretary of state a list of 17,000 corporations subject to taxation on their capital stock. Of these, there were 996 companies with a capitalization of $500,000 or more, and a total capitalization of $5,369,000,000. The total for the 17,000 companies he put at $7,000,000,000. If these companies do not make returns, in sworn form, within ten days, the assessors will make their own estimates and add a 50 per cent penalty, the companies were warned.

Experts Point to Flaws.

Tax lawyers then proceeded to point out hitches in the program which they said would prevent the assessors from getting any appreciable increases in assessments through their latest move. In the first place, they said, the statutes provide that deductions shall be made from capital stock assessments equal to the assessments of the corporation on real estate and personalty.

The Illinois Manufacturers' association recently advised its members that they could evade capital stock assessments entirely by listing the value of their stock as the aggregate of the real estate and personalty assessments which already appear on the tax books against the corporation.

In the second place, the lawyers said, existing statutes and Supreme court decisions place such severe limitations on the power of the assessors that personal property returns, which include capital stock returns, are practically voluntary on the part of the taxpayer.

COURT POINTS TO FREE LUNCHES AS TRUANCY CURE

Judge Bartelme Praises Children's Fund.

Cash contributions to the Hungry School Children's fund will be received at the following Tribune offices: 1 South Dearborn street, 1101 East 63d street, and 4152 West Madison street.

One of the most effective "persuaders" the juvenile court can bring to bear these days on truant children is the Hungry School Children's fund, according to Judge Mary Bartelme. Many boys and girls brought into court for truancy, Judge Bartelme said, gladly go back to school on being assured they will receive their lunches each day.

"It isn't mischief so much as it is hunger that instigates many of these youngsters," said the judge. "Tuesday is truant day in my court, and every Thursday, from forty to fifty truant officers show up there with these children. Now that we can fall back upon those two invaluable aids, the Hungry School Children's fund, to give them food, and the School Children's Aid, to supply the clothing, it's simply amazing how many of them are not only going back to their classes, but are picking up in their school work and making good."

A sharp increase in the number of truancy cases is directly attributable, Judge Bartelme said, to the lack of food in their homes and the impossibility of them concentrating on their studies while hunger torments them and breaks down their health. The natural reaction is for them to break away from school and to go foraging for what they can find, to secure it wherever and however they may—a direct path to the fields of criminal activities and habits.

Donations to be added to the Hungry School Children's fund may be mailed to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, at Tribune Tower. The coupon may be enclosed.

DANCE TO BENEFIT FUND

Mary Ann Jackson, juvenile movie star, a member of "Our Gang" comedies, will be the chief attraction Friday evening at the annual winter dance of the West Side Retail Clerks organization at the Graemere hotel, proceeds of which will go to the Hungry School Children's fund. Peter Divido's orchestra will play for the dancing, and vaudeville acts will be staged during the intermission. Admission will be 75 cents a person, including the entertainment.

ISSUE MANDATE FOR O'BRIEN TO ENTER PRISON

A mandate for the incarceration of State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien to begin serving eighteen months in the Leavenworth penitentiary, on a sentence imposed by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley as a result of conviction of evasion of the income tax laws, was issued yesterday by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. O'Brien must also pay a fine of $6,000.

Attorney James O'Callaghan, representing O'Brien, indicated that he would surrender his client by Friday when the next shipment of federal prisoners leaves for the penitentiary. The United States Supreme court last week declined to review O'Brien's case.

SET BONDS FOR TWO IN WHITE SLAVE INQUIRY

Ollie Beason, 44 years old, and Frank Burke, 31 years old, both colored, alleged members of a syndicate engaged in the interstate shipment of white girls to work in disorderly houses, were held in bonds of $1,500 each by Commissioner Walker yesterday on charges of conspiracy to violate the Mann act. Hearing on their cases was postponed until Dec. 23 at the suggestion of Assistant United States Attorney Edward A. Fisher, who said that efforts were being made to bring three other alleged members of the syndicate here from Detroit, where they were arrested on Saturday.

Those fighting removal in Detroit are Mrs. Victoria Beason, Mrs. Mary Lewis and William Lewis, all white. Records seized at the ring's headquarters at 2125 South Michigan avenue yesterday revealed that at least 1,300 city-to-city transfers of girls have been made in the last six years. The syndicate preyed on country girls, luring them here on promises of getting them "respectable positions," Fisher said. Charles White, alleged head of the ring, is in the Bridewell hospital suffering from a gunshot wound in the leg, inflicted when he attempted to escape during a raid on the ring's "clearing house."

LAUNCH SURVEY OF FINANCES IN SCHOOL SYSTEM

Three months may be required to ascertain the school board's financial status, according to Dr. George D. Strayer of Columbia university, who is in charge of the board's $100,000 survey of the Chicago public school system. The financial phase of the survey was begun yesterday by Dr. John K. Morton of Columbia university.

Two other units of the survey also were begun yesterday: a study of the physical education and health service of the schools by Dr. J. F. Williams of Columbia; and a placement survey by a group under the direction of Dr. W. W. Wright of Indiana university.

Figures on the building survey are now being tabulated and perpared for the report. All of the work, according to Dr. Strayer, is progressing rapidly. The survey is to be completed June 1.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 7.—(AP)—In the greatest immigration movement in recent Mexican history, 112,407 Mexican repatriates have returned to this country this year, most of them from the United States. The statistics seem to indicate that not many of them are leaving California, but that the movement is very heavy from other border states.

ALDERMEN ORDER PREPARATION OF HOME RULE BILL

The city council committee on judiciary, of which Ald. Thomas J. O'Grady [14th] is chairman, instructed the corporation counsel yesterday to draft a home rule bill for Chicago. Introduction of the bill in the legislature will be discussed at the next council meeting.

The committee also ordered that the ordinance licensing retail beverage dealers, omitted by mistake from the last city code, be restored to its place there. During the discussion Ald. John J. Coughlin [1st], a leading wet in the council, suggested that the license fee for soft drink parlors be raised to $1,000 a year, in which move he was joined by Ald. Wiley W. Mills [37th], one of the few drys in the council.

An amendment to the dog pound ordinance was recommended to the council, providing that unclaimed dogs shall be kept five days at the pound before being destroyed, instead of three days, as formerly.

STATE'S FINGERS IN BUSINESS PIE HIT NEW ZEALAND

There's No End to It, and No Revenue.

BY QUENTIN POPE.
[Article No. 4.]
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Dec. 7.—In New Zealand you may buy state-made shoes. If you wish to try it there is state-made butter and cheese. You may heat your home with state-mined coal, build your house with state-felled lumber, commute to your office in a state-run train.

You may even have your meals in a state restaurant, if you happen to be a state employé. There is one chance in ten that you will be.

If you wish to support the state that pays you, you may buy insurance in a state office, both for fire and life. You may take up a policy for an endowment with the national provident fund. Your will can be drawn up free of charge by a state-paid lawyer who will also administer your estate without fee.

Collect Radio Tax.

If you are a radio fan the post-office will collect your license fee and turn it over to the public corporation modeled on the lines of the British Broadcasting corporation.

You may call around at the office of the state advances department to arrange for that 90 per cent loan on the government valuation of your new house to be built of state-milled lumber.

Then you may look in at the pensions department to clinch arrangements for the granting of the weekly old age pension of $4.40 to your mother who has just turned 65. From there you may journey to the rural advances office on behalf of your brother who is a farmer and needs a small advance to do some restocking before he harvests his crop.

No End to It.

The one safe thing which can be said about state activity in New Zealand is that there is no end to it. With the years and as the young country grew, the state enterprises grew with it until three years ago the community suddenly discovered what was happening and stole the New York chamber of commerce slogan.

Economic experts stated it was time that some one realized the trend of government expansion. For the public trust office, large and most remarkable of its kind in the world, was even then about to double its size since 1921 and to reach a pinnacle at which it administers estates valued at $265,000,000. In the United States that would mean nearly $26,000,000,000.

The state fire insurance department was about to top all its competitors, the state advances department to mark up $217,000,000 advanced to settlers and $97,000,000 to workers, while municipal traction, power, and lighting companies were making inroads on business.

Immune from Taxes.

These government organizations pay no taxes. They affix no duty stamps to documents. They are immune from the land tax and are not hit by corporation taxes, which in New Zealand are higher than anywhere else in the British empire.

Along with these great trading departments must be linked the state effort to supply the country with hydro-electric power.

The net result of the scheme so far is considered negligible, partly because the main link in the northern portion, the construction of the great works at Arapuni, met with disaster after disaster. Capital expenditure has been $60,000,000. Results from the plants now in working order have been confidently in the red, and there is lacking another $54,000,000 to complete the job.

Reserve Funds Bring Anger.

Many charge that the proper handling of finances in any of the government's business enterprises has always been out of the question. Any attempt to create a reserve fund for the railways formerly was met with the cry that the workers were being robbed and that if the department could afford to accumulate reserves it could afford to reduce the cost of services.

Proper provision, it is alleged, can never be made for the inevitable bad times, or for renewals and replacements, when that is the public stand. And so far it has always been the attitude of the labor led régime here.

Each state enterprise is run on the theory that if it can be managed cheaply, charges for services are to be no greater than necessary to meet the cost of that service. Attempts to liquidate debts are unpopular.

Even Wages Are Governed.

The state has its finger on private business, too. Wages are governed by a tribunal of representatives of employers and employés, with a government appointee as chairman. Rents are still restricted to a minor degree. Profits are subject to investigation, and the minister of industries and commerce has the power to order a corporation to produce its books. He may take whatever steps he wishes to obtain information on trade practices.

New Zealand has the most complete system of social insurance of any country except Russia. State financed work in the interest of the community begins with pre-natal care, takes care of ailing mothers and children, provides trained nurses to needy mothers, treats defective teeth, and maintains clinics where nurses are trained.

These and many other similar experiments have been carried on while New Zealand has been unable to meet its interest on foreign loans without borrowing additional sums each year.

DUNCAN SISTERS FILE PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—The Duncan sisters, Rosetta and Vivian, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in federal court today. They availed themselves of the ten day grace in which to file a schedule of assets and liabilities.

"Bad investments are responsible," explained Bert L. Irving, their attorney. "The action was taken because creditors have been harassing them and making it difficult for the girls to fill theatrical engagements."

Vivian Duncan is wife of the Swedish film actor, Nils Asther. She and her sister have been sued several times recently by creditors, and Asther and S. H. Duncan, their father, were jointly named defendants in some of the lawsuits.

EXTORTIONISTS THREATEN RICH DETROIT FAMILY

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—The home of Harold Palmer in fashionable Grosse Pointe was guarded today by detectives who are protecting the family from a gang of extortionists. Written demands for money were backed up by bullets, which were fired into the family automobile as it backed into the family garage. There are five children, the oldest 16.

Last week Palmer received threatening letters demanding money. Two days later two men fired on James Bennett, the chauffeur, the bullets crashing the glass of the limousine just after the children had left the car. Palmer is the adopted son of the late Senator Thomas Palmer, of Detroit.

STATIONS APPEAL RULINGS OF RADIO BOARD TO COURT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—A half dozen appeals from the recent high power decisions of the federal radio commission denying stations the right to use the maximum power of 50,000 watts were filed in the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia today by stations numbered among the 24 contenders for this privilege in proceedings which were before the commission for more than a year.

Included in the group was Station W-G-N, of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, which originally had been recommended for the power increase from among four Chicago applicants, but which the commission subsequently denied on the ground that the city now had more than its just share of the power assignments in the middle west. In this decision the commission commended the quality of service of W-G-N, but granted the high power assignment to station WHO-WOC, Des Moines-Davenport, Ia., which it considered "under serviced."

Other Stations Note Appeals.

Other stations which noted appeals were WJZ, New York, KGO, Oakland, Cal., and WMAQ, Chicago, all of the National Broadcasting company, and WHAM, Rochester, and WTMJ, Milwaukee. The latter station was not considered by the commission a qualified applicant in the original proceedings because it is not assigned to a clear or exclusive channel. It had applied for the facilities occupied by WENR and WLS, Chicago, claiming that Wisconsin is delinquent in broadcast facilities while Illinois is the most overquoted state in the country.

In his appeal, for W-G-N, Louis G. Caldwell, former commission general counsel, attacked the validity of the regulation under which the commission denied not only THE TRIBUNE application, but those of all stations on clear channels. This regulation, known as general order 42, amended, provides that only one-half of the 40 clear channels may accommodate stations of the maximum power and its promulgation more than a year ago gave rise to the 24 competitive applications.

In all there were nine vacancies for the maximum power, for which the two dozen applicants competed, and which the commission filled in tentative grants on Oct. 1, and made them permanent Nov. 17.

In the original proceedings, the commission's chief examiner had recommended that the restrictive order be repealed, and that all of the qualified applicants be granted the maximum power. The commission, however, reprimanded the examiner for having overstepped his authority in making such a recommendation and instructed him to submit recommendations to fill the nine vacancies. This he did, selecting, among others, station W-G-N, which now uses power of 25,000 watts, and is one of the highest powered stations in the country.

Asks for Short Wave.

Authority to transmit the radio programs of station W-G-N to foreign nations by short wave broadcasting was sought at a hearing before the federal radio commission on the application of THE TRIBUNE for such an experimental station.

Carl J. Meyers, chief engineer of W-G-N, told the commission that should the application be granted arrangements will be made with foreign radio stations for rebroadcasting of the programs originating in W-G-N's studios. Through correspondents of THE TRIBUNE in every important world center, arrangements would be made not only for rebroadcasting of the programs, but also for technical observations to demonstrate the efficacy of such boardcasting.

"We plan to use programs produced in W-G-N's studios, since relay broadcasting now is at a stage where further improvements are most likely to be developed by actual practical demonstrations," Mr. Meyers said. "There will be programs developed by W-G-N in Chicago during the next two years which will have interest for foreign stations and foreign populations. Among these I mention the broadcasts which will take place during the world's fair to be held in 1933 in Chicago."

BOX CAR THIEVES AND 'FENCE' SENT TO CELLS BY U. S.

Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley yesterday sentenced Charles Felsen, proprietor of a store at 145 Madison street, as alleged "fence" for box car thieves, to five years in Leavenworth penitentiary and fined him $2,000. Felsen pleaded guilty to charges of stealing and receiving stolen property from interstate shipments. Frank Gaskey, an ex-convict, and John Jankowiak, of Milwaukee, alleged leaders of the gang, also were sentenced to five years in prison.

Elliott Kashinski, a clerk in Felsen's store, was released on probation under a sentence of a year and a day in the penitentiary. Zachary Pietwics, 4000 South Honore street, was sentenced to three months in the county jail, and Joseph McDermott, a janitor at 114 Sheldon street, who permitted the gang to store some of the stolen goods in the basement at that address, was sentenced to six months in jail.

The other members of the gang, John Crossett, of Cleveland, and Fred Johanson of Sterling, Ill., were sentenced to three years and two years in the penitentiary, respectively.

POET LINDSAY IS BURIED NEAR LINCOLN'S TOMB

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—Funeral services for Nicholas Vachel Lindsay, attended by a large concourse of friends, were held at three o'clock this afternoon at the First Christian church. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. Clark Walter Cummings, who conducted the simple service, elaborating the customary lesson with lines from Mr. Lindsay's poems. He paid tribute to the dead poet's genius and his character.

Interment was in the family plot in Oak Ridge cemetery, near the tomb of Abraham Lincoln, whose life furnished themes for some of Mr. Lindsay's most notable work. The pall bearers, personal friends who had been associated with him since his return to Springfield, were City Commissioner Willis J. Spaulding, John P. Snigg, Judge Rodger Chapin, V. Y. Dallman, Paul M. Angel, Duncan MacDonald, Romain Proctor and Dr. Hugh T. Morrison.

ROBERT C. HUPP, 55, PIONEER AUTOMOBILE MAN, FALLS DEAD

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—Robert C. Hupp, 55, pioneer in marketing the Hupmobile, died suddenly today while preparing to play hand ball at the Detroit Athletic club. He was stricken with cerebral hemorrhage.

Hupp was well known in the early days of automobile manufacturing. He first was president of the company which introduced the Hupmobile in 1908. He severed connections with the company two years later and since has been engaged in other lines connected with the manufacture of motor cars.

Mr. Hupp had gone to the squash court to play, having been his custom to engage in the sport four or five times a week. He told his prospective partner that he was not feeling well, complaining of his stomach and expressing the belief he had "intestinal flu" but that he thought the exercise would do him good. He was advised not to play and started to go upstairs, but turned back and sat down on a bench. Suddenly he pitched forward on his face.

A physician in the club was called but Mr. Hupp died 15 minutes later.

DIES SUDDENLY AT WORK.

PIONEER CHICAGO RESIDENT KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE

Daniel C. Plummer, 71 years old, a pioneer Chicago resident and retired merchant, was fatally injured last evening when he was struck by an automobile at Dorchester avenue and the south drive of the Midway. He died at the Illinois Central hospital. Mr. Plummer, it is believed, was returning to the home of his son, Daniel Jr., merchandise manager and controller of Fred Harvey, Inc., at 5540 Hyde Park boulevard, when struck. The driver was Elmer La Chapelle, 7417 Jeffery avenue.

This death and three others yesterday brought the toll for Cook county since Jan. 1 to 1,211. The victims:

COLDS GO

"Yesterday I did not think I'd be here"

"But I followed your suggestion . . . took a few Bromo Quinine tablets . . . and my cold vanished overnight."

Bromo Quinine is one known dependable remedy for colds. It destroys the infection and expels it quickly from the system . . . proved safe and effective for more than two generations, and successfully used by untold millions all over the civilized world.

People "Put up with" colds unnecessarily because they have become discouraged trying to remove inward infection by treating the outward symptoms.

UNION DEMANDS MORE MUSICIANS IN RADIO WORK

A fight between major radio broadcasting stations in Chicago and the Chicago Federation of Musicians loomed last night, it was learned, as the result of a demand by James C. Petrillo, president of the union, for increased employment of musicians, restriction of electrical transcription broadcasting, and other changes which it was estimated might treble the studio operating costs.

The demands were made in Petrillo's office at 175 West Washington street. An answer is asked by Tuesday. The broadcasters will meet on Thursday in the NBC council rooms in the Merchandise Mart. It is understood the present contract of the federation, which expires Dec. 31, will be considered.

Wants More Musicians.

At present each major station employs ten union musicians and a pianist on a seven day basis. A union man also operates the electrical transcription instruments. Petrillo demands that starting Jan. 1 the major stations must employ fifteen musicians and allow one day off, but with seven days' pay.

Substitute musicians must be hired to replace those on days off, he insists. The minimum scale of $90 a week must be paid substitutes.

Makes Other Demands.

Petrillo also demanded that union musicians must replace operators in control booths and asserted that the use of records and transcriptions in commercial programs must be discontinued. Another feature, pertaining to musicians proper, is that overtime rates of $6 an hour must be doubled.

Simonds Says Europe Faces Peace or Suicide

Latest Book Tells Hates, Economic, Political.

"Can Europe Keep the Peace?" by Frank H. Simonds (Harpers).

FRANK H. SIMONDS, author of a 5 volume history of the world war, chevalier of the Legion of Honor, officer of the Crown of Belgium, officer of the Order of the Holy Redeemer [Greek], of Polonia Restituta, etc., American newspaper man, former private of Massachusetts infantry in the Spanish-American war, has written another book. He has been foreign editor of The Review of Reviews, editor of the New York Evening Sun, an associate editor of the New York Tribune, a writer since he started with the last named paper in 1901. He has written from Albany and Washington and for a syndicate of 50 newspapers. He traces the harm following the Versailles treaty and argues any other treaty would have fared little better.

The author untangles the matted skein of European politics and national rivalries patiently and with extraordinary skill. The issues of Danzig and the Polish Corridor, the Anschluss, the Hungarian Irredentism, the Czechs and their minorities, the Adriatic and Balkan situations become more than vague and complicated post-war difficulties. There is clarity, brevity and assurance in these analyses.

The third chapter is perhaps the most interesting to the ordinary reader, though the most pessimistic. It is entitled "National Policies." It outlines briefly but carefully the economic and political aspirations of the important European powers. He says that German "purpose remained—and remains unshaken, and German policy is still comprehended in the resolution to oppress the Corridor and realize the Anschluss. . . . But were Germany permitted and assisted to recover to-morrow, or the next day, no one can mistake the fact that she would turn her strength to the recovery of her eastern frontiers of 1914 at the expense of the Czech and Polish allies of France, of triumph in the east and expansion to the south would place hegemony of Europe in her hands and abolish the whole security of the French nation. . . ."

As to France, Simonds adds: "All French policy has, therefore, been comprehended in the attempt to render to the league the responsibility for the territorial circumstances in Europe, and to furnish the league with power to deal with any attempt to revise frontiers by force. . . . France is . . . indissolubly bound up with the status quo as it affects her allies."

The conclusion of the author, who suggests a program for relief that seems inadequate in face of the picture he has drawn, is this: "Can Europe keep the peace? Can it accept that peace which has already been made, which during the twelve years since the Paris conference has submitted to very far reaching revision by attrition, if not by agreement? Unquestionably, for the alternative is collective suicide. What is not clear is whether Europe can actually make a enduring peace under democracy."

That classification really tells very little. It misses the two opium pipes, the souvenir of the siege of Paris that contained "a fragment of siege bread"; the twenty-three seventeenth and eighteenth jesters' baubles [a pleasant thing for a showman to collect], the Hungarian peasant's skirt, the fifty-seven millefiori paper weights, the seventy-eight elephants, the twelve glass walking sticks, the mahogany banjo which "lacks strings," the three wastebaskets made from drums, the matador's suit, the eight saluting cannons.

Belasco's passion for realism in his stage settings was famous. He spent $40,000 on Portia's costumes alone, and his collection profited when the show did not.

Belasco's Love of Curios Seen as Sale Nears

Napoleonic Items Jostle Some Stage Baubles.

New York, Dec. 7.—[Special.]—David Belasco himself couldn't have realized how abjectly he surrendered to the collecting mania in the later years of his life. He produced plays; he made money; he bought antiques. Of the three linked events, only the second was variable. Some seasons he didn't make money, but he bought antiques anyway.

When the producer died last May his will directed that his daughter, Mrs. Morris Gest, should possess his collection. Mrs. Gest could not live with them; it would take an apartment the size of an armory to hold in anything but jumbled stacks the ancient objects her father had crammed into his rooms for years. She ordered them sold, and the American Art association-Anderson galleries has placed the collections on display prior to their sale on five afternoons of Dec. 8-12.

There are 1,339 lots in the catalogue and each lot ranges from one object to twoscore. Belasco collected practically everything. His miniature elephants in a dozen semi-precious stones were famous, and so was his Napoleonic collection—medals, statuettes, prints, trinkets, souvenirs. Books containing notations in the handwriting of Napoleon, autographs of some marshals and generals also are included.

The auction catalogue summarized everything in a few broad classes, in the way auction catalogues have—jeweled watches, miniatures, cameos, snuff boxes; Bohemian, Rhenish, English, and early American glass; semi-precious mineral necklaces, snuff bottles, carvings; velvets, embroideries, tapestries, oriental and Alpujarra rugs; armor, flags, and the Napoleonic collections. Early editions of the dramas of this country and of European nations are other features.

THE STAGE

EUGENE O'NEILL'S "Mourning Becomes Electra" will be offered to Chicago this winter, according to an announcement from the Theater Guild. This trilogy of plays based on a theme from the ancient Greek legends will be acted by a new company, with Judith Anderson and Florence Reed as the daughter and wife of the death-haunted house of Mannon—O'Neill's New England variant of the House of Atreus. Rehearsals for the production were started in New York yesterday.

The Guild states that the New York company will probably run through the season on Broadway; therefore the organization is launching a special production for Chicago and other cities on its subscription circuit. The new cast has not yet been completed, but Miss Anderson, last seen here in "As You Desire Me," and Miss Reed, whose last visit was in the rôle of Lady Macbeth, will be its dominating figures. The former will have the rôle Alice Brady is acting in New York; the latter the character interpreted by Mme. Alla Nazimova. Philip Moeller is again the stage director, and the rehearsal period will be four weeks.

"The Beggar's Opera" will return to Chicago Dec. 28 for an engagement of one week at the Eighth street theater. This lyric comedy from the Georgian period is now on its sixth American tour. The cast of this year's company includes Sylvia Nelis as Polly Peachum, John Mott as Capt. Macheath, Very Hurst, Charles Magrath, Elsie French and Gwilyn Williams.

Gregory Ratoff's name now appears twice on the program of "Girl Crazy," at the Garrick. To his responsibilities as impresario he has added the duties of leading comedian. Last Sunday night he made his debut in the rôle of the timorous taxi driver, replacing Benny Rubin. Thus he continues to sustain his reputation as "the irrepressible Ratoff."

Mr. Ratoff's enlistment in the "Girl Crazy" troupe coincides with the return of Eugenie Leontovich, his gifted wife. This evening at the Grand Opera house "Grand Hotel" will have its Chicago première, and Miss Leontovich plays the central rôle in Vicki Baum's picture of the exciting things that can happen in a Berlin hostelry.

The management issues a warning that the unpunctual will have to wait in the lobby until a scene ends. This ruling will hold good for all performances of "Grand Hotel," so it is worth noting that the curtain rises at 8:20 for evening performances and at 2:30 for matinées.

The Blackstone theater announces that its booking of "Mr. Whistler," which was scheduled for a première Dec. 21, has been canceled. The "Strange Interlude" company that recently appeared in the Great Northern may be invited to try its luck in a return engagement at the Blackstone.

Chicago Singverein Gives First Concert of the Present Season

The Chicago Singverein, founded nearly twenty-two years ago by the late William Boeppler, gave its first concert of the present season last night at Orchestra hall, under the direction of Sigfrid Prager. A varied program was presented. It included the Kyrie and Gloria from Schubert's seldom heard Mass in B flat; Bach's equally infrequent "Coffee Cantata," one of the Leipzig conter's secular and comic works; choruses from "Der Freischuetz" and "Tannhauser," and a number of briefer songs. One of these was the excellent harmonization of "Oft in the Stilly Night," made by the late Adolf Weidig and sung to his memory on this occasion.

Among the assisting artists were Frances Silva, Mrs. Erna Borchers, and Mrs. Minette Arnston, sopranos; Esther Jessen and Mrs. Elsa Kellersberger, contraltos; Frederick Mueller, tenor; Saul Silverman, bass, and Emil Eck of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, flutist, the last named appearing both as obbligatist in the Bach cantata and as soloist. Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

It's been a long, long while since we've had one. We used to have so many that I haven't the slightest doubt that you all got it with no trouble at all. You know, of course, that I am talking about the squeeze play in yesterday's play-a-problem.

NORTH
♥—K,10,9,2
♦—10,3
♣—Q,J,10,7

WEST (Dealer)
♠—K,7,2
♥—Q
♦—A,Q,7,4,2
♣—K,9,5,4

EAST
♠—Q,5,4
♥—A,J,8,7
♦—K,6

SOUTH
♠—A,J,10,3
♥—6,5,4,3
♦—J,9,8,5
♣—8

West opened the bidding with one diamond. North passed. East bid two no-trumps, South passed, and West bid three no-trumps.

Query: Why did West bid three no-trumps? Simply because West knew, or should have known, that East could not have raised his one diamond bid to two no-trumps unless he held the equivalent of an original one no-trump bid; i. e., a count of 12. Now, West had a count of 14 and could have raised an original one no-trump to three.

South opened with the ♠ J (top of touching honors), dummy played the 2, North the 6, and East took with the Q. East then led the ♦ K and followed by leading the ♦ 6, which he took in his dummy with the Q. Dummy then led the ♦ A and next the ♦ 4, which South took with the J. South took the next trick with the ♠ A and then led the 3, which dummy took with the K.

At this point North holds the ♣ Q, J, 10, and the ♥ K, 10, 9. So East heartlessly leads the ♦ 7 from his dummy and North must choose between the hearts and the clubs. Of course, whatever he does is wrong. As it happened, this particular North discarded the ♣ 10. So to the next trick West led the ♣ 4, North played the J, and East took with the A. East then led the ♣ 6, which dummy took with the K, dropping North's Q. Dummy's ♣ 9 now forces the discard of the ♥ 9 from North, and the ♣ 5 lead to the next trick brings forth North's ♥ 10. Dummy's last card, the ♥ Q, is covered by North's K and East's A.

And nothing remained to be done except score a game and two extra tricks.

If at trick eight North had discarded his ♥ 9 in place of his ♣ 10, West would then have led the ♥ Q. If North covered, East would take with the A and then play the remaining hearts, forcing North to discard clubs. If North did not cover the ♥ Q would have made. East would then have led a small club from his dummy to the A in his hand, dropping North's ♥ K with his own ♥ A, playing the ♥ J and 8.

You understand, of course, that if at trick eight North had not thrown the ♣ 10, but had thrown the ♥ 9, East would have kept his ♥ 7 and discarded a club.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding squares. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square, as S, 3, H, K, etc. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

Good morning!

They're racketeering again on the Orpheum screen! Oh well—Walter Huston is King Racketeer, and that is s-mething—for Walter Doeth all things well.

As Jack Bannister he is a sort of a Frankenstein. He creates a monster system that gets beyond his control. When he would crush the thing he has made, it turns on him and—the ending of the tale is sad.

Mr. Huston's character protrayal is, per usual, the last word in adroitness. A powerful, ruthless but lovable Frankenstein he is, and no woman's heart will be for one moment other than soft toward him, though he steals milk from babies, brings tears to the eyes of their mothers, and despair to the hearts of business men great and small who must pay tribute to his organization or faw down and go boom.

Supporting players are well cast and clever. Dudley Digges as Bannister's chief lieutenant—and, in a way, master of the master—does especially creditable work. Doris Kenyon shines as a lady-out-to-slay the-lion, and Loretta Young makes the naughty man a sweet young daughter. Too sweet, I think I hear you say. Direction, sound, etc., get by all right.

"The Ruling Voice," as produced, makes interesting seeing, even though the story material has really nothing new under the sun to offer.

This moronic yarn about the adventures of a couple of party girls is well acted, well enough directed and flashily staged and costumed. If you like tripe, sauté, it's your meat.

25 Years as Priest Celebrated at Fete for Rev. D. J. McHugh

The silver jubilee of the priesthood of the Rev. Daniel J. McHugh, C. M., was celebrated last night at a dinner in his honor at the Belden-Stratford hotel. Former Corporation Counsel Francis X. Busch, dean emeritus of the De Paul college of law, made the principal address. The Very Rev. Dr. Francis Corcoran, president of De Paul university spoke of Father McHugh's long connection with that university as a priest and professor. Father McHugh was ordained in 1906 and came to De Paul that same year. He has been the treasurer of the university since 1910.

Early Shoppers Crowd Stores; Buying Is Brisk

Bargains Spur Purchasers, Loop Visit Shows.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Whether Santa Claus in his frozen retreat has not heard of the depression, or whether he is the sort of gent who doesn't think in terms of stock quotations, nevertheless, the crowds which fill the State street stores daily are larger than they have ever been before at this time. So a majority of State street merchants agreed yesterday. And the report was echoed by shops elsewhere.

"Look at our toy department—packed and jammed," one executive said with a wave of the hand toward a chattering swarm of children and parents. "Of coures, our money volume of business is not as high as in other years, but there are more units of sales. And the reduction in volume is not as great as the reduction in prices by percentage."

"Never before have we seen such large crowds so long before Christmas," another said. "Saturday was such a busy day that you could not make your way through the aisles, except with difficulty, in our toy floor. Of course, the unveiling of the giant grotesques on State street was partly responsible. This store has spent more money on Christmas decorations than ever before, put in more Christmas shopping services and more elaborate windows."

"Saturday was the biggest Christmas shopping day of any time that we ever experienced," another store chief said.

"We have had a larger number of transactions, as sales, than we ordinarily do," he continued, "and in every way are feeling cheerful. We are not selling as many expensive electric railroad systems, but the number of toys of all kinds we're selling is larger than ever before."

"Gifts of a practical nature are selling well, of course. But if a child finds that Santa has left her a pair of overshoes, she'll also find he's left her a doll. Families may decide to cut out presents for aunts and uncles, but they are not neglecting the children. And along about the 23d or 24th they'll decide that they might as well give Aunt Sophie some little thing, most likely."

"Say, this is certainly the time to buy sterling silver," one woman remarked. "We might get her a Christmas and wedding gift combined. These candlesticks are lovely."

In the book department a middle aged woman adjusted her eyeglasses, picked up one of the attractive paper bound books which now sell for 50 cents, and said to her daughter, "'Thais.' Wonder what this is. We haven't gotten anything for dear old Uncle Melvin. No, this wouldn't do," she said, dropping it. "This is better—'The Universe Around Us.'"

"Now look, Sara, he'd never in the world know these ties cost just a dollar," a young woman said to her girl friend. "This one's really stunning."

"Thank heaven, here's a doll made out of oilcloth. It will wash," a mother commented in the toy department. "And only $1.25."

"May I see what you have that a person could play store with?" a father asked.

"I'd like a copy of 'On Understanding Women,' please. My husband may not like it but he's going to get it," a young thing in the book section asked.

Set of pencils, pen and ruler in leather case, the case and pencils being stamped with child's name and school, $1. Set of aluminum pots and pans, cake pans, cookie cutters, rolling pin, etc., $1. Box of lavendar and rose sachets, 50 cents. Desk pads, 25 cents. Sponge in rubber dish for desk, 35 cents. Desk calendar, $1.35. "The Home Budget Book" for accounts, 50 cents.

Little girls' rayon silk bloomers, 65 cents. Red and black rayon lounge pyjamas for girls, $1.95. Tiny doll wine glasses and cocktail glasses, a nickel each. Gold fish and seaweed in glass bowl on stand, for doll house, 75 cents. Complete bathrooms, including doll taking a bath, $1. Large chest, a "pirate treasure" chest for boys, $5.

MacMillan Points to Unsung Hero of Peary's Polar Voyage

Recognition of Matthew A. Henson, Negro assistant on Peary's dash to the north pole, was urged by Capt. Donald B. MacMillan, arctic explorer, in Chicago yesterday. Capt. MacMillan has just closed a series of lecture engagements.

Capt. MacMillan praised Henson's courage and ability. "Any white man who had done what Henson did," said Capt. MacMillan, "would have been covered with medals." The explorer revealed that Henson is the only survivor in civilization who stood in the snow with Peary at the north pole. Peary took Henson along with him on the dash in 1909 "because he was indispensable," according to Capt. MacMillan, who was among the white men sent back by Peary before the final dash began.

The only recognition, Capt. MacMillan revealed, which has been given to Henson is a degree from a Negro college in the east. Henson is 61 years old and is employed in the New York customs service, to which President Taft appointed him for life.

A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE

The Bride's Boat

By Coralie Stanton and Heath Hosken

SYNOPSIS.

It was Kit Lenoure's twenty-sixth birthday. She'd worked four years as receptionist in a London family hotel and she felt herself in a groove. When an East African guest offers her a boat in the Grand Africa hotel. Soydoret, Kenya, she gladly accepts. Theo Rahe was there and Kit wanted him more than anything in the world. They'd been in love, but their engagement was broken because of his mother. Kit sails on the "Bride's Boat." Jess North is her cabin mate. Jess is going out to be married. Kit meets Lal Crowhurst, the biggest landowner about Soydoret and a most attractive bachelor. He is attentive to Kit. Jess delights in telling Kit the scandal she hears about Lal Crowhurst and about "the widow who owns him." Kit hears that Theo Rahe has taken up big game hunting in Africa. Jess is married the day after their arrival to Noel Graham, who manages Crowhurst's coffee plantations. Soydoret proves to be a paradise with many serpents and terrible powers of demoralization to weak natures. Kit takes up her duties in the hotel. She arranges a dinner party to be given by the widow, Ariel Grieve. Lal Crowhurst shows Kit through his place, "Moon Fields."

INSTALLMENT XX.

A PICNIC IN AFRICA.

The time seemed to fly. Kit did not see Crowhurst again very soon. In fact, he faded out of the picture of her Soydoret life entirely. They were very busy in the hotel and she had little time to herself. It was the very height of the crowded season, the end of February, the hottest month in the year.

They had had a polo week, which was a great success, but Kit had never been able to get away to watch the games. However, she had been to several dances, one a fancy dress affair, when she had worn the beautiful Chinese lady's dress that old Col. Wimpole had brought her, and made quite a sensation.

In spite of her never seeing Crowhurst, she was aware that people were talking about her. Those two occasions, when she had been seen in his car were evidently enough for the clacking tongues of Soydoret. And somebody had let it filter out that she had been alone to Moon fields on that Saturday morning.

It was Jess who imparted this piece of news to her.

"Of course, dear, I never breathed a word," she said. "And I'm sure Mrs. Grieve didn't. She's not a bit of a gossip and she knows the country too well to talk about anything or anybody. She has told me so. Besides, as you know, she hardly goes anywhere. She has really no friends here except the Man in the Moon."

It was all very jolly and informal.

"And yourself," suggested Kit, whose intelligence sometimes revolted against Jess's affectation of guilelessness. She could not help wondering why Mrs. Grieve cultivated the girl in the way she did.

"She has been awfully kind to me, Kit. It's ever so nice being near her bungalow. You see, my life is really very lonely. Darling Noel works so terribly hard. He's away all day and so tired when he comes in that he doesn't often feel like going to the club. You mustn't be cross with me, dear, for having said that about the Man in the Moon. Only, I heard it from Mrs. Frusser—that you'd been at Moon fields quite alone with him, and were out constantly taking long rides in his car."

"It's a pack of lies," denied Kit, coldly. "I haven't seen Mr. Crowhurst since that morning. There is no earthly reason why I should not go into his house when he asked me. It is the show place of the neighborhood, and I don't wonder."

"I know, darling, but you can't be too careful, all the same. You see, his reputation is so very, very—"

"Thank you, Jess. I'm sure you mean to be kind. But I'm used to gossip, and you don't seem to be."

"There was an awful row, I hear, the other night," Jess changed the subject. "When they gave an evening party at the D. C.'s. I wasn't there. Noel had a horrid headache. Were you?"

"No; I couldn't get away."

"It seems that smart Miss Jenning, who imitates old fashioned music hall singers so wonderfully, sang a song called "The Man in the Moon." It was a parody on a song that used to be popular umpteen years ago, and one verse went like this:

"To give Ritz-Carlton dinners to sweet little sinners
The Man in the Moon comes down!"

Mr. Crowhurst was there, and enjoyed it tremendously. Mrs. Grieve wasn't, of course, because she isn't going to parties yet. But Mrs. Dunbar—starchy old thing—gave poor Miss Jennings a fearful scolding, and as much as told her that she would take her off her visiting list. What do you think of that?"

"I think it's simply disgusting," said Kit, emphatically. Her fleeting glimpses of Crowhurst had been of a very different man.

A day or two later Kit met Crowhurst just by the gates of the club, which she was leaving after going over with a very important telephone message for one of the guests.

"I say," he asked her, carelessly, "tell me a day when you will be free, Miss Lenoure? I mean, a whole day. I want to fix up a picnic and I want you to come."

"Well, I've got the whole of next Saturday off," she said.

"Good! That's plenty of time. This is Tuesday. You know, you said you heard the sound of the water when you were at Moon fields. I want to show you the rapids and waterfalls."

The next morning the invitation arrived by hand. She read the motto below his crest with a curious interest. It was in French—Crains toi-même seulement. Fear thyself only! It gave her a little pang of sadness. In spite of her sanity and sweetness, the snake tongues of Africa hissed in her ears. Were those words only too true? Was it himself he had most of the world to fear?

Later on Mrs. Dunbar rang her up and invited her to go to the picnic on Saturday in her car. It was like a tonic to her jarred sensitiveness. While she had this kind friend, why worry about unkind tongues? As a matter of fact, she would not have worried at all, were it not for certain things Crowhurst had said to her, for his compelling handclasp, for his haunted and haunting glance, for the powerful inward disturbance she felt when in his company.

* * * * *

The drive through the beautiful and interesting scenery of these rugged highlands enchanted her. The cars met at a spot on Crowhurst's property, some fifteen miles away. This was on a high, bleak, grassy plateau, sparsely grown with small thorn bushes. The air was that of a mountain top, and in the golden morning light a vast panorama of hills unfolded itself, with craggy and snow capped Mount Elgon rising above them all.

From here they entered the cars of a small cable railway that Crowhurst had constructed and were taken along a switch back route, the last descent into a densely wooded valley being precipitate and causing shrieks of merriment from the younger people.

They found themselves in a different world. It was a deep valley with a foaming river dashing itself over enormous boulders. The forest was almost untouched. Only here and there rides had been cut through to bring in air and light and clear out the wild beasts. The trees were enormous.

In a glade that had been specially prepared for the occasion the picnic feast was spread. There were chairs to sit on, and tables, heaped with flowers, on which was served every luxury known to man.

The spot itself was lifted out of fairyland. The powerful sun only just splashed its way through the foliage; the moist coolness of the rushing river soothed the head jarred nerves.

There were some thirty people only. Crowhurst had been economical in his invitations and also catholic, as they were by no means drawn from the same set. The Dunbers and the police commissioner and the vicar of St. Jude's represented the official class. There were several young planters, an equal number of girls from various families, properly assorted, the visiting polo team, which had been staying at Moon Fields, other odd people whom Kit had only met casually, and, of course, the Grahams. Mrs. Grieve did the honors of one table and Crowhurst of another.

It was all very jolly and informal, but Kit thought it would have been just as nice, indeed, a little bit nicer, if they had sat on the ground and had not had quite so much to eat and drink.

Doris Advises Girl to Avoid the Back Street Sisterhood

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Dear Miss Blake: After reading your article on unrequited love I wondered what you'd think of my problem. I am 24 years old now and fell in love at 16. Being one of the unconventional type, I naturally fell for one of those puritanical persons. After a year of being sweethearts we parted, remaining friends as he desired. For the following two years I went haywire. Love, live and lie was my motto. The result was that at 19 I had no respect for man, marriage, or love.

"Then, suddenly, I came to my senses and realized that no man was worth it. Putting the affair down as puppy love I decided upon another course to forget. I went to school nights and worked until I was exhausted. Slowly my mind became readjusted. The boys I went with amused me for a short time, but gradually became boring. The only remedy was to change company from time to time.

"My nights became a succession of school work, even up to the present date. I have taken my first love out of my mind and he, in turn, has taken something from my heart that is impossible to describe. It is like one of those war wounds. The infection has been carved out, but the flesh is dead.

"Now, I go about with a divorced man eleven years my senior, who comes up to all my ideals. I am madly infatuated with him. Perhaps you know his type: worldly—taking life as a gamble; happiness as it comes. Marriage has no part in his life and there is only one way with him. The future remains with me.

"Shall I take the step that places me outside the circle, or shall I go on with the ambition to be a writer? I know there is no happiness without love, but all I am hoping for is a fair substitute, which I know he can give until, of course, he tires. At any rate, no matter which of the two steps I take, my chances are about the same. I'm not asking for your advice, Miss Blake, but simply for your opinion, which if you give, I will appreciate and take like a good soldier.—ANNE."

I don't get the idea of your being contented with a substitute, Anne! I don't get the idea of any woman being contented with it, for that matter. It's such a cheap estimate to put on yourself. And since folk—women particularly—are rated largely according to their own personal estimate, why exhibit so poor an opinion of yourself?

"You obviously have brains, Anne. You're just letting them lie idle for the moment. My advice—no, my opinion, I mean—is that any woman is a fool to join the Back Street Sisterhood when there is a perfectly good self-respecting Front Street that is hers for the higher value she puts on herself.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

A Man with Ideals.

"Dear Miss Blake: The boy I love is so bashful he won't even put his arm around me. When he catches me looking at him he blushes.

"BUNNY."

Maybe it isn't bashfulness. Maybe he's one of the really nice boys who doesn't think he has to make a stab at every girl he meets. Let him keep his ideals.

Daily Attention to Complexion, Hair Is Sure to Be Rewarded

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Anything for an argument among us gals. Said the tall one with a telling languor of speech: "I don't believe this thing of creaming and brushing and skin-toning yourself every day is all it's cracked up to be."

Says the speaker for the other side: "Well, I never saw girl or woman yet who stuck to her grooming duties religiously but looked the part."

"But," says Miss Languor, "isn't it because women who do pursue the rites with daily vigor have skin and hair they're proud of to begin with?"

Says her opponent: "Well, maybe there's something to that. But when I put my skin and hair on a regular routine, I look a different gal at the end of the week."

I agree with the advocate of daily care. I never saw girl, or woman either, who made a daily rite of her toilette without looking better. And I've seen 'em as had fine skin they were proud to preserve and 'em as had skin they cultivated into beauty. And 'em as were bringing their hair and skin up to a good standard with consistent daily effort.

But I agree that pride is the ruling factor, in all cases. And that a woman without pride may have other fine virtues. Nevertheless, as a woman on her job as a woman, without pride she is not so hot. I've known women who were kinda careless about their clothes; that is, clothes didn't absorb them to the extent of shopping around for good things, yet they pursued their skin duties with insistence.

And these same women get a reputation, not for careless dressing but for lovely skin, or lovely hair, or whatever their fetish. Which goes to prove that the clothes pursuit doesn't profit a lady quite so much in commendation as beautiful skin, hair and hand pursuit.

However, it is the exceptional woman, not the average, who, establishing that daily pride of face and hair, doesn't show a pride of dress, too. The whole decorative tone of the woman is raised with her devotion to the pride-raising daily rites.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

P. Y.: USE THE DEODORANT powder every morning after the bath. That's what it's intended for. You can, however, use an astringent that will make your task lighter. Better send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for it and the important instructions on it for its use.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Request for Invalid's Chair.

"My husband has been sick for a year and must spend most of the time in bed. We would like to get a chair for him with an adjustable back which could be lowered and a foot rest. He has heart trouble and it is so hard for him to rest comfortably. As no one is working I cannot buy the chair and thought you might be able to get it for me.

"Mrs. A. B."

If you have a chair of this type and it is no longer in use, won't you give it to this ailing man? It would provide much comfort for him.

Chicago Owned Yachts Anchor at Miami Now

OUR Miami correspondent writes that quite a few of the Chicago yachts that use Miami as a winter base are already in the harbor. The I. C. Elstons Jr. are living aboard their Dilarim, and the Norman H. Van Sicklens' yacht is docked at the Miami Beach Rod and Reel club, although the Van Sicklens, who live in Geneva, have not gone south yet. The Kenneth Smiths of Winnetka have sent their beautiful big yacht Cove to Miami for a bit of overseeing, but it will be anchored off Miami Beach by the end of this week when the Smiths open their house there for the season.

The Smiths entertain many of their Chicago and Winnetka friends each winter and this year they are planning a cruise to the West Indies and various other places of interest within cruising reach of Florida.

The Sterling Mortons are not planning to go south until the middle of January, although their yacht Freedom sails tomorrow for southern waters. They also expect to spend some time in the West Indies this year.

Mrs. Frederick H. Rawson returned but a day or two ago from California, as she and Mr. Rawson have not had time yet to make definite plans for their annual cruise on the Gadfly, but no doubt they will go to Florida as usual for the winter months. The Thomas H. Howells have sent their yacht Thalia on to Florida and they will join it about Jan. 1 for an extended cruise. Their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Burns, do not expect to be able to go south this winter—a new husband has to stick close to business these days, you know, and usually a new wife wants to stick close to her husband.

Edith Ware and Son of Charles B. Shedds Wed Today.

Miss Edith Ware, daughter of Mrs. Lyman J. Ware of 122 East Delaware place, will become the bride of Charles Shedd, son of Charles Banks Shedd of 312 South Michigan avenue, today at noon at the residence of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Warfield III., in Winnetka. The Rev. Harrison Ray Anderson of the Fourth Presbyterian church will read the service in the presence of the bride's two sisters, Mrs. Samuel J. Walker and Mrs. Warfield, and their husbands and children, and the bridegroom's father and three sisters, Mrs. Willard Bradley, Mrs. Preston Wells and Mrs. Paul McPherson, and their husbands and children. Mrs. Ware will be unable to present, owing to a recent illness. After the ceremony there will be a breakfast. Mr. Shedd and his bride will reside near the bride's mother, or perhaps with her, after they return from a short motor trip.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Walsh of 210 East Pearson street have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth, to Johnson Couch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira J. Couch of 232 East Walton place and Glen View, Miss Walsh attended the University School for Girls and was graduated from Ogontz. Since her debut last year she has been prominent in the Service club and Junior league. Mr. Couch obtained his prep schooling at Andover and is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Chang on Thursday, Dec. 17, at 4:30 o'clock at their residence, 2450 Lake View avenue. The Friends of China were the recipients of the invitations. Dr. Chang will speak on "Some Observations on Contrasts: The United States, Russia, and China."

Junior Nursing Society Meeting Friday Afternoon.

A meeting of the Chicago committee of the Frontier Nursing society will be held on Friday afternoon immediately after the Symphony concert in the office of the society at 106 East Oak street. Mrs. Mary Breckinridge, who was taken to Lexington, Ky., last week after her disastrous fall from a pony horse, will not be well enough to resume active work as the head of the society until February, but in the meantime the members in Chicago and other northern cities are determined to give the organization every possible help. Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, Mrs. Martin Insull, and Mrs. William A. Pusey are among the active members of the local group. Mrs. John Gardner is executive secretary of the Chicago office.

Three hundred of the more prominent members of the Italian colony in the city will dine and dance tonight at the Opera club at the Maria Adelaide club's annual charity party. Mrs. John Garibaldi is president of the club; Mrs. Enrica Bono, vice president; Mrs. G. B. Bruno, treasurer, and Mrs. Frank Cavagnaro, secretary. The club, composed of 100 women, is one of the oldest Italian women's clubs in the city.

A number of well known patrons of art are interested in the reception to be held on Friday from 4 to 6 o'clock in the Kroch galleries in connection with an exhibit of modern German graphic arts. Charles Fabens Kelley, curator of prints at the Chicago Art institute, will speak and will be introduced by the German consul general, Dr. Hugo Simon. Dr. and Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum, Mrs. John Wentworth, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mrs. William A. Nitse, Mrs. Carter H. Harrison, and Mrs. Augustus K. Maxwell are among those interested.

Items about people who are doing interesting things—Miss Janet Fairbank, daughter of the Kellogg Fairbanks, who has made quite a name for herself in musical circles this season, has another talent which is not so well known, that of chopping wood in a truly professional manner. She spent last week-end up at Lake Geneva chopping firewood, and with her were several of her friends who are expert wood choppers, too. Another young girl who, after making her debut and spending one winter having the regular "deb's whirl," has devoted herself assiduously to developing a promising young voice for professional singing, is Miss Joy Fairman, daughter of the Fred W. Fairmans of Winnetka. She will return tomorrow from a year's study in Rome.

Warren Fairbanks Go East for Dinner to Hoover.

The Warren Fairbanks and their daughter, Cornelia, left yesterday for Washington for a week's visit. They went especially to attend the dinner Vice President Curtis will give tonight for President and Mrs. Hoover.

Mrs. Joseph Leiter has returned from a visit to her daughter, Nancy, at the Fermata school in Virginia, but she will not be here long, for she and her niece, Miss Audrey Campbell, will be off about the 15th for New Orleans, where they will spend Christmas. They will spend January in Washington, going back to New Orleans in February for the Mardi Gras festivities. Mrs. Leiter has given up the idea of presenting Miss Campbell formally to Chicago society, for they really have not spent enough time here this season to make the idea practicable.

Mrs. Harry H. Shearson of the Senecs, who has been ill for the last week, hopes to be able to leave by the end of next week for Palm Beach, where she is to be the assisting managing director of the Palm Beach Playhouse this winter.

Mrs. Somerset Maugham arrived yesterday to spend a week in Chicago. During her visit she will be the house guest of David Adler of 1240 North State street.

Henry Dike Sleeper, who has come from Cambridge, Mass., to be present at the 2d concert given by the Woman's Symphony orchestra at the Goodman theater next Monday evening, is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thatcher Hoyt of 1466 State parkway. Mrs. Hoyt will give a tea for Mr. Sleeper at the Cordon next Sunday from 4 to 7 o'clock. One of Mr. Sleeper's compositions will be played by the orchestra Monday.

Rosa Raisa Gives Score of Opera for Book Auction

The same score of "Don Giovanni" from which she studied when the opera was revived here in 1927 was presented by Mme. Rosa Raisa yesterday for sale at the book auction on Dec. 12 of the Woman's auxiliary of Northwestern university medical school. Mrs. Jacob R. Buchbinder, chairman of the auxiliary, received the gift for her organization. The receipts of the charity will be used for the free dispensary of the medical school.

Restless Dunes Are Memorial to Earl Reed Sr.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The death of Earl Reed Sr. last July was a distinct loss to the art life of Chicago. Mr. Reed was one of the first men to discover to us in etching form the beauties of the dune country. An "in memoriam" exhibition of his etchings has been hung in the Marshall Field galleries and will be continued through the week.

The etchings show many of the loveliest aspects of those great rolling stretches of sand that lie at Chicago's south door. Grass and trees, now swept over by the sand and again freed by the same winds which had captured them, are depicted in the prints. Low lying skies where clouds sometimes scurry, sometimes roll majestically and sometimes saunter lazily, are shown, lovingly, warmly, and carefully. Mr. Reed had an engaging way of treating the elements as visible entities to be caressed and his prints are steeped in an atmosphere of reality even when what makes them is intangible.

Wind and dusk and cloud are intangible, but in these prints become very near and real. Then again the etcher frames a more striking composition and into the confines of pines and sky puts birds, crows on a branch, squirrels on a bough, a heron by the side of still water, various feathered or furred creatures that belong to the solitudes he loved.

A charming landscape is unrolled in "Somebody's Orchard," grass with trees beyond, and, in the foreground, rulers of the whole domain, two bunnies. "November Sky" is a most effective print with a flock of wild ducks whirring through the thick air. "A Northern Pool" is a quiet patch of woodland with water, trees, and a floating duck decorously in charge of the situation. "The Keepers of the Sands" is a splendid portrait of three crows on a branch guarding the dunes that roll away behind them. "Wayfarers" is another etching of great charm with butterflies for subject. The etchings from Lake Louise and Florida and other far places are as sympathetically handled as those nearer home.

The exhibition has already met with great approval and there is still time for those who have missed it to see it. It is very much worth while.

Poor Father Often Is Hidden in the Shadow of the Christmas Tree

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"What would you like for Christmas, Daddy?"

"O, never mind about me—don't spend your money on me—spend it on your mother. I don't care about anything," has been many a Daddy's answer many, many times. But he doesn't mean it. He thinks he does, but he doesn't. Take him at his word and way deep down inside he'll be hurt!

Mother is almost always remembered at Christmas and birthdays' but father is altogether too often left out. Fathers have a way, at Christmas, of being glad to supply the funds that make it a joyful time—and of then stepping into the background.

Mothers shouldn't allow that to happen. They should be careful not to glorify themselves at this season. We too have held before our eyes the image of a mother and a child of long ago, but that should mean to us only an appreciation of the privilege that is ours. It should not lead us to allow the children to center their family gift-giving on their mother to the exclusion of their father, because—"O well, it's different with Daddy."

The planning and working and saving and talking for daddy's present should be kept as much in the foreground as for mother's. I say this because I know of families where the father of the family is cast completely in the shade when the big and little gayly wrapped packages are being passed around.

A man is almost as hurt as a child would be when that happens, though he wouldn't show it for worlds. No man likes to feel that his chief function in his family's eyes is that of provider.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—Secretary of State and Mrs. Stimson were hosts at dinner this evening in compliment to former Secretary of State and Mrs. Frank B. Kellogg of St. Paul, Minn. Among the guests were Under Secretary and Mrs. William R. Castle, Assistant Secretary and Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr, and Assistant Secretary and Mrs. Francis White, all of whom were officials of the department during the Kellogg régime.

Secretary Stimson entertained the delegates to the Bolivia-Paraguay conference for the negotiations for a non-aggression pact at luncheon today in the Pan-American building, and Mrs. Stimson was the guest in whose honor the wives of assistants in the federal departments gave a luncheon.

Secretary of Agriculture Hyde was joined today by Mrs. Hyde, who has been at Excelsior Springs, Mo., for two months. Their daughter, Miss Carolyne Hyde, will come for the Christmas holidays from her studies at Ann Arbor, Mich.

Chic of Hostess Gown Lies in Simplicity

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Jeanne Lanvin has made a jewel of a frock for the hostess, and any lady who is hostess-dress-minded for the coming holidays can do no better than to consider this frock. It is one of those frocks that are designed for Fashion's new hour that partakes of both afternoon and evening. People of distinction in Paris wear these dresses more than they do their formal clothes.

The Lanvin hostess dress of which I speak is shown in the accompanying sketch, and its irresistible charm lies in its extremely well-bred simplicity. The material is Coudurier's new dull velvet, bagheera, than which there is no more beautiful material, and which wrinkleth not nor becometh sleazy.

The blouse is quite high in the back and velvet at the front and back. Sleeves, that are short and extremely baggy kimono sleeves, are made of silver spangled georgette. The armholes are almost waist deep, as you can see by consulting the sketch, and the spangled bands that border these super-armholes meet and cross across the back of the bodice. The belt is black velvet with a spangled buckle.

The skirt of this model has a hip yoke, closely fitted, which descends in front in a full length panel, and the sides and back of the skirt are ever so slightly circular, so that the hem is all little ripples. The length of this frock is to the floor in front and it trails a bit at the sides and back.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The other evening we attended an amateur show in which we knew several of the cast, one being a young girl who is a friend of my daughter's. In the play this girl was arrested by a policeman in the last act and taken from the stage.

Our six year old son, Billy, sat raptured through the performance. The next day, when the girl called up, Billy answered the telephone. Upon recognizing her voice, he became greatly excited, and gasped, "O, how did you get out of jail?" G. A. R.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Dec. 7.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Jr., who sailed on the Bremen for Europe, will return home early in January.

Mrs. James Brown Potter is due next Saturday on the Statendam and will be at the St. Regis before going to Richmond to pass the Christmas holidays.

Note of Pathos in This Year's Santa Letters

"Santa Claus, care of North Pole." Do you remember, Good Fellows, way back when you were very small and wrote that first letter to Santa Claus? Remember the days of anticipation, then Christmas morning, and your dreams came true?

It is a different letter little people write these days from thousands of Chicago homes. It isn't addressed to Santa Claus. It doesn't ask for sleds and skates and dolls. It is usually directed to a newspaper or a charity and asks for nothing except a Christmas basket.

Here is a sample: "I am a girl at A—— school. My father has been out of work over a year and a half. There are six children in all. I am 14. One brother is 13, my sister is 10, two brothers are 7 and 5, and the baby brother is only three months old. We are very much in need. Rudolph needs an overcoat and Bennie a sweater. Please send us a Christmas basket."

Thousands of letters like that are being written this Christmas. It is true that some homes are not as destitute as the letters would indicate. But as all who receive Christmas baskets are investigated, a Good Fellow knows that his basket is going into a worthy home.

On the heels of the large and generous orders for needy families sent to THE TRIBUNE Public Service office at 1 South Dearborn street from business firms last Friday and Saturday, came a stream of Good Fellow offers from all over the city, yesterday. They were all anxious to receive the name of their "adopted" family and the ages of the children so they could start plans for the contents of the basket.

It isn't hard to enroll as a Good Fellow. Call the Good Fellow headquarters [Superior 0100]. The Good Fellow staff will enroll you and provide you with the name of your family. On Christmas eve you will be expected to deliver in person a basket at this family's door. It should contain all the materials for a Christmas dinner, inexpensive toys for the children, and nuts, candy, and warm clothing if you wish.

Only One Ring Bought by Kin of Mabel Normand

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—The only piece of jewelry out of the $100,000 lot of the late Mabel Normand's gems, which passed into hands of her family at the two-day auction starting yesterday, is a ring which was bid in by her sister, Gladys Normand. The ring was listed as valued at $8,000. The sister got it for $1,500. A bracelet containing 518 diamonds and said to be valued at $12,000, brought only $1,688 from a professional jeweler. Jerry Mayer, film business man and brother of the producer, Louis Mayer, paid $3,250 for a $10,000 diamond.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

Farm families, when estimating the returns received from their farms, often forget to measure the food, fuel, and shelter which they receive as tenants or resident owners of tracts of land, according to two women who have completed a survey on this subject.

The investigators have learned that in the state of Iowa the average farm provides 42.9 per cent of the cost of living on the farm. Dr. Elizabeth B. Hoyt and Mrs. Ethyl Cessna Morgan, both at Iowa State college, conducted the survey. Shelter for the family, some of its foodstuffs, and a part of the fuel was found the average return of 147 families which cooperated.

Food was the largest item of the average total expenditure annually for living of $1,624.95. The farm furnished two-thirds of the food supply, which totaled 39.4 of the budget, or $640.86. Clothing accounted for 9.5 per cent of the total living expenditures; housing was worth 18.4 per cent; fuel and light, 6.2 per cent, and sundry expenses 28.5 per cent.

A greater realization of the value of living derived from farming, although not represented in the cash income, is being found in rural areas. The bureau of agricultural economics of the department of agriculture reports that as a whole there is no actual shortage this winter of food or feed on farms at present, "except perhaps in the northern plains, territory, but cash is scarce."

The composite yield per acre of crops is estimated to be about 11 per cent greater than a year ago and about equal to the preceding ten year average. Larger than average crops include cotton, tobacco, apples, and winter wheat, while smaller crops than the average are those of hay, oats, barley, flaxseed, and spring wheat, with corn and potatoes about average.

THREE MEALS A DAY From the Tribune Cook Book

Food Talk.

Corned beef always reminds me of the comic strips wherein it was exiled to the skies and yet was conned by the characters "on the ground" because of its plebeian nature. Between you and me, corned beef is sustenance for any and all nobility, even if it does fall conveniently within the means of our own budgets.

For those of you who work in offices, or are, perhaps, cooking in small kitchenettes, the traditional way of preparing corned beef by an all day's simmering is not possible. So instead get the canned cooked beef which can be fixed with cabbage [and a many other ways] on short notice. Just remove the contents from the can and add it to the cooking cabbage, and continue the cooking until the cabbage is done, and the corned beef is heated through. This won't require more than five to seven minutes of preparation, and it is good.

Corned beef hash may be cooked either in the oven, casserole fashion, or on the top of the stove in a frying pan. The proportions for both are one cup of chopped cooked potatoes to each two cups of chopped corned beef. In baking the dish I use one cup of cooked milk, seasoning of salt and pepper, and a scant tablespoon of butter. These are lightly mixed altogether and put in a buttered baking dish to bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees Fahrenheit] until the top is brown. In cooking over a stove, the drippings or butter for the hash and just moisten the hash with a little soup stock or water. The flavor is improved for some by the addition of a tablespoon of minced onion and another tablespoon of diced green pepper, and then topped, on the serving platter, with poached eggs.

The nice part about corned beef is that it does not necessarily have to be a dinner entrée, but is good at breakfast and luncheon, too. Chilled and sliced, it is a delicious cut for a dinner platter, and is good served with creamed potatoes or a salad for Sunday night occasions. Hot baking powder biscuits, cloverleaf or parker-house rolls with jelly, jam, or honey, make good accompaniments. Offered to family or guests with the last mentioned sweets, eliminates the necessity of dessert.

Two other methods of preparing corned beef follow:

CORNED BEEF CUTLETS.

2 cups of minced corned beef
1 cup of thick white sauce
1 tablespoon of minced green pepper
Salt and few grains of cayenne.

Make a white sauce of one cup of milk, one tablespoon of butter, and two tablespoons of flour. Add to the corned beef and seasonings. Spread the mixture on a plate to cool. Shape in the form of cutlets, dip in crumbs, then in egg, and again in crumbs. Fry in deep fat at a temperature of 380 degrees Fahrenheit for one and one-half minutes. Drain and garnish with parsley.

Yield: Four servings.

SCALLOPED CORNED BEEF.

2 cups of cooked corned beef
1 cup of medium white sauce
1 stalk of celery
2 slices of onion
Buttered bread crumbs.

Cube the corned beef and make the white sauce of one cup of milk, one tablespoon of butter, and one tablespoon of flour. Cook the onions and chopped celery in the sauce. Put the beef in a baking dish; add the sauce, and cover the top with the crumbs. Bake for fifteen to thirty minutes in a moderate oven [350 degrees Fahrenheit].

N. U. BASKETBALL FIVE WHIPS BRADLEY, 33-19

WILDCATS WIN SO EASILY FANS FORGET CHEERS

Reiff and Johnson Lead Attack.

College Basketball

Michigan, 33; Western State Teachers, 27.
Northwestern, 33; Bradley, 19.
Valparaiso, 47; Thornton, 21.
River Falls Teachers, 32; Augsburg, 24.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Northwestern's basketball team, defending Big Ten champion, opened the season last night at Patten gymnasium by whipping Bradley, 33 to 19. At no time did Bradley, Little Nineteen titleholder, threaten the Wildcat advantage, which was established early in the first half and the proceedings were accepted without damonstration by the crowd of 2,500, about half the capacity of the gymnasium.

In reality, the game was merely a public practice preliminary to the conference race, and Coach Dutch Lonborg substituted frequently. Northwestern had a very capable first team on the floor for almost all the first half, although McCarnes, the Wildcat captain and regular center, was unable to play because of injuries.

Lockhart Returns to Game.

Elmer Johnson had been slated to pair with Joe Reiff, Northwestern's scoring ace who led the Big Ten last year, but McCarnes' disability sent Johnson to center. Don Brewer thus had a spot in the opening lineup, while Bus Smith, a regular last season, and Bob Lockhart, were the guards. Lockhart did not play last year except in the early games because of a knee injury. In his sophomore year, Lockhart was a regular guard. Last night Lockhart played cautiously, perhaps because of his injury, but his ball handling fitted well into the team play.

Saul Farber, who relieved Lockhart just before the end of the first half and continued for 15 minutes of the second period, was the outstanding substitute. He played best with a series of short lightning passes to Reiff on the free throw line or to Johnson. Northwestern's defense of its title will rest on last night's starting lineup with McCarnes and Farber.

Johnson's Shooting a Surprise.

Johnson was the scoring surprise last night. He netted five field goals and two free throws in three attempts. Reiff topped this total by a point with five baskets and three penalty tosses in five attempts, but Reiff's scoring was anticipated because of his record a year ago, while Johnson, a substitute then, had been considered a more or less unknown quantity.

Bradley had the first scoring opportunity, but Dale Davis missed a penalty throw on Johnson's foul. Five minutes later Northwestern led, 5 to 0, by virtue of Brewer's free throw and baskets by Johnson and Reiff. Then Ken Stephens gave Bradley its first point. Johnson made the count 7 to 1 on a follow up of Brewer's long shot, after which free throws by Stephens and Mace produced a 7 to 3 count, the nearest Bradley was to come to the Wildcats during the evening.

Mace, after 15 minutes of play, scored Bradley's only field goal of the first half, but by that time Northwestern had 14 points, and Johnson and Reiff raised the advantage to 19 to 8 at the intermission.

N. U. Defense Stops Bradley.

Bradley could not penetrate Northwestern's man to man defense. The Tech team also lacked the speed and height necessary to stop the Wildcat offense, which hit its fastest pace at the start of the second half. Davis' point on Reiff's foul raised Bradley's score to 7, but Reiff, Johnson, and Farber deluged the basket with shots, accumulating a 28 to 7 lead.

Mace connected on one of two free throws when he was fouled by Bus Smith. Reiff then scored on a pass from Farber, and Saul counted a penalty throw for a score of 31 to 8.

With five minutes to play, Reiff intercepted a Bradley pass under the basket to complete Northwestern's scoring. Shortly after he left the game on personal fouls. The entire starting team and Farber were replaced and Bradley, against this opposition, went on to its final total of 19 points.

FIELD BUILT FOR HOMERS GIVES BROOKLYN EDGE

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Hack Wilson, dethroned major league home run king, will play baseball for a Ring next season in either Brooklyn or Boston, with Brooklyn the most likely scene of his comeback endeavor, it was revealed yesterday.

The bidders for Hack's services narrowed down to the two teams yesterday as magnates and managers of both leagues assembled at the Congress hotel for their three day convention which opens this morning with separate sessions of the National and American leagues.

Brooklyn Is Favorite.

Speculation favored Brooklyn for the pudgy one's future habitat for several reasons, not the least of which is the architecture of the Flatbush ball park, which has a right field porch that long has been a delight to Hack in his home run campaigns. The Brooklyn fence is only 296 feet from the home plate, in marked contrast to the right field wall in Boston, which is the same number of feet on the foul line but some 100 feet farther at the spot where Hack usually smacks 'em.

Hack, as a Cub, received his heaviest cheers in the Brooklyn park, but the demonstrations had a friendly interest and would assure his becoming a great favorite in home livery.

It was pointed out that trading relations between the Boston club and the Cubs long has been more cordial and active than between Brooklyn and Chicago, but that the Brooklyn offers made more favorable offers on this instance than those forwarded by Judge Emil Fuchs's organization.

Phils, Reds Drop Out.

At the minor league's meeting in Fort Baden, Ind., last week, it was announced that four clubs were bidding for Hack, Brooklyn, Boston, Philadelphia, and Cincinnati. Yesterday, however, Manager Hornsby said that the Phillies and Reds had dropped out of the negotiations. Rogers gave no specific reason for the withdrawal of the Phillies, but it was said that Cincinnati dropped out when they refused to let loose of Estil Crabtree, a heavy young outfielder whom the Reds could use.

It was further said that President Garry Weil of the Reds had clung to the idea that the Cubs might ask waivers on their fallen star and in that event the Reds would have first call on his services by virtue of finishing last in the National league. Manager Hornsby yesterday scouted the idea that the Cubs would have to ask waivers on Hack to dispose of his release.

Carey Admits It's True.

Max Carey, new manager of the Brooklyn team, admitted that he was willing for Hack, but refused to reveal any of several player offers he has made in the impending transactions.

"While the Cubs have broken off with the Cincinnati club insofar as Hack is concerned, there still is pending a transaction which may send Leo Durocher to the Cubs. Durocher never much of a hitter, Durocher has been one of the best infielders ever since he broke in with the Yankees. Last year with the Reds he played 58 games at shortstop for the Reds before he made his first error, an almost unprecedented record for a regular major league shortstop.

"He could be used at short by the Cubs in the event Stanley Hack, intelligenced third baseman rookie, fails to come through, the versatile Woody English being switched over to third. The only hitch in the Durocher deal is that the Reds, hard pressed financially, have a lot of fancy ideas about Durocher's price tag.

Meeting Opens Today.

Although the meeting will not begin until this morning both Presidents Heydler and Heydler, of the American and National leagues, yesterday revealed some of the topics that are to

Connie Content to Sit Home and Read about Deals

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, is staying home during the annual winter Major league meeting in Chicago this week. He said he would read about it in the newspapers. Thomas Shibe, club president, and Captain Eddie Collins will represent the Athletics at the meeting.

Mr. Mack said that whatever was done in Chicago would satisfy him. He has no players to trade and no particular changes in policy he wishes to become effective.

"I am satisfied with our club as it is now," he added, "and I'm not in a position to trade. The only other teams would want to trade with us I couldn't spare. That's why I'm not going to Chicago. I don't see where it would do any good to be there."

In the WAKE of the NEWS

WILDCAT "FRICTION."

As soon as a winning football team loses a game criticism, queries and second guesses become common. Following Northwestern's defeat by Purdue The Wake received a mild deluge of communications from Purple alumni and undergraduates. They blamed alleged favoritism by Coach Dick Hanley, fraternity politics, friction, and some asked why Moore was sent into the game instead of Russell when Northwestern had the ball at Purdue's 2 yard line.

Coach Hanley evidently believes in The Wake theory that where "whispering" exists it might as well be broadcast. Therefore at the Northwestern University Club of Chicago's banquet to the eleven Saturday night, at which Pug Rentner was elected captain for 1932, Hanley brought the charges right out into the open by asking Reb Russell to tell why he did not play against Purdue.

Russell, in his southern drawl, modestly told how instead of being the great full back he expected to be this year he was a "drawback," as he expressed it, after his injury in the Nebraska contest. This injury was slow in mending. Although Reb participated in the Indiana contest, scoring the only Purple touchdown, and played against Iowa, his injury again was aggravated against the Hawkeyes. He said:

"I was not in practice much because of fear of more bruises. I was not in good shape all week. I sat on the bench Saturday ready but not expecting to be called on. It was disappointing because making touchdowns is what I like to do best. I was a doubtful quantity, however, and Hanley did what seemed best for the team at the time."

All regulars, including Captain-elect Rentner, stressed the cooperation between players and coach and the spirit of team harmony prevailing. This talk went beyond the usual bounds. It sounded, however, too spontaneous to have been staged. If it was staged it fooled us, too.

Now about fraternity politics. While the vote was not announced, we learned from confidential sources that Rentner received all the votes cast for captain except three. Two different fraternities had more than three votes each in the balloting. So much for fraternity politics.

The Wake accepts statements of players and coaches concerning the 1931 eleven. There never was a football eleven in which there were not differences of opinion at some time during the season. Probably the Wildcats were no exception. Possibly there were mistakes of judgment at various times. We have no opinion on that. The Wake does think, however, that all other discussions may be ruled out.

* *

Three Downs.

At this same dinner jocular reference was made several times to the claim that Northwestern had only three downs instead of four when it surrendered the ball on downs to Purdue after having had first down on the Boilermaker 2 yard line.

Detailed notes, including those of THE TRIBUNE'S two staff reporters, and even dictograph reports, show five plays, of which two were penalties not counting as downs, when the oval was taken from the Purple. If these reports, generally accepted, are correct, it was one of the most unusual happenings in football.

Then there was the Purdue wag who retorted to this line of argument that it was a good thing Northwestern did not have another down at the rate they were being thrown back or a safety might have resulted.

The dinner on the whole was free from "moans." Players and their partisans were willing to accept the neutral verdict that Purdue was the better football eleven on Saturday, Nov. 28. This did not change the viewpoint that the Wildcats sacrificed an undisputed title already won for the cause of charity.

RABBIT PUNCH IS BARRED IN RING, BUT ON GRIDIRON?

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 7.—Nobody seems to know why football suddenly became such a murderous game this fall, and I feel that my own ignorance added to the rest will round out the symposium very nicely.

Some of the officials and coaches have blamed everything on the absence of that little mud pie upon which, in other years, it was customary to toe the football for the kickoff, but they were thrown into confusion when it was pointed out that the mud pie was absent last year with no such results.

Mr. Ed Thorpe, who officiates in some of the most important eastern games, then advanced the idea that the unseasonable heat of this fall had weakened the players and rendered them more susceptible to injury than they would have been in brisk weather.

But the southern teams always practice and play in comparatively warm temperatures, and Mr. Thorpe's stipulation that the southerners are accustomed to it hardly covers the objection because experience of hot weather does not establish immunity to the heat. Moreover, some of the most distinguished southern football players are southerners from Chicago and other points north. So Mr. Thorpe's opinion is merely received and placed on file.

How About Rabbit Punch?

One matter which I have not seen argued in connection with the casualty list of 1931 is the rabbit punch as practised in the line play in football. This blow is delivered at the base of the brain or along the neck with the palms of both hands striking simultaneously and it is permitted to the extent that any sideline lawyer could defy any official to show where it is explicitly forbidden by the rules.

Any doctor who is not a football nut will testify that the terrific clout which a big, meaty tackle can deliver on the most sensitive nerve center in the body is capable of causing hemorrhages and eventual blood clots, and, conceivably, paralysis or death. Connie Murphy of Fordham, who died of a hemorrhage, was a tackle and tackles are conspicuously exposed to this kind of treatment. Murphy was injured the last time on a kickoff play, but he had been injured before that and the original damage may not been traced to any attempt on his part tob reak up a flying wedge returning a kickoff. It could have been caused by repeated spanking on the back of the head.

Vigilance Is Limited.

Mr. Thorpe tells me that he does not permit any punishing blows to be delivered at any time and adds that he is especially vigilant against punishing blows anywhere above the shoulders wherein he may exceed the exact letter of the rules to err on the side of decency. Neither, says he, do his colleagues permit any play which is plainly intended merely to cause hurt. But it is hard to divine a young man's intentions when he does something in the quick and confused action of a scrimmage and the officials may miss much rabbit punching altogether.

It is not at all uncommon to hear former football players tell of how they spent pleasant afternoons a few years ago chewing one another's calves and punching one another dizzy all in a spirit of boyish rivalry, and I imagine that such things still go on and will be told of in the same heigh-ho, those were the happy days, spirit the year after next.

Gene Tunney lived in dread of the rabbit punch when he was a prize fighter and he was relieved to escape from the ring rich, sane and not paralyzed, as he will tell you. But the rabbit punch of the ring which Tunney feared and inveighed against as Climbing up after it. Three players, two from Bradley (No. 8 is Koehler, left guard), and one from Northwestern leap into the air and get hands on ball near Bradley's basket in game last night at Patten gym. The Wildcats won, 33 to 19. Reiff and Johnson led the scoring.

Grid Charity Receipts May Reach Million

New York, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The million dollar mark in charity football gate receipts may be touched this week, spokesmen for the President's Committee on Mobilization of Unemployment Relief, said today.

A sellout for the year's greatest charity spectacle, the Army-Navy game this Saturday in the Yankee stadium, would bring in $450,000 of this sum.

The President's committee anticipates the final tabulation on football's contribution to charity will reach $1,500,000 with reports still to be made and games to be played.

The charity funds were given a big increase Saturday when receipts reached approximately $86,500 from Tennessee's victory over New York university, and the Carnegie Tech-Duquesne tie netted $30,000. The total for the day was about $220,000.

Although reports are lacking on many games and actual receipts are estimated for the most part, the following list indicates how the various elevens have contributed to charity, together with a few of this week's prospects:

Western Conference games	$ 150,000
Lehigh-Penn State	8,000
Oklahoma City-Oklahoma	20,000
Missouri-Temple	25,000
Tennessee-New York U.	68,500
Yale round robin	46,000
Carnegie Tech-Duquesne	30,000
Nebraska-Colorado Aggies	12,000
St. Louis-Missouri	10,000
Kansas-Washburn	8,000
Utah-Oregon State	7,000
New Jersey High school tourney	15,000
Bethlehem-Allentown, Pa., High schools	10,000
New York High schools	10,000
Kansas Aggies-Wichita university	5,200

come up for discussion. These included the following:

A proposal that the player limit be cut from 25 to 21 or 23 players.

A proposal that radio broadcasts be either completely barred from major league parks or that stations be charged a fee for the privilege.

The fight for a player limit will be led by some of the second division clubs who contend that the league leaders each year have bench warmers whom they could use regularly. If this complaint were to be satisfied it would be necessary to adopt a plan that would, in addition to establishing a new limit on the active list, rearrange the reserve clauses in baseball law. As now constituted, it would be easy for clubs with an abundance of talent easily to circumvent the purpose of the limit through the intricacies of the reserve provisions.

W. U. Fights Radio.

Among the enemies of radio is the Western Union telegraph company, which is supposed to have exclusive news dissemination facilities in the major league parks. H. M. Heffner, of New York, superintendent of the city news department of the Western Union, will present his company's claim. It is said that the company has suffered great losses as a result of cancellation of sports ticker services in favor of radio.

The minors, too, have a loud squawk against radio and may be given a chance to voice their claims.

N. L. for 3 Umpires.

Umpires who have been somewhat startled by earlier announcements that major leagues would employ two umpires instead of three at each championship game, got some relief when they learned that the National league is frowning on the proposal. The American league holds that two umpires are enough to work any regular season game, but will take the same action as the National league.

The American league will discuss the proposition of adopting the same baseball as that used in the National league last year. It was not held likely that the American would make any change, however.

Each league will meet today and tomorrow and on Thursday the two leagues will hold a joint meeting.

There's a Big Difference.

The contrast between the one which is legally forbidden in the ring and the one which is forbidden only by the arbitrary and extra legal order of the officials in football, and hard to detect as well, is so great that it need not be exaggerated.

When a lineman has been nicely subdued with legal punches it is good strategy to run a play over him at the first opportunity, but the smart quarter back will not direct a regular campaign over him because then the victim's own coach might become aware of his condition and replace him with a fresh man.

The player will not quit, of course, because his coach, who will be a veteran of similar experiences, will hold him up to scorn as a quitter if he refuses to stand up to the same sort of punishment which the coach, thanks to his luck or the solid, nonsensitive character of his own head, endured and pretended to enjoy when he was on some varsity.

I add this suggestion to the confusion of ideas advanced to explain the disasters of the season which has run altogether too long this year. The season should have stopped well in advance of that point at which one head coach, becoming hysterical, permitted one of his players to be placed under the surveillance of a couple of fly cops on the suspicion that he was about to sell out, or had sold out, the signals of his own team to a rival. That was football gone crazy.

Mr. Ruch Owns Chuck Klein; Plans to Keep On Doing So

L. C. Ruch, owner of the Phillies, was one of the first magnates to put in a lobby appearance. He was pointed out to sightseers as the "man who owns Chuck Klein." There is every indication that he still will be pointed out as the man who owns Chuck when he takes the train for Philadelphia next Thursday night.

John J. McGraw came on the scene early. Mr. McGraw wore an overcoat for which he has but brief use. He has spent every winter, save one, in Cuba since 1890.

Indications are that there will be a bigger swarm of "free agents" than the record number which attended the minor league convention at West Baden last week. Among these unattached souls is Mordecai Brown, for whom every one seems to be pulling excepting those who have hiring to do.

Billy Evans fast is becoming the major leagues' sweetest blues singer. Billy wants a shortstop and wants him badly. Manager Roger Peckinpaugh is staying off the mosaic floor to protect his legs against the possibility of having to play the position himself.

The Cleveland Indians admit that they would take Ralph Kress of the Browns. And they may get him. And the Indians figure that Joe Judge has 25 or 30 more good years left.

And, speaking of the Indians, they were pretty sad when Bump Hadley went to the White Sox.

The White Sox still are interested in Tony Lazzeri. But they are going to keep Vic Frasier, whom Joe McCarthy covets.

The active ball players apparently are conserving their resources. Pie Traynor and Guy Bush were the only ones who showed up yesterday.

At the entrance of the hotel where the meetings are being held is a large placard reading, "National Institute on Mercenary Crime." Three umpires came in, saw the sign and one of them said, "Somebody's getting personal."

Among the free agents was Frank Roth, coach of the White Sox in 1927 and years ago a catcher of parts. Frank pulled out his handkerchief and out fell a paper of fish hooks, a skein of catgut, and three shotgun shells. If Frank doesn't get a baseball job, he'll hurry right back to the Wisconsin woods to rejoin his brother, Bobby.

Mickey Doolan, of Philadelphia and Cincinnati, regaled the early arrivals with anecdotes about the way the Phillies did it in 1906.

Cracker Schalk, who has had a baseball job since he was a very small boy, but is now a free agent, is beginning to lose weight.

The social phase of the meetings was opened at noon yesterday when President Lou Comiskey of the White Sox was host to 40 guests at a venison luncheon.

New York Central is called the "water level route" because the main line from Chicago to New York is nearly at sea level all the way.

The rails follow the water level—Great Lakes, Mohawk Valley and the Hudson River. They cut through the Appalachian Mountains two hundred miles from New York City at only 370 feet above sea level.

In the entire Appalachian Mountain system, stretching a thousand miles from Canada to Georgia, there is no other low-level gap.

It is this unique water level route that makes New York Central such a comfortable way to travel from Chicago or St. Louis to New York City and New England.

NAVY USES NOTRE DAME'S SHIFT, SO ARMY IS HAPPY

Cadet Coaches Know Irish Tricks by Heart.

West Point, N. Y., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—Maj. Ralph Sasse and the members of his coaching staff give fervent thanks to Annapolis for adopting the Notre Dame system of attack. Not that Sasse, Daly, Born, Blaik, Ellinger and company haven't a high regard for the Notre Dame hop shift. They have—but army's board of strategy has studied it so carefully these many years that they know every twist and turn of it almost as thoroughly as its South Bend sponsors do. This should be useful Saturday when the Army meets the Navy in a charity game at the Yankee stadium.

Since Army-Navy relations were terminated at the request of Annapolis, the Notre Dame game has been West Point's principal objective. In recent years Army has ordered its campaign with an eye to attaining peak development for Notre Dame.

Scores Prove Policy.

Whether this policy has been worth while may be judged from the scores of the last three West Point-Notre Dame games: 1929, Notre Dame, 7; Army, 6; 1930, Notre Dame, 7; Army, 6; 1931, Army, 12; Notre Dame, 0. These three Irish elevens, have been rated as among the greatest in Notre Dame history. The first two were unbeaten.

The Army squad went on with its preparations for the game this afternoon. Freezing temperatures prevailed, with frequent flurries of snow, but the surface of the field was hard and fast. Two elevens worked out on the scrimmage machines polishing plays, but there was no heavy work for the varsity men. Ray Stecker, Milt Summerfelt, Tom Kilday, and Rosy Carver followed the progress of the plays from the side lines. These four are expected to occupy their regular positions tomorrow in time to get in the defensive drill against Navy plays.

Fields was in at half back for Stecker, Heeb played for Kilday at full back, while both MacWilliam and Elliott were used at quarter back in Carver's position. Hillberg played at left guard for Summerfelt.

Miller Started It.

The squad listened to a chalk talk and lecture on data brought back from Philadelphia by a corps of Army coaches who saw Navy beat Penn.

Hence, Maj. Sasse is thankful that he will not have to devise a special defense for Navy's scheme of attack, such as Annapolis "went Notre Dame' whole-heartedly when Coach Bill Ingram accepted California's offer and was succeeded by Rip Miller, Jr., is all set to parry the sailors' version of the Rockne hop shift.

Sasse believes that his 6-3-2 alignment with the wingbacks a bit outside the defensive ends to reinforce the weakened flanks is the ideal antidote for the Notre Dame attack. "Stop the wide plays at any cost," is the major's motto.

Navy has not been particularly successful under a Notre Dame triumvirate, comprising Edgar Miller, Christy Flanagan, and Johnny O'Brien. That Trio ought to know the combination which unlocks Army's strongbox, for each of the three figured in plays that beat West Point when they wore Notre Dame blue and gold. Navy's colors, incidentally are similar to Notre Dame's.

Miller With Irish in 1924.

Head Coach Rip Miller of Annapolis played tackle on Notre Dame's unforgettable 1924 team. He was line coach at Annapolis under Navy Bill Ingram's regency.

Unhappily for Navy, Miller, Flanagan and O'Brien aren't eligible to play with their midshipman pupils this coming Saturday. The Sailors, heavily stricken by graduation last spring, have been slow in assimilating the intricate Notre Dame system. Beaten by Maryland, Ohio State, Notre Dame and Southern Methodist, this team will have to play better than it knows how, if Army is to be given any kind of an argument, but then, Navy teams have done that before.

Wieman Stays as Line Coach at Minnesota

The shift in Minnesota's official football family next season will be confined to the replacement of Fritz Crisler as head coach by Bennie Bierman. This was made known yesterday by Crisler following a conference at the Sherman hotel with Bierman.

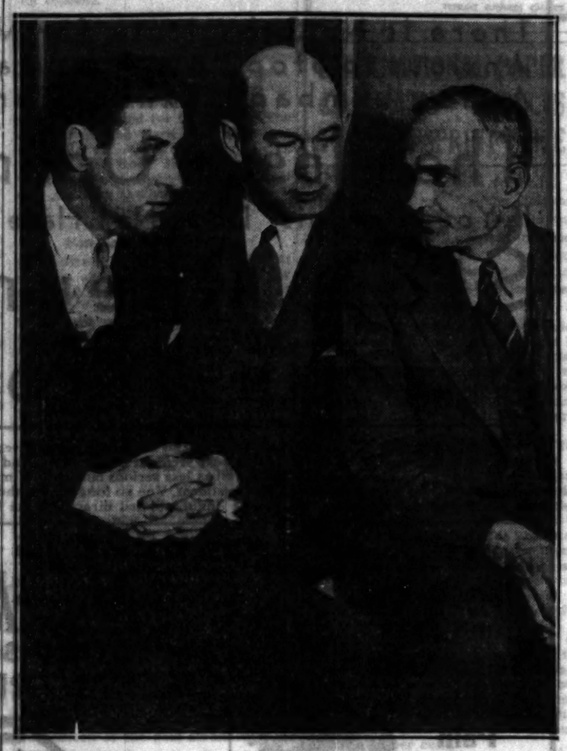
Elton [Tad] Wieman will continue as line coach of the Gopher eleven, and the rest of the present staff also will return to their old jobs. Bert Baston will tutor the ends; Sig Harriss the freshmen, and Frank McCormick will continue as an assistant.

Crisler himself will retain his post as athletic director, a position in which he had served in addition to coaching the football team. Rumors that the former Maroon star would devote all of his time to the athletic directorship were verified last week with the signing of Bierman as head coach for next season.

Bierman, who has brought Tulane university of New Orleans to the threshhold of a national championship, yesterday expressed enthusiasm over his new job, saying he "was very happy to get back home again." Bennie starred on the Gopher elevens of 1913, 1914 and 1915. His Tulane team has been undefeated thus far this year and needs only a victory over Southern California in the New Year's day game at Pasadena to be hailed as football champion of the country.

Bierman will take charge at Minnesota some time next month. As soon as Tulane plays Southern California and he can dispose of his affairs at New Orleans, Bierman said, he will leave for Minneapolis.

AS TWO GOPHERS TO ANOTHER



H. O. (Fritz) Crisler (left), athletic director at Minnesota, and Tad Wieman (center), line coach of the Gopher eleven, confer with Benny Bierman, who will take over Crisler's job as head football coach next year. This season Bierman coached Tulane, which needs a victory over Southern California on New Year's day to clinch a national title.

The victory was Taberski's third in four starts and tied him with George Kelly of Philadelphia for third place in the tournament.

Erwin Rudolph of Cleveland, defending champion, retained his hold on first place in the tournament by defeating Al Miller of Racine, Wis., 125 to 60, tonight. Rudolph won in eight innings.

DEMPSEY FAILS TO KNOCK OUT ANY OF THREE

Duluth, Minn., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight boxing champion, failed to knock out any of three opponents in four rounds of boxing tonight before one of the largest crowds ever to witness a fight card here—more than 6,000.

Dempsey, who weighed 191 pounds, hammered two of the three opponents unmercifully, knocking them down several times while his one round bout with Charlie Retzlaff, young Duluth heavyweight, was a tame affair. Retzlaff weighed 196 pounds.

Dempsey's next opponent, Pat McLaughlin of Chicago, took a seven count early in the round and weathered a severe body attack from the former champion. Szymka Zabuil, Milwaukee, Dempsey's third foe, took a terrific beating during the two rounds. He clung both to Dempsey and the ropes but managed to be standing when the bout ended.

Priest Traps Sparrows to Save Singers

BY BOB BECKER.

Although the English sparrow is a smart bird and soon learns how to take care of itself when an effort is made to reduce its numbers, it can be trapped pretty successfully. The biological survey recommends this method of exterminating the excess sparrow population.

The Rev. Leon M. Linden, pastor of Our Lady of Good Counsel parish of Aurora, has written us of the effectiveness of a sparrow trapping campaign around his church and grounds. He conducts a vigorous campaign against the English sparrow, which has become a pest and a nuisance to the church property.

Song Birds Are Plentiful.

He writes: "On our church property, which has been landscaped to please the general public, the parishioners and 360 school children who romp and play constantly within its confines, we find almost every common songbird, from the little humming bird to the robin and the bluejay.

"Birdhouses are set all over the property, among them two martin houses, which always are occupied by a flock of these wonderful birds. Where the martins congregate, sparrows seem to gather. The dirty little pests that seem to be endowed with a superior intelligence, always keen and alert to danger, are a veritable nuisance.

He Catches Them in Trap.

"But I have managed to outwit them. Setting up a specially made trap, I catch from 400 to 500 each year. Others I shoot with a B. B. gun. Is it a sin, as some people think, to get rid of this pest? I answer, is it a sin to destroy evil? Some people feed sparrows, thinking them little darlings, and I am sometimes criticized for my tactics, but I do not agree, and I keep on destroying these birds. I wish more would help in eradicating these little pirates of the air."

The presence of sparrows in the north during the winter frequently is a factor in the running of winter bird feeding stations for desirable song and game birds. In a booklet issued by the state of Michigan last year, instructing bird fans how to construct and maintain such stations, the bird fan is told to watch out for the flocks of sparrows which are quite willing to steal the grain which has been distributed for quail and other birds.

Notre Dame Head Urges Curb on Grid Injuries

Notre Dame, Ind., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—The Rev. Charles O'Donnell, C. S. C., president of the University of Notre Dame, tonight recommended that "if there is something that can be done to eliminate or at least render more remote, the likelihood of serious injury to football players, it must be done."

He made this recommendation before a group of 1,000 Notre Dame fans at the twelfth annual St. Joseph Valley Alumni club testimonial dinner to the Notre Dame team and coaches.

"On the other hand," Father O'Donnell said, "in our view of the problem, we must stop short of sentimentalism and hysteria.

"Exaggerated statement of the danger is only another evil to correct. I do not mean to be cold blooded, but I do not think we shall do justice to this particular problem unless we view it in relation to the general question of student health and mortality."

Coach Dick Hanley of Northwestern said, "I would prefer winning the Notre Dame game to any two conference championships and that's the way the players feel at Northwestern."

Mayor Harry Mackay of Philadelphia was the principal guest speaker. Other speakers included Major John L. Griffith, Big Ten commissioner; Judge Wally Steffen, Carnegie Tech's retiring coach; Jessie C. Harper, director of athletics at Notre Dame; Jimmy Crowley, Michigan State coach and one of the Four Horsemen, and Junior Coach Jack Chevigny, who introduced the members of the team.

M'Millen's Mat Future May Be His Past Friday

Jim McMillen's future as a ranking heavyweight wrestler will depend upon how he fares with Gino Garibaldi Friday night in the Coliseum.

McMillen was tossed out of the ring by Gino four months ago in Toronto, but professes no fear of the Italian strong man giving him the same dose again. He terms the Toronto incident as one that might happen to any grappler in these days of flying tackles, body slams, and airplane spins.

Jim says he figures on doing a little rough work himself and that he is sure his broken collar bone has mended. Garibaldi, with his victory over McMillen still fresh in his mind, is just as confident that he can subdue McMillen again.

Though they meet in the semi-windup, a one fall affair, their match is attracting as much attention as the feature battle between Rudy Dusek, Omaha Bohemian, and Jim Clinkstock, Oklahoma Indian. Dusek has won five matches in a row here.

Three other matches complete the card. Dick Shikat, former world champion, meets Renato Gardini, Italian; Kola Kwariani, Russian, faces Lou Plummer, ex-collegian, and Pat O'Shocker and Earl McCready, a pair of Irishmen, are the other contestants.

SEALS BUY SHORTSTOP.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Purchase of Ben Sankey, shortstop, from the Pittsburgh Pirates and release of Bernie de Viceroux, also a shortstop, was announced today by Joe Bearwald, president of the San Francisco Missions.

3 MORE LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHTS HERE FOR MEET

Unknowns Add Color to Opening Bouts Friday.

Three more of the light heavyweights who will take part in the championship tournament Friday at the Chicago Stadium arrive today. They are Humberto Curi, the South American who is the picture of the popular conception of young men from the other side of the equator; Billy Jones, Philadelphia Negro, and Clyde Chastain, who now takes orders from Pa Stribling of the Georgia Striblings.

With these on the ground only Mario Campi is missing. The Italian sent word that he will be in tonight or tomorrow. Mario faces Baxter Calmes. Calmes is one of the most promising youngsters Chicagoans have looked at in some time.

Campi Unknown Quantity.

Little or nothing is known of Campi, except that he was good enough, during his fighting days in Europe, to go as far as a match for the Italian championship. He was defeated in a 12 round bout on that occasion.

Jones' appearance here is awaited with interest. He boxes Owen Phelps, the cowboy, on the opening card. Owen has a decision over Larry Johnson.

Jones has a good record among the 175 pounders in the east and thus far no one has been able to make him extend himself.

Friday's five bouts, all of which are scheduled for eight rounds, provide plenty of variety. They range from the hard punchers up to the feather fisted Phelps, with a pair of newcomers, Curi and Campi, adding uncertainty to the program.

Positions Picked by Lot.

The fellows with the punch are Maier, Calmes, Oster and Jones. Dave is paired against a good hitter in Williams, while Oster faces in Harry Eberts a lad who also knows when and how to smack home a deadly wallop.

Despite the announcement by Gen. John V. Clinnin that there is no honor spot on the card and that the first bout will be considered just as important as the final, managers already are endeavoring to pull strings to get their battlers into favored positions. The N. B. A. chief has sole say in this matter and declares that the positions will be determined by lot.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 7.—[Special.]—Long shots came winging home at Jefferson Park here today at such big odds and with such frequency that veterans of the Crescent City racing were hard put to remember another day when a 25 to 1 shot was a short priced winner.

Two favorites, one at odds-on, scored in the course of the afternoon, when Knebelkamp & Morris' Dick Morris captured the fourth, returning $3.20 for $2, and Bill Looney, owned and trained by Ed Haughton, was returned the winner of the fifth at $6.60 for $2.

Rubberneck Pays 81 to 1.

J. Denqueio's Rubberneck, making his second start here since he raced around New York, won the sixth race, returning $165.80 for $2 or more than $1 to 1. In the third event M. Deatherage's Hazel Denson finished in front at $147.60 for $2 or better than 72 to 1.

The curtain-raiser saw the Elktonia stable's Forget Not win at longer than 40 to 1 while the program closed with another outsider in E. E. Major's Robina Seth, which returned $54.80 for $2.

Looney Wins by 4 Lengths.

Bill Looney's race, the fifth, was the richest of the seven, being worth $675 to the winner. Bill Looney was a winner by four lengths from Tony Joe, which was second by six lengths in front of Totem. These three horses were the most warmly backed of the seven that ran. The winner is a gelded son of Freebooter from Laura Miller and ran the mile and a sixteenth over a good track in 1:50.

The race was an easy one for Bill Looney as he was in the capable hands of R. Fischer, who got him off smartly. Inside of the first sixteenth Bill Looney was a length to the good. He increased this margin steadily as the race progressed and was far from extended at the finish. He had 113 pounds up.

Tony Joe Weakens.

Tony Joe was closest in pursuit of the pace throughout, being under 108 pounds. He never could get to the winner in the early stages, although urged, and in the stretch weakened when put to a drive. Totem was well up all the way, but could not menace those in front.

Dick Morris was making it three in a row when he won the six furlongs. This was another front race from start to finish with Jockey C. Landolt never setting the 3 to 5 shot down fully.

BOWEN HEAVIES, LIGHTS DEFEAT TILDEN QUINTETS

Led by Haarlow, who scored 17 points, Bowen heavies yesterday won their third straight practice game by defeating Tilden Tech, 36 to 9, at Tilden. Haarlow, who has been the scoring ace of all of Bowen's triumphs, made four baskets in the first half.

Hyde Park and McKinley broke even in a practice double header yesterday at Hyde Park. Hyde park took the heavyweight game, 13 to 7, while the lights dropped a 20 to 15 decision.

Morgan Park heavies and lights won two games from St. Leo, 13 to 12 and 17 to 14, at Morgan Park. It was Morgan Park's second practice victory in the heavyweight class.

Englewood heavies lost their third straight game yesterday by losing to Calumet, 20 to 16, on their own floor. The Englewood lights registered their third successive victory, 42 to 31.

Crane Tech basketeers took two practice games from Lindblom, winning the heavyweight tilt, 23 to 21, and the lightweight, 21 to 16. Gruning led the heavies to victory by contributing nine points.

De La Salle High school heavyweights lost to the J. J. Engeln team, 17 to 14, in a charity basketball game yesterday at De La Salle gym. St. Bernard defeated the De La Salle lightweights, 19 to 15.

LOYOLA QUINTET TO OPEN AGAINST BRIGHAM YOUNG

Loyola university opens its basketball season Saturday night with Brigham Young university of Provo, Utah, at the Loyola gymnasium. The Loyola team, which last year won nine games of a sixteen game schedule, is intact with the exception of John [Mike] Waesco, who was graduated.

While Coach Leonard D. Sachs will be able to start a veteran team against the westerners, it is more than likely that one sophomore will appear in the lineup. There are six lettermen on the squad this year and four of these were regulars last year.

James Hogan, a 5 foot 1 inch sophomore, appears to be Waesco's successor at guard. He learned his basketball at Loyola academy under Sachs. Joseph [Big Moose] Wagner undoubtedly will start at center, with Bob Schuhmann and Don Cavanaugh at the forwards. Dick Butters is scheduled for the other guard position. Sachs has two other lettermen, George Silvestri, a guard, and Eddie Connelly, a forward, in reserve.

Loyola has seventeen games scheduled this year, ten of which are at home. The schedule:

Hawks Battle Canadien Six Again Tonight

MONTREAL, Dec. 7.—[Special.]—The Chicago Blackhawks will make their first stand of the season against the champion Canadiens on the latter's own ice tomorrow night. The Montreal team is out for revenge. It did not relish the defeated handed it at the Stadium last Wednesday when the winning score was made against it with its goalie, Hainsworth, in the penalty box. It was the first time a goal tender had been ousted from the game for two years in the big league.

TRY THIS! HOW MANY STOCKS SELL ABOVE 100?

Answer Shows Fate of Boom Stars.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Where are the "blue chip" stocks of yesteryear? We engaged in a guessing contest with several stock market observers the other day on the number of common stocks listed on the New York Stock exchange that now are selling above 100. The guesses ranged from five to fifteen, but none could name more than six.

What is your guess?—before you read what follows. Put your finger over the next paragraph, make a guess, name the stocks, and then see how close you came.

The weekly New York stock market table published in THE TRIBUNE yesterday morning reveals that only 10 common stocks now are selling about 100. Moreover, the table shows only 36 preferred stocks selling as high. Therefore, of 1,281 stocks listed on the New York exchange, approximately 40 are selling at 100 or better. We say "approximately" because there may be a very few inactive stocks that appear at rare intervals in transactions which sell above 100.

Look Back at 1929!

Contrast the present situation with that of late September, 1929, when the bull market was at its peak. Then approximately 148 common stocks and 76 preferred stocks, or a total of 224, sold above 100.

The highest priced common stock, Peoples Gas, now is around 141 and the highest priced preferred, Public Service of New Jersey 8 per cent, is around 137. But back in September, 1929, there were 79 common and 72 preferred stocks selling between 100 and 150, there were 27 common and 1 preferred stocks between 150 and 200, there were 23 common and 2 preferred stocks between 200 and 250, there were 9 common stocks between 250 and 300, there were 3 common and 1 preferred stocks between 300 and 350, there were 2 common stocks between 350 and 400, there were 2 common stocks betweeen 400 and 450, there was 1 common stock above 450 and two between 550 and 600 and one above 650.

Here They Are.

Which are the common stocks selling now at 100 or more?—and in most cases their par value is $100 a share. They follow: American Telephone & Telegraph, Auburn Automobile, Coca Cola, Detroit Edison, Homestake Mining, International Business Machines, New York & Harlem, Norfolk & Western, Pacific Telephone & Telegraph, and Peoples Gas Light & Coke.

And which are the preferred selling at 100 or more? They are Abram & Strauss, Allied Chemical, American Can, American Radiator and Standard Sanitary, American Tobacco, Cluett-Peabody, Corn Products Refining, Du Pont de Nemours, Eastman Kodak, Electric Autolite, Endicott-Johnson, General Baking, Hercules Powder, International Harvester, Johns Manville, Liggett & Myers, Loose-Wiles first preferred, National Biscuit, the two National Lead preferred issues, New York Steamship 7 per cent, Otis Elevator, Outlet company, the 6, 7, and 8 per cent Public Service of New Jersey issues, United States Gypsum, United States Steel, and West Penn 7 per cent.

What Is Average Price?

Now, while we are holding a guessing contest, what is your estimate of the average price of all issues listed on the New York exchange?

The monthly report issued by the exchange yesterday showed that the average market value was $23.59 a share on Dec. 1. This compared with $23.37 a share on Nov. 1. The aggregate value of all listed shares on Dec. 1 was $31,705,267,132, compared with $33,246,649,051 on Nov. 1. Thus, the decline in the market last month resulted in a shrinkage of $1,141,381,-916 in total market value. There were 1,281 listed issues, aggregating 1,345,-781,873 shares, on Dec. 1, compared with 1,284 issues, totaling 1,328,588,874 shares, on Nov. 1.

Brokers' Loans Drop.

With the decline in stock prices and shrinkage in the volume of speculation last month, the amount of money being borrowed by members of the New York Stock exchange receded to a new low level. The total on Dec. 1 was only $730,151,505, marking a decrease of $66,116,860 during November. Total borrowings on stock collateral were 2.35 per cent of the aggregate market value of listed shares. This marked an increase of 2-100ths of 1 per cent. A year ago the ratio stood at 4.06 per cent.

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

BY SCRUTATOR.

For forty years there has been a steady decline in the cost of electricity for residence use. The National Electric Light association estimates that since 1913 the drop has been about 30 per cent.

This gradual cheapening of electric energy during the last eighteen years has been effected while prices for other commodities were going in the other direction. The cost of living in 1930, according to United States bureau of labor index figures, was 60 per cent higher than in 1913.

Lowering of rates has been made possible by increased efficiency of generating stations and distributing systems. The power company that supplies tens of hundreds of thousands of homes and many different types of industries is able to smooth out the costly extreme fluctuations in the peaks and valleys of demand.

In 1913 steam turbines and high pressure boilers in the power houses were comparatively small and transmission was limited and expensive. The diversity factor resulting from different types of business had not yet developed favorable operating load factors. The cost per kilowatt hour to the customer was high.

Factor in Evolution.

The greatest single factor in the evolution of the present methods of operation has been the enlargement of the generating plant and the broadening of its field of operation through the construction of great systems of interconnected transmission lines.

The municipally owned plant, with its limited scope, has been denied the opportunity to share in the economies of large scale operation.

A booklet just published by the Iowa committee on public utility information presents figures showing that there has been a decided trend away from municipal ownership in that state.

Experience in Iowa.

Of the Iowa cities and towns which originally undertook the operation of municipal plants 159 since have voted for service from private companies rather than continue their municipal ventures, 115 of them during the last ten years. Sixteen voted unanimously to sell. During this period only six have gone from private to public ownership.

The committee presents a table of rates indicating that residents in those communities which had both plants and distribution systems and went over to service supplied by private concerns enjoyed average rate reductions of from 32.4 per cent to 42.2 per cent, depending upon the amount of current used.

Reductions averaging from 23.4 per cent to 36.3 were effected in those communities which had municipal distribution systems only and sold them.

Comments by Leaders.

The booklet contains a brief account of the experiment in each community together with comments by local newspapers, city officials or leading citizens.

These are samples:

"The reason for selling," said the Alvord Register, "is that the lines are getting old and sooner or later there will be great damage done to them, and as there is no sinking fund for the repair of these lines it would be necessary to bond for the money. The earnings of the lines have been but very slight."

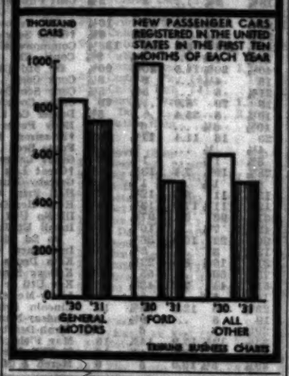
The Little Rock Free Lance said: "We have had all the cream we will ever get from the business. From now on it is going to be more of an expense on our hands."

Forecasts Tax Increase.

The Breda News said: "The present plant is about worn out and entirely too small, and if the election does not carry it will mean that we will have to go back to the kerosene lamp and turn the washing machine by hand, or float a bond issue of eight or ten thousand dollars to install a new plant. That will naturally mean an increase in taxes, and who wants to pay more taxes?"

"The sale of our municipal light plant," wrote Mayor T. W. Miles of Corydon, in an Iowa paper, "enabled us to retire two-thirds of our bonded indebtedness, to receive better service at 30 per cent less cost, gave us a substantial new taxpayer, and relieved us of a constant source of grief."

GENERAL MOTORS SALES IN NUMBER COMPARE FAVORABLY WITH A YEAR AGO



INTERNATIONAL PAPER COMPANY REDUCES 1932 NEWSPRINT PRICE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 7.—The International Paper company today that its newsprint price for 1932 will be $53 a ton in New York and Chicago, a reduction of $4 a ton under the quotation in a price schedule announced last spring.

All leading newsprint companies were expected to make similar cuts in their 1932 prices, while the Great Northern Paper company, which recently cut $2 a ton to $55, probably will make another reduction to bring its quotation in line with the general level.

The $53 quotation is fixed as the maximum price for next year, but in view of the decline of Canadian and Scandinavian exchange the newsprint market is likely to remain unsettled. In some quarters a further cut in prices to around $50 a ton is predicted.

The International Paper company, in an effort to stabilize the price, last spring fixed a schedule of maximum prices for a period as far ahead as until 1936, ranging from $57 to $62 a ton.

Since then, however, England's departure from the gold standard, followed by depreciation of Canadian and Scandinavian exchanges, among others, introduced a new element into the paper price situation. Canadian dollars have been selling at a discount of 10 to 15 per cent.

Realty Bondholders Urged to Make Prompt Deposit

BY AL CHASE.

Unless the balance of the outstanding bonds of the 800 Michigan avenue building, in Evanston, are deposited promptly with the bondholders protective committee, T. E. Williams, secretary stated yesterday that it will be necessary for that body to proceed with the sale of the property under foreclosure proceedings. Non depositing bondholders, he stated, will in that event receive only their pro rata share of the proceeds of the sale.

"On October 25, 1930, and again on November 15, 1930, the committee advised all bondholders by letter giving facts and figures indicating that a plan of reorganization could be affected provided all bondholders would immediately deposit their bonds," said Mr. Williams. "The results were and still are very dissapointing, although the committee may still use the plan provided the balance of the outstanding bonds are deposited at once."

Original Issue $300,000.

The original issue of bonds was $300,000, underwritten by the Equitable Bond and Mortgage company. The amount now outstanding in the hands of the public is $235,500. This issue was called for deposit with the Chicago Title and Trust company, depositary, by the Bondholders Protective committee because of default in payment of principal and interest.

After calling the bonds a bill of foreclosure was filed to protect the interests of the bondholders and some time afterwards a receiver was appointed to manage the property, collect the rents, pay the operating expenses, and accumulate the net revenue for the bondholders, all under orders and supervision of the court.

The 800 Michigan Avenue building is a three story English basement brick structure containing forty-one apartments. The Bondholders Protective committee is made up of the following: Holman D. Pettibone, chairman, president of the Chicago Title and Trust company; F. J. Stebbins, Stebbins Hardware company; H. M. O'Brien, president Chicago Fire and Marine company; G. L. Hughes, business manager of the Jacksonville state hospital, Jacksonville, Ill.; W. M. McGuire of McGuire & Orr, real estate; H. E. Devereaux, vice president of the Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank; N. H. Dosker, Louisville Trust company, Louisville, Ky., and C. A. Mueller, cashier of the City Trust and Savings bank, Kankakee, Ill. Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin are the attorneys.

Park Deming Apartments.

Preliminary steps in the reorganization of the Park Deming apartments, at 633 Deming place, were taken yesterday when the property was transferred by quitclaim deed by the Park Deming Building corporation to Benjamin L. Weissman, who took title for the bondholders' protective committee. B. L. Rossett is chairman of the committee and Glen Fischbach is secretary. William C. Iwert was attorney for the Park Deming Building corporation, of which Raymond Gregori is president and Alvin C. Berger is secretary.

The Park Deming building is a three story structure containing 36 apartments, occupying a site 50x174. It was financed by a $120,000 bond issue by the Straus Brothers' Investment company.

New York, Dec. 7.—There were too many "ifs" on the calendar for the speculative fraternity to start anything today. The chief concern was over the President's message to congress tomorrow. Most Wall street folk hope and believe that the message will contain a number of constructive suggestions, but just how much weight these would carry with the new congress with its "revised" personnel is still another matter.

Then there is the railroad wage conference in Chicago and a number of

U. S. TREASURY OFFERING TERMS WIN WALL STREET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 7.—Pleased with the terms of the treasury's plan to refinance December maturities with an issue of $1,300,000,000 of short term notes and certificates, Wall street today anticipated oversubscription of the offering within the next few days.

Bankers and dealers expressed complete satisfaction with the coupon rates of 3¼ per cent on $600,000,000 of one year notes, and 3 per cent and 3¾ per cent on the offerings of $400,000,000 of nine month certificates and $300,000,000 of six month certificates.

It is pointed out that the new financing will result in an increase of only $300,000,000 in the total of short term debt, and that this amount will be readily absorbed.

STERLING DROPS 6¼C TO A NEW LOW OF $3.25

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 7.—Sterling exchange broke to a new low since the suspension of the gold standard today at $3.35 and closed the day at $3.26, off 5¼ cents from last week's final price. The decline, like those of last week, was described by bankers as being due to no special causes. Apart from the break in sterling further weakness in the mark, which fell 38 points to 22.87 cents, was the principal feature of the exchange market.

The decline in the mark followed a drop of 51 points in the last three trading days of last week and carried the German exchange to the lowest quotation since Oct. 14, last. Wall street ascribed the continued weakness in the mark to uncertainty over the future course of German financial and political affairs. The statement of Adolph Hitler, German fascist leader, last Friday, asserting that his party favored the recognition of private debts, but the repudiation of reparations, while it had a favorable effect on the market for German bonds, only served to emphasize fears of a German political upheaval in the foreign exchange market.

CHICAGO STOCK TRADING QUIET; PRICES FIRMER

Grigsby-Grunow Reports $1,060,626 Deficit.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Quotations on leading shares on the Chicago exchange yesterday represented only the slightest change from last week's closing prices, reflecting the low ebb which speculative activity of both professional and public character has reached here. With transactions involving only 61,000 shares to record, the ticker tape moved at an extremely slow pace throughout the day. What slight changes in values which developed were mostly on the up side.

The day's news brought nothing which could induce the professionals to discard the caution which has characterised their operations during the last two weeks. At best the day's proceedings had little significance except to show the feeling of uncertainty which besets speculators both amateur and professional.

Discount Developments.

Selling at 1¾, Grigsby Grunow stock had discounted most of the unfavorable developments recounted in the statement issued yesterday to stockholders. The report did not cause a ripple in the market. B. J. Grigsby, president, told stockholders that the company had a net deficit of $1,060,626 in the first quarter of the current fiscal year which ended Aug. 31. Before deducting depreciation charges and reserves the company had an operating profit of $4,687 for the period. Depreciation allowed amounted to $606,263, while contingent and other reserves came to $460,000. Inasmuch as these latter items were book losses, the working capital position of the company was not impaired by the loss, Mr. Grigsby explained. In the comparable period last year the company earned a net profit of $312,813.

Current assets at the close of the quarter totaled $6,564,091, including cash of $1,721,404, as compared with current liabilities of $1,967,193. This compares with $7,998,841 and $3,964,820, respectively, on May 31 this year.

Curtail Expenses.

Overhead expenses have been drastically curtailed, Mr. Grigsby stated, and the management is striving to maintain a position which will enable the firm to take a leading part in refrigeration and radio manufacture when general conditions improve.

Automotive accessory shares were quiet and comparatively firm, although Bendix, one of the favorites, sold off slightly on moderate volume of trade. Cord was fairly active but traders apparently took little stock in the rumor that Auburn Automobile, a Cord affiliate, will take over Graham-Paige.

Associated Telephone Utilities notified stockholders yesterday that the periods during which the series A and B stock purchase warrants may be exercised have been extended. The series A warrants, which entitle stockholders to buy common stock at $40 a share have been extended one year to Dec. 31, 1932. The series B warrants giving holders the right to buy common at $50 a share have been extended to Dec. 31, 1932.

GRAIN TRADERS MARKING TIME; PRICES EASIER

Await Developments in World Situation.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The grain markets are regarded as in a rut and await further developments in the world's situation. Bulges yesterday ran into selling orders, while the breaks brought in support, holding wheat within a range of ¼@⅝c. December showed the most strength, and closed at 55⅛@55⅝c. March was 56⅛c; May, 58⅜@58¾c, and July, 56⅞@57c at the last.

Relative easiness in the Liverpool wheat market was responsible for local and commission house selling of futures early, as the December delivery there went to 2⅝c under Chicago, the finish being at 53⅝c on the basis of $3.23 for sterling.

There is a rather pronounced tendency in some quarters to ignore the Liverpool markets, as futures there are not regarded as a true standard of values owing to the poor quality of cash grain which can be delivered. Some observers anticipate there will be a spread of 5c or more between the two markets before the end of the month. Liverpool closed ¼@⅜c per bu lower.

Cash Wheat at Premium.

Cash wheat continues in good demand in all of the leading markets and is selling at a premium over the December, with recent sales of high protein grain as high as 35c over the future at Kansas City. In some quarters there is a belief that were the federal farm board to announce it would not sell any of its stock in the domestic market it would have a very pronounced effect, especially in the northwest, and would assist farmers in that section to secure a much better return for their abnormally small crop.

There was some buying of wheat futures at Winnipeg during the day for continental account, but the foreign demand for Manitobas was slow with sales of around 250,000 bu estimated in all positions, mainly from Vancouver. Winnipeg futures finished ¼@⅝c lower with December at 50¾c to Canadian currency, which was quoted around 15⅛ per cent discount. Buenos Aires was ⅛@¼c lower at the last with December at 41⅝c.

A decrease of 4,145,000 bu was shown in the domestic visible supply the last week, with total stocks of wheat now placed at 217,654,000 bu, against 191,141,000 bu last year. No shortage of consequence was received in the southwest over the week-end, and pessimistic reports are being received from the dry areas in the western third of Kansas.

Cash Corn to Duluth.

A more friendly feeling toward the buying side of corn was in evidence yesterday, with shorts taking hold on the breaks, and there was also buying by commission houses and locals. A charter was made for 150,000 bu cash corn to Duluth for shipment of grain from Chicago, an abnormal condition, as parts of Iowa, Minnesota and South Dakota usually take care of the demand from that section. According to the gossip the shipment will be made from grain taken in on December contracts.

Corn futures held within a range of around 1c and closed unchanged to ⅛c lower with December at 36@36¼c; March, 39¼@39⅝c; May, 41⅛@41⅜c, and July, 43⅛c. A decrease of 71,000 bu in the visible supply made the total 6,624,000 bu, against 6,976,000 bu last year. Buenos Aires closed 1⅛@2¼c lower with December at 27¼c.

Little interest was taken in the oats market, which in the main reflected the action of corn and closed ⅛@⅜c lower with December 24⅛@24¾c; May, 26⅜@26⅝c, and July, 26¼c.

LIQUIDATION IN BUTTER

Butter and egg futures dropped abruptly on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, butter closing $1.00 to $2.40 per car and eggs $2.75 to $3.05 per car. Potato futures were unchanged to 1c lower, interest in Green Mountains showing somewhat of a revival. Sales: butter, 1,600 tubs; eggs, 6,664,000 doz; potatoes, 980,000 lbs. Deliveries, eggs, 4 cars. HOGS—Prime western lambs ..... $5.25@6.25
One month ago ..... 4.75@6.25
One year ago ..... 8.15@8.50

Top yesterday, $6.25; average, $5.65.

Best grades of hogs sold freely at 10@20c higher prices yesterday, the choice top and general average showing 15c gain at $4.45@4.35, respectively. Underweights and pigs were a drug on the market and stopped the trade again, the rank of file of 100@125 lb averages going to local slaughter at $3.25@3.50. Only a few 140@160 lb light lightweights sold $4.00@4.25.

All hogs weighing over 180 lbs were in good demand at the higher level of prices, with the available supply. Freight rates and directs had been deducted from weights hardly equal to requirements of small packers, city butchers and shippers. Chicago packers are handling large numbers of hogs these days. In the 70,000 receipts yesterday were 49,000 billed direct to packers from country points. The proportion of directs was the largest on record. In Dec. 16, 1929, receipts at 77,890 carried 49,337 directs, the record to date. Receipts are running short of a week ago. Reports indicate 82,000 as right for five markets for today, against actual arrivals of 111,300 last Tuesday. Last week's receipts were the largest since 1918.

May Contracts, $5.75.

Light weight hogs for next May delivery were sold on the futures market yesterday at $5.75. Medium weights for December sold at $4.40. Best bids and offers in other months were steady with the close of last week.

Last week's sharp break in the rank of file of cattle brought an abrupt decrease in supplies at all leading market centers and a slightly stronger undertone is in evidence in some parts of the trade. Medium and weighty steers sold to the best advantage yesterday, but the steers of "show" type that have been topping the market lately were not oresent and the $13 price went down to $12.00, the best Monday peak in more than a month. Choice 1,373 lb averages brought the price. The spread in prices is still wide and is responsible for the unevenness of the trade. Buyers and sellers are often far apart in their view points.

Few sales yesterday were made above $10.50 and common steers of real merit ranged downwards to $6.25. Cattle receipts at Chicago yesterday at 17,000 compared with 29,000 the previous Monday. Only one Monday has been smaller since early in August. Butcher stock showed strength and some heifers that ranged most on last week's close, scored gains of 25c. Calves ruled steady to 25c higher, gaining strength in sympathy with the lamb trade. Little action was reported in the stocker and feeder division of the yards.

Eastern Demand Better.

Better outside buying was the feature of the lamb market yesterday and with colder weather injecting strength into the local wholesale trade for fresh lamb, eastern interests found local packers spirited bidders for best grades of slaughter stock. Outsiders paid up to $6.25 for best fed westerns. But butchers also paid that figure. While bulk of good to choice grades went to local houses around the $6.00 mark.

The advance brought prices to the highest level in more than a week's time and the close was active at the upturn. Aged sheep and yearlings were mostly steady. Country demand for feeder stock continues fairly brisk with upwards to $4.75 was paid for top grades of thin western lambs yesterday.

Price changes in futures were narrow and unimportant, with the market closing net unchanged on all positions, except March, which was 1 point net higher. Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The nationally known Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Household's rate on all sums above $100 is almost one-third lower than [illegible] maximum permitted by the small loan law. We voluntarily established this low rate in 1924 and our customers have benefited ever since. This rate remains the same until the loan is paid off. It does not increase as the unpaid balance decreases.

FOR EXAMPLE:
The average monthly cost of a $200 loan repaid in 20 equal monthly payments is $2.63. This is the lowest cost in Chicago.
